SCHOOLS 'BROKE,' SAYS BOARD

MAN, WIFE AND FOUR CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE

TODAY

Republicans Will Think.
The Pot Is Boiling.
A Mixed Marriage.
No Oceans; No Islands.

In New Jersey the victory of Governor Moore backed by Mayor Hague of Jersey City, one of the strongest leaders in the United States, will make the Republican administration think.

The state that President Coolidge carried overwhelmingly now goes to the Democratic party, led by Frank Hague, with the enormous majority of nearly 50,000 for Moore, a Democrat. Republicans will meditate on the fact that Moore went in on a "wet" platform, promising to fight for modification of the Volstead act.

In New York, with its big "radical element," the Socialist vote was microscopic compared with some other years, less than one-tenth the Republican vote, and that was tiny.

Dr. Thomas, Socialist candidate for mayor, who says "the time is not ripe for a strong Socialist party,' is right. When wages are high and times good "social theories" lose their charm.

This writer, now paying $13 a day to a large crew of bricklayers, once reported a violent strike with street car drivers trying to get $1.50 a day and keep it all for themselves, not paying a commission to the boss. High finance, to be happy, should pay good wages.

They dont let the lions and tigers, acting in Hollywood, get hungry.

A real day in Wall Street yesterday, almost 3,000,000 shares sold. When the market opened there were buyers asking for 6,000 shares of one stock; not a share was offered. Something change on the exchange.

The great financial pot is still boiling violently, and the fire seems to get hotter. Some will get scalded, others will get their share of the rich financial soup.

LEARN FACTS ABOUT FORESTRY

American citizens have before them a specter of an America without wood. As a result country-wide attention is focused on the forest problem.

Three times as much timber is cut each year as is allowed to grow. The Forest Service is authority for the statement that two-thirds of the timber which is cut is wasted.

Lumbering is second only to agriculture among the basic industries yet the average person knows little about it.

Our Washington Information Bureau has for free distribution an illustrated booklet entitled "Our American Forests." It explains the critical situation of forestry and states what the new forest movement proposes to do about it.

Inform and entertain yourself with this romantic story of American trees. Send in the coupon below and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage.

16-YEAR-OLD GIRL ONLY MEMBER OF FAMILY TO ESCAPE AS HOME BURNS

Heavy Rain Saves Village as Flames Sweep Buildings

ST. REGIS FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 6.—This northern New York village was threatened with destruction by fire last night and early today when flames, breaking out in the St. Regis Falls high school, spread to the First Methodist Episcopal church and parsonage and endangered two Main street blocks The blaze is attributed to a defective chimney. The loss is estimated at more than $75,000.

With the village fire pump out of commission, only a heavy downpour of rain saved the entire village from possible destruction.

DAUGHTER JUMPS THROUGH WINDOW

Position of Bodies Indicated Husband Attempted to Lead Woman and Tots From Bungalow.

BALLSTON SPA, N. Y., Nov. 6.—A man and his wife and four of their five children were burned to death here today when fire dstroyed the home of George Kemp.

The dead:
GEORGE KEMP, 40.
MRS. MARY KEMP, 38.
VIOLA ALLEN, 14.
MYRTLE ALLEN, 9.
CAROL ALLEN, 10.
MARCIA KEMP, 11,

Another Child May Die.

The Allen children are Mrs. Kemp's by a previous marriage.

The only person who was in the house when the fire started and who escaped death was Beatrice Kemp, 16, and she was badly burned and may die.

The Kemp home was located on Church street, just outside the village line on the Schnectady-Ballston road. It was near a small garage operated by Kemp.

The girl who escaped jumped through a window and ran to the home of a neighbor. Her clothing was in flames and but for the quisk work of Walter Bentley, a neighbor, she would have been burned to death.

Burned Beyond Recognition.

Five of the dead, their bodies burned beyond recognition, were found huddled in one room, from the position of the bodies, Dr. Robert C. Castree, coroner, said he believed Kemp had been trying to lead his wife and children safely from the house when they were all overcome.

Firemen found the wooden bungalow a roaring furnace when they arrived. They strung a line of hose more than a quarter of a mile from the village limits to play water on the structure.

The body of one of the children was found in a separate room. It also was burned beyond recognition.

SOUTH SUFFERS AS CLOUDBURST EXACTS TOLL

Towns Isolated and Crops Damaged in Louisiana.

EAST TEXAS HIT

Train Service Disrupted, Bridges Washed Out, Roads Impassable.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 6.—Towns isolated, heavy crop damage, train service disrupted, dirt highways impassable and both railroad and highway bridges damaged, was the toll today of rainfall that was virtually a cloudburst Thursday over a wide area in north Louisiana and parts of east Texas, according to reports received here.

Washouts on many railroads caused cancellation of trains and forced wide detours over other lines.

The Texas and Pacific, Rock Island, Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific, Santa Fe and the Missouri Pacific were the roads hardest hit.

Rice and Cotton Loss Heavy.

Damage to cotton remaining in the fields in the deluged area will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Practically none that remained can be saved, it is said.

Heavy damage was caused in the Beaumont, Texas, district, where about 60 per cent of the rice crop remained in the shock. It was estimated that practically none of the rice remaining in the fields can be saved as much of it had begun to sprout. Railroad, interurban and automobile traffic in that city and within a radius of 20 miles was paralyzed by rain averaging two inches an hour for nearly three hours. Storm sewers were un-

Donahey Urges Truce Day Observance and Red Cross Support

COLUMBUS, Nov. 6.—Proclamation was issued by Governor Donahey asking Ohioans to observe Armistice day, Nov. 11, and to support the work of the American Red Cross by enrolling as new members or renewing membership in that organization during the ninth annual roll call during the two weeks beginning on Armistice day.

"Humanity owes a great debt to the red cross workers of the world", reads the governor's red cross proclamation. "The task is never to burdensome and no place is too remote, or too hazardous for their undertakings. Extreme sacrifices have been made in many instances."

Governor Donahey, in his Armistice day proclamation asked Ohioans, "so far as practicable", to observe Armistice day as a half holiday.

Lake Steamer, With 40 Men Aboard, Is Adrift In Gale

Hamonic is Storm Victim Off Caribou Island, While Another Vessel is Crippled in Lake Huron.

CALUMET, Mich., Nov. 6.—Coast guards here today are battling a fierce gale in an effort to reach the disabled steamer Hamonic, adrift, with a crew of 40 men, about 25 miles off Caribou Island. Radio dispatches from the vessel broke off in the middle, leading to the belief that she is in serious straits. Another steamer, the William Roberts, is reported adrift off Alpena, in Lake Huron.

Dispatches from other lake vessels report the steamers G. A. Tomlinson and Robert J. Paisley, standing by the crippled vessel unable to approach because of the heavy seas. They are waiting recession of the high winds to take the crew from the Hamonic.

The position of the Hamonic, as nearly as could be ascertained from the interrupted distress signals, was about 25 miles off Caribou Island, north of Grand Marais.

Scores of vessels, caught in Lake Superior in the roughest weather of the season, ran for cover. Many took refuge in the lee of Keweenaw port, while others gained refuge in artificial landlocked recesses along the shore. The Eagle Harbor coast guard station reported at least 12 of 30 vessels on the lake had passed that point safely and had reached the channel leading to Lake Huron.

The plight of the Roberts is also serious, according to word received here. Stripped of her propeller, she is wallowing in the trough of great waves in Lake Huron. Several othor freighters have abandoned their course in Huron, according to dispatches.

The passenger season of the Hamonic, one of the largest steamers on the lake, was ended and Captain J. D. Montgomery, with a crew of 40, was taking the vessel to winter quarters when caught in the gale.

PSYCHOLOGISTS AND PSYCHIATRISTS BATTLE IN BLAZER "LOVE MURDER"

Colorado Demands Life Imprisonment for Former Salineville "Country Doctor" Held for Chloroform Slaying of Daughter.

BY MICHAEL F. DACEY

LITTLETON, Colo., Nov. 6.—The battle of psychologists and pyschiatrists that is expected to determine the innocence or guilt of Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer, 60-year-old "country doctor," formerly of Salineville, O., on trial in district court here for the chloroform slaying of his 32-year old imbecilic daughter, Hazel Ingrit Blazer, will get under way today.

Selection of the jury to try the "old fashioned" physician was expected to be completed soon after court convened, and Joel Stone, prosecuting attorney, will immediately launch his opening statement. The youthful, aggressive prosecutor will declare to the jury that the defendant will be proven to have been of sound mentality when the so-called "murder for love" occurred in the Blazer bungalow in Englewood last February and, while he will not demand the death penalty for the accused slayer, he will seek a verdict of first degree murder with a life imprisonment sentence.

Hits "Soulless Girl" Claim.

The state, according to Stone, will declare that the "soulless girl," who was a mis-shapen, helpless invalid for 32 years, was a human being in all that the phrase implies; that she did have a soul, and was not only entitled to live until called to the Great Beyond by some power other than human, but that she enjoyed life despite her imbecilic condition.

In further outlining today his theory of temporary insanity in the form of "psychial automatism" that will be the foundation of the defense, Lewis De R. Mowry, chief counsel for Dr. Blazer, declared the defendants condition

Girl With "Date" Does Not Wait on Cleveland Traffic

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—Time and tide on no man wait, neither does a pretty girl with a "date" wait on traffic signals, Assistant Traffic Commissioner Martin Blecke learned today when he questioned a young lady summoned for "jaywalking" on busy Euclid avenue.

Taken to Central police station for walking against the traffic signal, she explained that she had an "appointment."

"I'm getting later all the time," she added somewhat impatiently. Blecke lectured her on the perils of disregarding traffic signals, then sent her to keep the "date."

MONEY CHEST WILL BE EMPTY DECEMBER 1, GASTON WARNS

Enough Funds on Hand to Meet November Indebtedness.

SEEK TAX CHECK

Plan to Ask County for Advance of Apportionment.

The East Liverpool district public schools will be "broke" December 1.

Because of a shrinkage of approximately 10 per cent in tax collections there is a shortage of about $27,000 in the 1925 budget. Consequently school funds will be depleted at the end of the present month, according to Emmett J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer of the board of education.

Clerk Explains Situation

Gaston, at last night's session, reported a balance of $35,374.29 in the school fund. This money will be used to meet the November payroll and to liquidate bonds, interest charges and current bills.

Gaston explained that the financial embarrassment was due to the decrease in school funds available from taxes. The budget placed the district school's expenses at approximately $317,000. County authorities a year ago fixed a tax rate which would bring in this amount of money, but the fact that approximately 10 percent of the tax payers are delinquent each year was not considered. As a result, the schools, instead of receiving $317,000, were given only $290,000, leaving a deficit of about $27,000.

Additional Deficit Looms.

Inasmuch as a settlement of the December taxes cannot be expected early in 1926, the school board must

SEEK UNPAID ASSESSMENTS

County Officials Warn Delinquents Must Pay Next Month.

All special assessments unpaid and due at the close of the June tax period, together with those payable December next, have been placed on the tax duplicate, and will be collected the same as tax on real estate, it was announced at Lisbon today.

Today there is due the various villages, cities and county a total of $103,206.76 in special assessments. This sum will be charged against all property benefited by public improvements, together with the special assessments payable this year, which is expected to reach the total due last December, $211,436.39.

There has been paid into the county treasury so far this year $109,413.03 in special assessments, and this has been charged back to the various subdivisions.

County officials said that no real estate tax will be accepted in Decem-

EAST LIVERPOOL DISTRICT WILL ENACT SANTA CLAUS ROLE IN HELPING TO PAY FOR $950,000 BOND ISSUE FOR COUNTY'S 95-MILE ROAD PROGRAM

The East Liverpool district, which rolled up a big majority for the $950,000 county bond issue in Tuesday's election, will enact the role of Santa Claus in the three-year road improvement program which, with state and federal aid, ill result in an investment of approximately $2,150,000.

The city and Liverpool township, with a tax duplicate of $36,110,000, will pay $256,650 toward liquidation of the bond issue and interest charges during the next 10 years in addition to $216,000 during the next three years on the old two-mill levy, and in return will receive nothing in the way of direct benefits.

This was revealed today by L. H. Johnson, son of Lisbon, county commissioners' clerk, when he outlined on the county road map the apportionment of funds as well as the district contributions toward the bond issue and road tax in the 95-mile highway building program.

Indirect Benefits.

However, sight should not be lost of the fact that East Liverpool indirectly shares in the improvements, for the commissioners' plans call, among other things,, for the completion of the Youngstown-East Liverpool road as well as the East Liverpool-East Palestine highway.

And, too, the commissioners have been liberal in dealing with the Ceramic City and Liverpool township since the two-mill levy was approved. Recently the county pledged a contribution toward the cost of the improvement of West Eighth street, while county money has been expended on other arteries of transportation out of East Liverpool.

Wellsville and Yellow Creek township and Lisbon and Center township, which, like East Liverpool have shared in road improvement funds allotted during recent years, each will get only one-half mile of new highway.

Lion's Share of Fund.

Elkrun township, with 13½ miles, costing $405,000; Knox township, with 11 miles, costing $330,000; Middleton township, with 10 miles, costing $300,000; Butler township, with nine miles, costing $270,000; Franklin township, with eight miles, costing $240,000; Fairfield township, with six and one-half miles, costing $195,000, and St. Clair township, six miles, costing $190,000, and Madison and Wayne townships, each with four miles, costing a total of $260,000, will be given the lion's share of the program.

These figures take into consideration the entire cost of the improvements, for state and federal dollars will aid in meeting the contract prices.

With the announcement of the allotment of funds, in which estimates of costs are given, it was revealed that approval of the bond issue will permit the use of funds received under the two-mill levy for general road work. Had the bond issue been defeated, diversion of the levy to pay the county's share of the Youngstown-East Liverpool highway job would have been necessary.

Allotment of Funds.

Commissioners' Clerk Johnson's figures on valuation, share of the bonds, two-mill levy payments, total cost and apportionment of road improvements in the respective townships follow:

East Liverpool and Liverpool township—Valuation, $36,110,000; bonds, $256,650; two-mill levy, $216,000; total, $472,650; gets nothing.

St. Clair township—Valuation, $1,724,000; bonds, $12,250; two-mill levy, $10,344; total, $22,594; gets six miles of highway costing $190,000.

Middleton township—Valuation, $1,957,000; bonds, $14,750; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $26,750; gets 10 miles of highway costing $300,000.

Unity township—Valuation, $11,161,000; bonds, $80,750; two-mill levy, $66,966; total, $157,716; gets two miles of highway costing $60,000.

Fairfield township—Valuation, $9,679,000; bonds, $66,500; two-mill levy, $57,000; total, $123,500; gets six and one-half miles of highway costing $195,000.

Elkrun township — Valuation, $2,125,000; bonds, $15,200; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $27,200; gets 13½ miles of highway costing $405,000.

Madison township — Valuation, $2,151,000; bonds, $15,400; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $27,400; gets four miles of highway costing $130,000.

Yellow Creek township and Wellsville—Valuation, $11,300,000; bonds, $85,000; two-mill levy, $66,000; total, $151,000; gets one-half mile of highway costing $15,000.

Washington township—Valuation, $3,778,000 bonds, $28,500; two-mill levy, $22,500; total, $51,000; get three miles of highway costing $90,000.

SURRENDER

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Elsie Rae Morris

CHAPTER 83.

Over their late breakiast the following morning, Mrs. J. Reignald Ainsley spoke pointedly to her daughter.

"Philip seemed to be in rather a hurry last evening."

"Yes," Amoura admitted, "he only stayed five or ten minutes."

The elder woman regarded the other expecantly. Amoura carefully buttered again a piece of toast that already was dripping with the fat.

"I suppose, you know, Amoura," her mother said, when the silence persisted, "that there is talk because you are so friendly with an engaged man."

Amoura's eyes flashed. "Very friendly, indeed!" She waited until she had sipped her cocoa before adding, "After I had told him I thought it best for him not to come here so often, you invited him—as much as invited him, to lunch the very next day."

Mrs. Ainsley was silent before this show of anger.

After an awkward silence, Amoura, bitten by remorse, looked naivly at her mother, and said: "I understand that Philip isn't engaged to Miss Vaine any longer."

Mrs. Ainsley suddenly understood. There was no need for her to say anything.

They were leaving the breakfast table when Della summoned Amoura to the telephone. "I have a telegram from my attorney in Chicago," her father communicated. "He says the trial of the kidnapers is set for day after tomorrow and that you will have to be present.'

"Oh, shoot! I don't have to go!"

"But you'll have to."

On the spur of the moment, she decided that she would like to go to Chicago, trial or no trial. In an instant her plans were made. She would leave the community house in charge of the nurses and leave that evening.

So that the next afternoon she was registered at the same hotel in which she had taken refuge at the beginning of her adventure in Chicago. When she had rested, she took a taxi and sought a glimpse of Bloom's candy factory, of the Enterprise Manufacturing Company, and the boarding house near Washington Park. "If only I had a detective following me, everything would be complete," she smiled to herself.

That evening she went to see Van Pugh's show, and could not resist a desire to go backstage and visit with her former associates after the first act.

"The old kid herself," the profane Lulu exclaimed when Amoura showed her face in the dressing room. The girls, resting between the acts in a more or less nude state, drew their dressing gowns about them and crowded around her.

"Are you coming back?" Lulu asked.

"No, but I'd like to." An idea flashed into her mind. "Leave the stage door Johnnies standing in the cold night and come an have supper with me."

The assent was not unanimous, but nearly so.

"Hey, what's the row?" Hans Van Pugh barked through the door.

Amoura presented herself to his view, and he was all smiles.

"Miss Ainsley. Ah! You have come back."

"Just for the evening, however."

"Ah no! You must appear at least at one performance. You must play the old scene again. We have never been able to put it on and get the laughs that we did when you were the shrinking violet."

"Very well, I will."

That night she took the girls to the Drake, and what a time they had! The maitre d' hotel couldn't understand what it was all about—no men! but he "gave them the place."

Early in the morning, as she watched the first streaks of day from the window of the sleeping-room, she decided that she would ask her attorney to have the court dismiss the charges against the kidnapers. This was done.

When the morning papers appeared next day, they had another front page story about Miss Amoura Ainsley. She had appeared in court "dramatically" to plead the release of her captors, and she had capped the climax by appearing in the evening in her old role in Hans Van Pugh's show.

When Bill McGargle sought her in the morning, in search of a story, he found that she had left on an early train for Westland.

"That girl's a whizz!" he told Mac, the city editor. "Bet it's a good story when she gets married."

As she speeded back to Westland Amoura's mind was torn by two emotions. There was a desire in her mind to return to Chicago and resume her search for independence where she had left off, and there was the feeling that she had made a fool of herself with all her efforts to escape the binding ties of convention.

Q. What is the value of property in the District of Columbia? F. J. W.

A. The total valuation of government and privately owned property in the District of Columbia is about one and a quarter billion dollars. Of this the government owns about one-third and the value of four hundred million or more dollars. This is exclusive of schools, engine houses, foreign legations, etc.

Q. When will the next convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs take place? N. S. R.

A. It will be held from May 24 to June 5, 1926, at Atlantic City.

Q. Who invented the Cherokee alphabet? S. H.

A. It was invented by George Guess, a half-breed Cherokee Indian who lived from about 1770 to 1843.

Q. What is meant by dead ice? M. H.

A. The term is applied to glacial ice which has lost its motion because the whole ice movement has been checked or because the part has become detached from the main ice sheet.

Q. When postal employes work on Christmas day, do they get a holiday afterward? T. O.

A. The postoffice department says that postal employes who are required to work on Christmas day because of the condition of the mails, are granted compensatory time on any of the following working days within 30 days after Christmas. It has been the policy of the department to limit to the absolute minimum the employment of men on Christmas day, and during this past year rural carriers were granted a holiday the entire day, and city carriers and clerks excused at noon.

Q. In what direction does a ship travel, going through the Panama Canal from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean? E. D. S.

A. A ship on entering the canal at the Pacific follows an irregular course in a general northwesterly direction and then travels almost due north to the Atlantic end.

Q. We often hear of the glass or jointed snake, which it is claimed is capable of becoming disjointed and coming together again. Is there such a reptile? O. H. W.

A. The explanation of this curious phenomenon lies in the ability of this reptile to drop its tail, an act which sometimes enables it to escape while the still wrigging tail attracts the pursuer. Many other lizards do the same thing, and a "spike" or short and imperfect tail grows in place of the lost tail. This curious reptile is rarely seen, as it lives under decaying vegetation and leaves or burrows in the soil. It is sometimes turned up by the plow. It has long been the subject of discussion, and is merely a harmless, legless lizard, and because of it food habits it is of considerable value to agriculture.

Q. Was last spring warmer than usual? N. D.

A. The Weather Bureau says that February, March and April were warmer than usual over the entire country. It does not believe, however, that the world is getting warmer in general.

Q. Why do people try to reach the North Pole? M. H.

A. Early efforts in polar exploration were largeely for commercial interests. During the 20th century the renewal of exploration in the Arctic and Antarctic regions has been due largely to the spirit of scientific research, but also for geographic achievement. Peary at the North Pole made a great number of observations which are very valuable in the study of geography, physiography, meteorology and oceanography.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1925.

Candidates, How Much Did You Spend?

The Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections today called the attention of Republican and Democratic nominees and Independent candidates in the recent municipal and township balloting, as well as all party and non-partisan organizations, to the fact that the state law requires submission of reports of campaign receipts and expenditures.

Under the corrupt practices act, sworn statements of all monies received and disbursed, with a list of the names of persons who contributed it and to whom it was paid, must be filed with the election supervisors within 10 days after the election.

This means that defeated as well as successful candidates must tell the election board how much they spent in the recent fight. Failure to comply with the law shall make the offender subject to prosecution, while it also reacts against the officials-elect to the extent that no certificate of election shall be issued.

Candidates, therefore, should file campaign reports before midnight Friday night, November 13.

A hint to the wise is sufficient.

Schrecklichkeit Up To Date

Americans do not like to "rub it into France," particularly after the fine spirit shown by that country at Locarno. Yet some French statesman or general or editor is always giving new occasion, and making it impossible for Americans to give France the warm-hearted approval they would like to give.

Condemnation deepens as the full horror of the Damascus massacre becomes known. It seems worse than the massacre at Amritsar, India, a couple of years ago, for which the British government and army were unsparingly criticised. It is hard to find anything in the annals of the World war more revolting than this bombardment of a big, populous, historic and beautiful city, without warning except to its French residents—the play of shells from without and the hail of death from war tanks running amuck through the streets, the bloody slaughter of thousands, regardless of nationality, and the burning and smashing of priceless monuments.

It was not only cruel to the native population, over which France is supposed to be a friendly guardian under a mandate based on the Versailles treaty, but it was almost unprecedented in its neglect of safety precautions for the foreign population. As a result, France now has a far more serious revolt on her hands, with incidental fanning of the anti-Christian fires among Mohammedans everywhere, and is in trouble with friendly governments.

Fortunately French sentiment at home condemns this outrage almost as severely as sentiment in America, England and Asia. It is set down as a monstrous mistake on the part of Gen. Sarrail. It is admitted that such a man should never have been governor-general of Syria with a free hand. He is recalled in disgrace, and France will try to repair the damage. That will be "some job."

Grace And Rhythm

Henry Ford, who started a back-to-the-dances-of-our-fathers movement may now go and sit in a corner. Another captain of industry has gone back a great deal farther than he. A movement started by George Eastman, the famous kodak manufacturer, sniffs at such modernities as the waltz and two-step and schottische and square dances of the last generation, and harks clear back to the ancient Greeks.

The Eastman School of the Dance and Dramatic Action is an ambitious venture, and a serious educational one, established as a part of the University of Rochester. It seeks to embody the old Greek conception of life as ruled by rhythm and grace, and regards dancing as no less important than mathematics, science and philosphy. It will try to combine again the dance and the drama in the same serious way that the old Greeks did. Music will naturally be a prominent part of the system.

The Greeks really grouped their system of education around "music," including in that term dancing, athletics, poetry, history and other branches of learning that moderns would not think of as musical. Music meant for them the things represented by the Muses.

If more of the old grace and beauty for which Greece was famous can be brought back to this smoky, clattering, nervous world, that is excellent. It does seem a bit odd, though, that the man placed in charge of this classic revival is a Russian formerly connected with the Moscow Art theater. The Russians are great artists in their way; but Russian art, with all its merits, is seldom associated with the grace and repose which characterized Greek art even in its most active forms.

Wills And Wants

A man on his way to a hospital, in danger of death, made his will on a bit of paper he happened to have in his pocket. It is valid and has been probated. He died before he got to the hospital.

Suppose he had not been able to make it then? It is possible that his estate might have been left as he wished, but not probable.

Making a will is not a gloomy business. It is good sense. It gets what you want done. Are your wife and children protected? It is really easier to get them cared for while you live than afterwards. They need your protection more then than now. But now you can see that they are protected then. Then you'll be gone and you cannot. It is very easy to make a will. Why not take care of it today?

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Thoughts and scenes while strolling around New York: Lip sticks with flavors. Those middle-aged women with girlish skips. Stage door peepers watching chiffon dancers rehearse. Wonder how my astigmatism is getting along?

Why do most men hold cigars and cigarettes in their left hands? Old homes with private dining rooms where waiters beat a bass drum and send up a rocket before entering. A young matinee idol. Strutting like a gobbling turkey cock. Hope he grows old all of a sudden.

Windows dressed for Christmas. A radiant film queen lolling in a ten thousand dollar car. And in far away Kimberly a naked serf is digging for a diamond. Hooch parlors in guise of innocuous home-like tea rooms. Vive's tribute to virtue—hypocracy.

Gamblers and dope runners with pink buds in their coats. The white, garish faces that give you a pathetic, beckoning glance. Brown the color for men's clothes. Double breasted. And silver grey hats. The Fifth avenue floor walker who looks like Von Hindenburg.

Katherine Cornell seems to have captured the town. A liner skipper out window-shopping—the favorite diversion of seamen. The odors of pot roast and cabbage—better than perfumes of Araby. Hunters off for the moors. Somebody's favorite cow will die ingloriously.

A hot dog wagon in front of a fashionable inn. Those sack-suited, soft-collared foreign importations who never work. And the movie fiddlers with long hair and Montmartre hats. Rollin Kirby, the cartoonist. A celebrity whisking through the town with motorcycle escort.

The screech of the elevated—like a slate pencil pulled through the teeth. Sidewalk Charleston dancers scurrying from police. Whatever became of persimmons? Dentist's sign: "We Gas You Free." A waffle shop. Buckitty! Buckitty! Here I come.

A vaudeville actor out of work tells of making $20 a day collecting old gin bottles and selling them to bootleggers. He arises at 5 o'clock and makes rounds of apartment house courts, restaurant back yards and the rear entrances of clubs. By 7 o'clock he is through and he says after working two hours a day so profitably he is never going back to the stage.

Four social citadels on Fifth avenue are being despoiled by house wreckers. It costs too much to maintain a palace these days. The homes of Collis P. Huntington, William Astor, W. K. Vanderbilt and Cornelius Vanderbilt have been taken over for despoilation by realtors. The Huntington home held the priceless collection of books and paintings. The William Astor house was made the social capitol of New York by Ward McAllister, and it was sold to a young Jewish immigrant for $3,000,000. The Cornelius Vanderbilt home, which stood imposingly at Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street for so many years—with unwashed curtains—was modeled after the Chateau of Blois, whatever it was.

Prohibition is a good thing, writes an old New Yorker from Hollywood: "Some of the boys who looked as though they were through years ago around Times Square are out here running around in little boy pants, hatless and leading police dogs. They used to talk out of the side of the mouth like a Chatham Squdre tough. Now they have decided English accents and lard their hair."

The strangest accent of all flourishes in Brooklyn. Its origin is unknown, but its devotees say "idear" for idea, "sawr" for saw and with other words they drop the "r" such as "poil" and "goil."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

New Data on Mars.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—For centuries the planet Mars has intrigued the imaginations of men. Flashing angrily from the blackness of the void its red orb explains why the ancients named it for the war god. It might well be his evil eye glaring at the struggling earth with malignance in its look.

Its character—what it is like—has long been a matter of conjecture. Astronomers have set forth various theories about it and it has been the subject of fantastic novels. Indeed, the fascination of its red glare was so great that one astronomer is said to have walked off the balcony of his observation tower in his ecstacy after having discovered something about it.

But with the advance of years Mars is relinquishing many secrets. And a recent pamphlet published by the bureau of standards and prepared by W. W. Coblentz contains data which show that it has a lot in common with our planet.

Mars approached closest the earth, that is, attained its greatest brightness, 100, on August 21, 1924. Almost half a century must elapse before it attains a similar brightness and then it will only be one of 98. Fifteen years must elapse before it will even attain a brightness of 90. Hence the findings of Coblentz during the brightness of last year must be regarded as the most important for many years to come, as they were made at the most propritious time possible.

Temperature on the surface of the war god's world, when it is exposed to solar radiation, is a much debated question. Some of the older observations indicated a temperature much below zero Centigrade. They would tend to show that the Martian, if he exists, leads a frigid sort of life, and that he must have a whale of a coal bill, but more recent observations show different results.

Arizona Observations.

Observations at the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, made recently, introduce new factors, which were previously neglected, and calculate temperatures considerably above zero Centigrade. They agree with visual observations which have been made for years. These show a periodic waxing and waning of the Martian polar caps, presumably of snow, and the disappearances of the white deposits of frost under the Martian noonday sun.

Atmospheric conditions, mundane or Martian, greatly affect temperature readings. Also atmospheric conditions on Mars, of course, seriously influence temperature there. Much light has been thrown on these phenomena by the observations at Lowell.

It gets cloudy on Mars. And it is possible that the Martians look for the silver lining. They have tremendous clouds, which are visible, at times, from the earth. Occasionally these are conspicuous because of their size, brightness and unusual location. There was, for example, the great white spot of July 9, 1922, which appeared in the tropics, and covered the prodigious area of 300,000 square miles. Then there was the conspicuous white cloud which appeared June 21, 1924, which was observed by V. M. Slipher. This mass of vapor was 500 miles long and 2,000 miles wide, and lasted for three days, disappearing June 24. Again on October 27 of the same year, Van Biesbroeck observed a great luminous extension at the terminator of Mars. This was more than 1,000 miles in length. It appeared to be a high cloud, or fog, which was illuminated in the morning sky before the subadjacent territory was fully irradiated. It disappeared under the heat of the sun as it moved into daylight.

There are times when these temporary markings appear to the clouds of dust instead of water vapor, and in some cases the surface of the planet seems to be veiled as if its atmosphere were hazy.

Frequent Heavy Frosts.

Mars gets frosty, too. Its peach crop probably is ruined at times just as the Iowa farmer's is. During the autumnal frost in the south polar region the honest Martians must have to put up with a lot. This frost is very persistent and lasts longer in the morning as the season progresses. In Martian November it lasts for two hours after sunrise and in Martian December for five hours after sunrise.

Temperature measurements show that the bright areas on Mars have a lower temperature than the dark areas. Also it is shown that the frosts appear first in the bright regions, as they would if these areas are deserts. With the passing of the snow and frost the dark areas reappeared first and in the coming of the frost the dark areas remained visible longest, indicating the presence of vegetation.

Due to the clearness of markings when viewed on the edge of the planet it has been held that the atmosphere of Mars is extremely tenuous and transparent. This interpretation, however, is subject to qualification, for on the earth on clear days it is well known that one may see mountains many miles distant, which means vision through an air column several times the total mass viewed in a vertical direction, as one must do when observing Mars. Vision in a vertical direction is affected, it is true, but by the water content in the atmosphere.

Recent photographs of Mars show that its atmosphere extends perhaps 100 miles above the surface. On the earth, due to its gravitational force, this would be compressed to about 45 miles. The atmosphere on the earth is estimated to be about 50 miles thick. This would tend to show that the atmosphere per unit surface area

Mastodon One Million Years Old, Needs Home; College Wants Room

CHICAGO.—Wanted: A home for an animal one million years old! The animal is a prehistoric mastedon, fossilized, of course, but large enough in its deteriorated state to fill a comparatively large room. The University of Chicago wants the room. As soon as it can be found, the bones will be removed from their resting place in southern Illinois to the new quarters.

Dean Paul MacClintock said the find was the largest of any specimen ever unearthed in this section. During life the creature weighed approximately twelve tons and stood twelve feet high, he said.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Gas Stations in Place or Old-Time Tollgate

Nashville, Tenn.—The gasoline filling station has replaced the familiar old sapling that formerly was swung down to block the public highways in the form of a tollgate.

Motorists are paying part of the highway construction expense at three cents a gallon at the filling station pump, where formerly every vehicle passing the designated spots had to plank down a quarter.

Tollgates were satisfying to traffic 100 years ago, when the pioneers blazed through forested areas and established accommodation for travel, but today the state is building its own improved and modern highways. Motorists will drive miles out of the way over another route to escape the periodical gates.

On June 14, 1796, one turnpike company organized a toll road with rates ranging from one cent for every ten sheep or hogs to three cents for each four-horse carriage. The rates advanced with the progress in roads and modes of travel and similar toll systems were adopted in other states.

The old tollgates in Tennessee became unpopular. Now through the red, blue, yellow and white gas filling pump the state is netting nearly $3,000,000 in 1925 toward its public highway construction fund.

BALDWIN PLANS STATE SCHOOLS IN NEW CRISIS

Unemployed Will be Trained for Positions in Colonies.

MILLION JOBLESS

Relief for Idle Costs Half Billion Yearly.

LONDON — The Baldwin government's first real effort on a big scale to combat the unemployment cancer now gripping England is foreseen in the announcement of a scheme to establish state schools for the training of unemployed men for positions in the English colonies and in skilled trades at home.

The scheme, which has many sound features, is to be put into action at once, and it is predicted by social workesr that it will have a tremendous bearing on the unemployment problem here.

Relief Wasted.

At the present time there are nearly 1,400 000 workers in England. This figure means that for every 47 persons employed there is at least one unemployed, and also that there are nearly 170,000 more workless than there were a year ago.

The system of unemployment relief now in force costs practically $500,000,000 a year, which is practically waste expenditure. By the new scheme it will mean eventually that all this money originally wasted every year will provide instruction for the workless, and enable them to take up positions as trained men at home and abroad.

As an experiment, 1,400 men will be taken into the state schools and trained the first year. If the results are satisfactory this number will gradually be raised until a large percentage of the male unemployment are trained. Four centers are to be opened up at once, and these will immediately start to train 200 men each. Half of these will be trained for emigration to the colonies, and the other half for positions at home. In addition to some of the men receiving the customary unemployment benefit, or "dole" as it is familiarly termed here, they will be given free training, free meals during working hours, and about 50c pocket money. Those men who are training for the Dominions, however, will be given free full board and lodging, and for this privilege they will forfeit the whole of their unemployment benefit except $1 for pocket money. They will also receive free passage to the colony they select when they are deemed proficient.

To Work Union Hours.

The hours to be worked by the men training for work at home will be specified trade union hours, while the hours for those training for the Dominions will be on the elestic principle.

It is argued by the promoters of the scheme that instead of thousands of men hanging around street corners, as they have done hitherto, they will be engaged in obtaining instruction which will eventually obtain them work, and that in the long run it will save the state many thousands of dollars.

Those men learning home trades will be instructed chiefly in the use of tools for certain trades. Handymen will be trained as bricklayers, plasterers, painters, and in elementary iron work. Men training for colonial emigration will be instructed in the duties of farming and settling on the land.

The men will be housed and fed on the army style, and there will be a communal system as far as possible. Only single men will be taken on at present at the residential centers. An age limit of 29 is imposed on all intending scholars.

Carnahans' Drug Stores

MULBERRY ST., E. E. FIFTH ST., NEWELL

114 E. SIXTH ST.

We Like to Sell Stamps!

When I was new to the drug business some 200 years ago, nothing pained me more than to have to deal out stamps and postal cards to customers who bought nothing else. A little, old-fashioned druggist in Canal Dover taught me different and I thank him for the lesson. Here was his philosophy:

"A Drug Store MUST have TRAFFIC PAST THE COUNTERS in order to be a real success in its community. To get it, the proprietor many times will give away roses, lillies, prize packages and occasionally REAL MONEY! To me, that's a very foolish, expensive method—foolish because it fools no one and expensive because 'give aways' cost real money."

The REAL way to get this "traffic" is to do the LITTLE THINGS, perform the HOMELY COURTESY and DO IT EVERY DAY of the year! "Make change" for customers, sell them stamps, street car checks, give them plenty of telephone service, a free directory, gossip about town, direction to other places — everything an information bureau would do. AND DO IT BECAUSE YOU LIKE IT. That's what makes "TRAFFIC!"

And that's US folks here in these shops!

I hope I lick Uncle Sam on the stamp business, wear out a bearing on the telephone, jam the cash register "making change" and get hoarse giving out information. JOHN CARNAHAN.

Shorty Says:—

'Sfact I really BELIEVE Jack means what he says up above! Much as I hate to agree with Jack, at times, I've GOTTA! I've seen that man chase around corners on one wheel, bang the cash register, look up an address, deal out a pound of stamps, lose his cigar butt, dent his derby, show a man how to read his road map and end up in front of the fountain hooked onto an Orangeade—the kind he sells for 10c, with not ONE CENT profit to paste in his wad! and SMILING EVERY MINIT!

The only way I figger it out is that Jack's a little weak—well, you know what I mean. Frinstance I saw him yesterday holding a Canadian type baby under one arm while he sold the lady a stamp, found an address for her and made a phone call with the other arm! The mother had to fix sumpin or other!

Yep, Jack's accommodatin' but he's a horrible example to ME.

P. S. Canada is wet.

Seems Reasonable to Us Anyway!

If you wear your hair plastered down and it gets mussed by a falling tree, cyclone, explosion or a brick, or perhaps your lady friend nothing is more natural to have than a pocket comb in your pocket, to repair the damage at once! We have some hand finished ones, priced at 25c.

on Mars is quite appreciable. But with much less water on Mars, and the most of it congealed in the polar regions, it is evident that its distribution in the atmosphere could not affect the vision as it does on the earth. Nevertheless, the greater mass of water vapor or ice spicules in the polar regions would prevent the escape of plenetary irradiation upon which temperature estimates are based.

Hence, the temperature findings and other observations may be subject to change. Until more data concerning the atmosphere of the planet are obtained it is not possible to specify more exactly the temperatures of its surface than has already been done.

Slowly Mars is revealing itself to this planet. It is very similar to the earth in size and with respect to its relation to the sun. And now it would appear that its surface conditions are not greatly different. The next period of brightness promises, due to the material at hand, to reveal even more of the red planet's secrets.

As a result almost the entire population of some cities are now waging war against Goiter by using MULKEY'S IODINE SALT. It's the important item in their every day diet.

HEALTH CLINIC ARRANGED HERE

Tuberculosis Specialist to Conduct Series in County.

Dr. Henry G. Wildman, a specialist in the diagnosis of pulmonary disease, will conduct clinics in Hancock county, beginning November 10, under the auspices of the Hancock County Tuberculosis league, County Health unit and the West Virginia Tuberculosis association. The clinics will be held at Newell November 11, New Cumberland November 12 and at Weirton November 13-14. One will be conducted in Chester November 10 under the direction of the Woman's club and the chairman of the Christmas seal sale, Mrs. J. E. Swindell.

The clinics are free and the service is provided from money raised in the county from the sale of Christmas health seals. Dr. Wildman was for 10 years medical director of the Lake Forest Tuberculosis sanitarium at Chicago, and is now on the staff of the State Tuberculosis sanitarium at Hopemont, appointed for field work under the direction of the state tuberculosis association.

Mrs. J. A. Todd, chairman of the Hancock County Tuberculosis league, in announcing the dates and places of the various clinics, issued the following statement:

"When tuberculosis is diagnosed and treated early 80 per cent of the persons recover. If treatment is delayed until the disease has reached an advanced stage only about 2 per cent are restored to health. It is not hereditary and it is not necessary to go to another climate, it is being cured right in West Virginia.

Clinics are being conducted throughout the state for the purpose of finding the disease in the incipient stages at which time it responds most readily to treatment.

Children and adults who have been or are now living in close contact with tuberculosis persons, and any one who has any of the early symptoms of tuberculosis, are invited to come for this free examination. No person now being treated by a physician will be examined at the clinic unless the consent of such physician is first obtained by the applicant."

ARMISTICE DAY IS PROCLAIMED

An armistice day proclamation has been issued by Governor Gore in which he called upon the people of the state to observe Nov. 11.

He especially requested that exercises be held in schools and churches of the state. He mentioned that display of flags, patriotic programs and parades would be appropriate "and stimulate and refresh the spirit of patriotism and courage to perpetuate the ideals for which they (the soldiers) in the splendor of young manhood, fought, suffered and died."

"In every age it has been a sacred duty among civilized people to pay homage and reverence to the memory of the heroic dead, and to hold up for emulation the shining examples of their service and sacrifices," the governor stated.

"It is fitting that the eleventh day of November of each year be set apart and observed as a day of remembrance and thanksgiving for deliverance from the maelstrom of war into which our country was drawn by duty to humanity, and to commemorate the achievements of our valiant forces who aided so much in bringing to a successful conclusion the struggle for righteousness and civilization."

Pastor's 35-Year Search For Gold Ends In Success

Quits Ministry to Comb Arkansas Hills for Hoard Hidden by His Father.

BOONVILLE, Ark.—"Maney—cliff—rattlesnake—flat rock."

These five words, gasped incoherently by a dying man way back in 1889, in what is now Stigler, Okla., caused M. C. Hall to abandon the ministry and come to Boonville on a thiryt-five-year search for buried treasure that transformed him into an almost legendary character known as the "Wild Man of Magazine Mountain," led him into adventure as thrilling and as picteresque as any experienced by Stevenson's seekers after pirate gold—and, finally, brought him into possession of a fortune after the weary span of years.

With the muttered words of his father, "Uncle Jake" Hall, who died in 1889 at the age of ninety-five, as the only clue, young Hall took up the search for $20,000 in gold which the aged man was known to have hidden somewhere.

Starts His Search.

The edler Hall, had, a year previous to his death, been visiting a farm which he owned near Bonneville, and the son, believing this was where the treasure trove would be found, began his search there.

While he was out hunting with another son on Magazine Mountain, another of his sons, had been accidentally wounded, while standing on a large flat rock. Years before, the father had been bitten by a rattlesnake near a cliff in the same vicinity. Piecing together the broken sentence of the father, the treasure hunter conceived the idea that it was somewhere on this mountain that the gold was buried.

So he took up the search, combing the wide expanse of the hill inch by inch, during the years that followed. He virtually spent all his time on the wind-swept hill, prosecuting his search, and so intept did he become that he paid little attention to his appearance.

He grew a beard, and became almost a hermit, living alone on the mountain much of the time. Thus, he became known as the "Wild Man of the Mountain" to residents of the vicinity, and many were the wild stories told of his queer actions, most of these being the product of fanciful imaginations.

Recently Hall, almost despairing of success, now an old man of 60, stumbled unexpectedly upon his buried gold. It was buried in the face of a cliss, near a huge flat rock, at the place where teh rattlesnake had bitten his father, years before. Thus, the words of the father, trying to tell him where the treasure was hidden, were explained.

Gold in Bags.

The gold was in several squirrel skin bags, each labelled with the name of one of the children and one for the mother. Theer was one large bag of bearskin, containing $15,000, addressed "The The Finder."

The "Wild Man of the Mountain" has purchased a fertile farm home near Stigler, Oklahoma, and has settled down to enjoy the fruits of his 35-year kuest, according to W. P. Morgan, of Booneville ,his nephew.

Flyer Is Attacked in Air by Eagle

New York.—Lieut. James M. Bovard, who completed his annual 15-day training period as a reserve aviator at Mitchel field recently, told a story of an aerial encounter with an eagle, in which he emerged the victor with one of the eagle's tail feathers as a trophy. While 8,000 feet over Long Island, he said, a great bald eagle swooped down and fastened its claws in his leather helmet. The propeller blast carried the bird away.

Bovard exhibited a characteristic barred eagle feather and scratches on his helmet to the doubting ones.

"The percentage of pupils with dental ills runs as high as 90 per cent in some schools and not less than 70 per cent in any," the doctor said.

To bad teeth Dr. Baur attibuted the increasing number of class failures which have been under investigation by the board.

LONE BANDIT GETS $10,000 IN OHIO HOLD-UP

Manager of Branch Bank Victim of Daring Robbery.

OUTLAW FLEES

Drains Auto Tank, Forces Banker to Drive Small Car.

DAYTON, Nov. 6.—P. J. Kloos, manager of the Xenia Avenue Branch bank of the City Trust & Savings bank of Dayton, was robbed of $10,000 at 9:30 o'clock this morning by a lone unmasked bandit in one of the most daring daylight hold-ups ever staged in the city.

Kloos visited the City Trust & Savings bank, Third and Main streets, to get $10,000 for his branch bank. While he was in the bank his gas tank was drained of most of its gasoline and as he was driving along Jefferson street, his car stopped near Green street out of gas.

At this point the unmasked bandit drove up in an old Ford touring car, ordered Kloos to get out of his own car with the money and get in the bandit's Ford. Kloos obeyed the order.

After getting into the bandit's machine Kloos was ordered to drive the car, the bandit keeping his revolver against Kloos' stomach all the time.

When the pair neared the outskirts of the city the robber ordered Kloos to get out while the bandit proceeded on his way in the old broken down touring car.

Police of the city are searching county roads and authorities of nearby cities and towns have been notified.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—In one of the most novel holdups ever staged in the city three of a gang of five armed bandits forced four men to lie on top of each other on the floor of the bandits' speeding limousine, where the bandits rested their feet on their victims' backs while the other two members of the bandit gang drove away with a truck load of silk valued at $30,000.

The cold-blooded thinkers are watching and wondering when to "sell short." Many have tried, had their fingers burned and are still watching.

Yesterday wasn't a good day to sell Judge Gary's U. S. Steel stock. It went above $134 per share. Not long ago Frank Munsey was buying it in tens of thousands of shares at a time for less than $20 a share. No wonder wise Mr. Munsey is rich.

News from Berlin will interest many everywhere. One of the Rothschilds, Baron Erich Von Goldschmidt Rothschild, has married Countess Veronica Henckel Von Donnersmark, a gentile.

This is the first "mixed" marriage sanctioned by the Rothschilds in the history of that great financial house. The death of young Baron Rothschild's grandmother made the marriage with full consent possible.

The fact that a man of Jewish faith marries a member of the Prussian nobility also interests those acquainted with medevial history.

The dullest of us should realize that there are no more islands and no more oceans. An Italian count, Eugenio Casagrande di Vilaviera is on his way, flying from Genoa to Buenos Aires.

And an Argentine, Guillermo Hiacoat, started yesterday morning from Buenos Aires to New York through the air.

Antique minds in Washington, still talking about battleships and cruisers "to defend the United States" should awake from their nap, look at the sky and think a little.

If war ever comes here, it will come through the air, and it will have an easy time, for this fat country, swollen with money, is as thoroughly unprepared for attack as Persia was when Alexander, with 30,000 men, captured all the gold and made himself ruler.

A West Texas conference of Methodist ministers decides "to battle evolution to a finish," a wise decision, to be welcomed by all.

If evolution is a false doctrine, offensive to Providence, it ought to be suppressed, with proper respect, of course, for constitutional guarantees of free speech, thought, etc.

If evolution represents, in the contrary, a process by which it has pleased Providence to build up life on the earth, as it is built up in the pre-natal condition, the opposition is the best possible thing. From debate comes truth.

Paris hatmakers and hairdressers have scored two complete failures. The hatmakers wanted women to wear big hats. They refused and cling to the little bell-shaped contrivances. Hair dressers tried to persuade bobbed ladies to go back to wigs while waiting to grow hair. That failed. You may see women imitating men and wearing substantially the same sort of clothes for months at a time.

Labor socialism made enormous gainst everywhere in the British election of borough councillors. This interests and frightens conservatism, first because it may mean another labor minority, and second because labor councillors whenever they are in power, increase taxes, taking from those that have to hand something to those that have not, or that think they haven't enough.

Psychologists Battle

was the direct result of his 32 years of love and devotion to his stricken daughter.

"This petit mal," the defense attorney amplified, "came in attacks of numbness in the facial muscles and tongue, created arterio sclerosis and resulted in loss of memory during periods of which the body acted without volition of the mind or will. During one of these spells that continued for 48 hours, the defense will contend, Dr. Blazer took the life of his idiot daughter and made three attempts to destroy himself.

Prisoner Frowns on Defense.

But the shrewd faced, small-eyed defendant is not in harmony with the declaration of his attorneys.

"I do not agree with the new fangled ideas of scientists and psychologists who say it is merciful, just and humane to get rid of the physically unfit and impecilic." The old doctor declared during a lull in the court proceedings. "As a physician it has for years been my duty to preserve life. For more than 32 years I cherished that helpless child and performed my duty as a father to her. Why should I suddenly change my life habit and try to shirk my duty by putting her out of the way?

"If I took the life of my daughter I do not remember it. I do not know how I could do such a thing."

And around this point of mercy—the asserted temprorary insanity of the old fashioned doctor—will revolve the battle of the experts—"behavioristic psychologists," alienists and psychiatrists.

One of the few occasions when Dr. Blazer showed any apparent interest in the trial that is to decide his fate came late yesterday after a severe grilling of a prospective juror by Prosecutor Stone. The juror, displaying an inclination to the opinion that taking of human life through circumstances not permitted by the law was some times justified, was peremptorily challenged.

Turning to the press table nearby, the old doctor remarked in an agitated tone:

"He only wants jurors that will have me convicted before the trial begins."

SLAIN MAN'S WIDOW AND HER LOVER JAILED

Both Deny Knowledge of Identity of Hammer Murderer.

NEW JERSEY CASE

Admirer Admits Woman's "Half Promise" to Elope.

HILLSIDE, N. J., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Priscilla Kent Clark, strikingly attractive dark-eyed widow of William J. Clark, who was mysteriously murdered with a hammer, and her alleged admirer, Joseph Cowan, were both in custody today, and subjected to severe grilling at the hands of the authorities.

Cowan, police say, admitted he loved Mrs. Clark and had obtained her "half promise" to elope with him to Florida.

Both emphatically deny they know who killed Clark.

"I don't know any more than I told you before," Mrs. Clark reiterated to the authorities today.

Her original story was that Clark was hit on the head with the hammer from behind while he was in his garage late last Monday night after he had brought her and her mother to their home in his machine.

Cowan, a big, quiet, blonde man, insisted he was home in bed about the time the murder was committed.

An unusual feature of the investigation is that, according to apparently reliable information, a score of members of the Ku Klux Klan are cooperating with the authorities in a determined effort to solve the crime. Clark was a member of the hooded order.

The slain man was buried in a Klansman's uniform. The funeral was attended by 25 members of the klan and nine women members of the Kamella. They were in full regalia, including masks.

Mrs. Clark's arrest came immediately after the funeral was over. She was removed from the funeral cortege, against her vigorous protests. She was on the verge of collapse as she was taken to police headquarters.

Mrs. Clark and Cowan were arraigned in Hillside police court and held without bail.

While the authorities would not admit it, it was said on seemingly good authority that the investigation by the slain man's comrades in the klan led to the detention of the widow whose friendship with Cowan has been a matter of gossip in Hillside for some time. Cowan, according to information given police, frequently called upon Mrs. Clark in the daytime while Clark was at work.

Nelson Kent, Mrs. Clark's stepfather, came to police headquarters and expressed surprise that the police should suspect her of being implicated. He was not allowed to see Mrs. Clark.

The police said today that they had evidence that Cowan was not at home in bed, as he claims, at the time the murder was committed. They say they can prove he was at 210 Elizabeth avenue, Newark, at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. Clark entered his garage and was beaten to death sometime between midnight and 1 a. m. that day.

While the authorities were quizzing Cowan, Mrs. Cowan authorized her attorney to bring suit for divorce, naming Mrs. Clark as corespondent.

Seek Unpaid

ber or June next from property owners who have failed to liquidate improvement assessment, unless the entire amount now due is paid.

Many unpaid assessments are long overdue. Bonds have been issued in the various villages and cities for public improvements in anticipation of collection of the assessments. As result many sub-divisions are facing acute situations which hamper improvement programs.

Records show that some property owners have paid no part of street, sewer or road assessment in cases where improvements were completed years ago.

The new tax receipts will show the amount of the special assessment due.

Because of the rule on collection of special assessments, as laid down by the state examiners, money long past due will be forwarded all cities and villages at the next settlement, thus relieving their financial embarrassment.

The largest amount of unpaid special assessments is credited to East Liverpool, with Salem and Wellsville not far behind.

There is also considerable money due the county on road assessments.

Italian Aviator On Last Leg of His Rome-Tokio Flight

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 6.—Commandr De Pinedo, on the last leg of his homeward flight from Tokio, arrived here at 10:30 this morning. He will leave for Rome shortly and is due there at 2:30 this afternoon.

Commander De Pinedo's flight constitutes a unique record in aviation history, which is claimed to be a world record. He has flown 32,370 miles, which is 6,000 miles more than the distance covered by the American round-the-world flyers. De Pinedo flew solo and had but little in the way of an organization to aid him on his flight.

All Day Saturday, The New Orthophonic Victrola will be Demonstrated at Davis, Burkham & Ty'er's Music Store. Miss Leona Manypenny in charge.

Schools 'Broke'

seek other funds to pay December bills. The county auditor will be asked to make an advance settlement on the taxes. If this is not possible, the money must be borrowed.

The school tax rate for 1926 has been tentatively fixed at 9.15 mills, as compared with 8.71 mills this year. Provided the same percentage of taxes is collected next year as was available this year, the school revenue will be increased about $18,000, which will bring in about $308,000. Gaston said that new courses, which have been introduced, would increase expenses, and even with the higher tax rate, there will be an additional shortage at the end of 1926, which he estimated would be between $30,000 and $35,000.

This shortage, together with the shrinkage of $27,000 now apparent, will mean that the schools will face a deficit of $65,000 or $70,000 at the end of next year.

County officials, who fix the tax rate, were blamed by the board members for the financial dilemma facing the schools. It is charged that the tax rates in East Liverpool and throughout the county were slashed following the re-apprisement a year ago and that instead of increased funds being available there was little, if any, additional money collected. Had the tax rate remained unchanged the new valuation figures would have brought in sufficient money to meet the needs of the schools, it is claimed.

It was recommended by President D. F. White that a committee be sent to Columbus to take the matter up with State Director of Public Instruction Vernon M. Riegel or the state tax commission, but no action was taken on the suggestion.

Reduce Noon Recess.

The board accepted the resignation of Miss Ruth Bence as elementary teacher and approved the appointment of Mrs. Mary L. Ware as a substitute instructor.

Acting upon recommendation of Superintendent C. S. McVay, the board decided that the noon recess for elementary school students would be reduced by 20 minutes. Schools will resume for the afternoon session at 1 o'clock instead of 1:20 and dismissal in the afternoon will be 20 minutes earlier.

The board also went on record as being opposed to the sale of garden and flower seeds in the public schools next year. Opposition to the practice of selling paper tablets, pencils, candy and other articles of merchandise in the schools was also expressed. The superintendent was instructed to notify the teachers that commercializing the schools for any purpose would not be permitted.

Discuss Ice Skating Plan.

The feasibility of flooding Patterson Field for ice skating during the winter as a means of bringing in revenue, was also discussed, but no action taken.

The board discussed the proposed purchase of 11 new typewriters for the high school but because of the financial condition of the schools it was decided to keep seven of the old machines and deal in but four of the oldest types for new equipment. Two manufacturers will be asked to submit bids.

The board will meet on Monday, November 16 to canvass the returns of the three-mill tax levy, approved at Tuesday's election. This date is fixed by law.

The banquet will be served at 6 o'clock in the parish house dining hall by ladies of the church. The menu will include roast beef, brown gravy, creamed peas, mashed potatoes, cold slaw, celery, apple pie, ice cream, rolls, butter, tea and coffee.

Principal speaker will be Dean T. G. C. McCalla, acting rector of the St. Stephen's church. This will be followed by a program in which the following will take part: Miss Nina Echolls, singing and dancing; Carl Woodward, Wellsville, black face comedian; William "Buck" Stevenson and Clem Dawson, soloists and entertainers.

Community singing will be an extraordinary feature. Among the song hits which will be presented in this connection will be "America," "America, I Love You," "Old Black Joe," "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," "Old Folks at Home," "Old Kentucky Home," "Over There," "All Alone," "Yetrning," "Yes Sir, She's My Baby," "Don't Bring Lulu," I Love You," "Maggie," "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "Just a Song at Twilight," "Home Sweet Home," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," "Great Red Dawn," "End of The Road," "June Night," and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home."

A program of dancing will be featured from 9:30 o'clock until 12 o'clock.

13 in Florida Jail Smash Way Thru Wall to Freedom

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 6.—Thirteen prisoners in the Dade county jail smashed their way to freedom early today.

The men smashed a large hole through the roofless section of the prison which is undergoing repairs and scrambled down construction scaffolds to liberty.

At 7:30 a. m. none of the 13 had been apprehended although police and sheriffs' deputies searched all sections of the city.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Profit taking in large volume in the industrial stocks prevented the continuance of the horizontal advance in prices in the early trading today. The volume of trading was as heavy and the activity of the market as broad, as in the last few sessions, but prices of active stocks fell back a point or more as professional and outside traders pressed their stocks for sale.

Pronounced strength and activity in General Motors, General Electric and the copper stocks was in contrast to the reactionary tone of the balance of the market. General Motors reached a new high at 147, and General Electric moved up briskly to 328, up seven points in the first hour, both stocks enjoying an extremely large turnover. United States Rubber surpassed its former high record for the year and sold up to 85¾. American Smelting, Anaconda and other copper stocks made further advances. Brooklyn Edison, at the head of the utility stocks, gained six points at 155.

The bulk of motor, industrial and specialty stocks were subjected to violent selling such as prevailed in the early trading on Wednesday and Thursday. The declines were very moderate, however, and not sufficient to wipe out any great portion of the price gains acquired since election day.

Syrian Rebels Are Encamped Outside Walls of Damascus

Panic is Reported in Ancient City as French Troops March Out to Meet Foe.

JERUSALEM, Nov. 6.—Syrian rebels, steadily gaining in numbers, are now encamped eight miles outside of the city walls of Damascus, according to reports received here.

Panic is reported to prevail in Damascus, with businessmen closing their shops and citizens striving to flee from the city.

French reinforcements have arrived from Morocco and General Gamelins troops are understood to have set forth to engage the rebels. It is reported that during yesterday there was sharp fighting on the outskirts of Damascus.

The French have urged the population of Damascus to remain calm, but have warned them that it may be necessary to throw shells over the city.

Rebels have cut the telephone and telegraph wires leading into Damascus and train service between Damascus and Haifa has been suspended, owing to the depredations of the insurrectionists.

The rebels have declared their independence throughout all Syria.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES HERE

Congressman Murphy to Speak in U. P. Church.

Armistice day services will be held in the First United Presbyterian church on Sunday evening at 7:30, Rev. R. W. Ustick, pastor, announced today.

Congressman Frank B. Murphy of Steubenville, who has appeared before Kiwanis, Rotary and other civic organizations throughout the district in recent weeks, will deliver the chief address at the local services.

Members of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the G. A. R., and the auxiliaries of these organizations are asked as special guests to the services, although a general invitation is extended to the public.

Special numbers by the choir and the organist will feature the service. Decorations in keeping with the spirit of the occasion will be used in the church.

"The churches stood behind the boys when they were called to go overseas to defend the cause of liberty in the world, and the churches must not allow the nation to forget what the boys did during these trying months. To keep their sacrifice in mind, this service is being planned," Rev. Ustick explained today

Family day will be observed at the church Sunday morning. An invitation is extended to every family belonging to, or interested in, the church, to attend the services. A canvass is being conducted by the group leaders in the interest of the services. Rev. Ustick will speak on the subject, "The House By the Side of the Road."

MUST OPEN UP PASSAGE-WAY

The case filed in common pleas court July 18, 1924, by Nellie Burkhart against Samuel Patrilla of Wellsville, wherein an injunction and other equitable relief was sought, was tried before Judge J. B. Worley in No. court, and a decree in favor of the plaintiff rendered.

In this case, the parties own adjoining properties on Second street, Wellsville. There is a foot passage between the houses, and after Partilla erected a barricade preventing the plaintiff from using the passage way, she filed her application for an injunction in common pleas court.

It is the order of the court in this case that the defendant shall remove the obstructions, and the court also found against the defendant on his cross petition.

ZUPPKE-STAGG FORCES SET FOR ANNUAL SCRAP

Grange Against Chicago's Line-crushing Attack Is Outlook for Tomorrow's Big Ten Feature Battle; Indiana Plays at Columbus; Wisconsin at Iowa.

BOB ZUPPKE and Alonzo Stagg, Illinois and Chicago. These are the chief ingredients for one of the most delectable football dishes that midwest fans can conjure up. Add to them a dash of Red Grange and the spice of rivalry that has been growing more intense over a period of 12 years and the result should indicate why every solitary ticket for the thirteenth annual Illinois-Chicago tilt tomorrow has been sold.

The battle of Zuppke and the Grand Old Man of the Midway takes precedence among Big Ten Conference clashes on the coming week-end, although Ohio State faces a hard game with Indiana, and Wisconsin and Iowa tangle at Iowa.

"Zup" made the acquaintance of Urbana folk in 1913. Up until that time they had been forced to bend the knee quite frequently to the Chicagoans, the Maroon having won as many as 11 out of 17 engagements between the two institutions.

Zuppke seemed to have whatever it was Illinois had lacked. That he was successful in imparting it to his football students is seen in the fact that the Illini since that time, have won six games to Chicago's four, with two ties.

It was Grange in 1923 who scored the touchdown which gave Illinois a 7-0 victory, and it was Grange again in 1924 who made three touchdowns to bring Illinois from behind and tie the score at 21 points.

Now, will it be Grange again this year? Or, thwarted in their two recent attempts, will the Chicagoans rise in their football wrath and throw off the Grange yoke?

MOUNT OUT TO EVEN SCORE

Battle Miami Tomorrow in Homecoming Game.

ALLIANCE, Nov. 6.—Two thousand alumni and former students will augment the regular crowd which attends the games on Mount Field in celebration of the annual homecoming when the Royal Purple meets Miami here tomorrow. The visitors are touted as being the strongest team in southwestern Ohio, while many claim the same honor for Mount in the northwestern part of the state. In 1914 Miami nosed out Mount Union from the state championship by a 16-14 score in a thrilling game at Oxford, being the only Ohio school to defeat the crack team of that year coached by "Bob" Dawson. Mount's present coach, Jack Thorpe, played center for Mount in that game and, naturally, has reasons for wanting to defeat the visitors. Since 1914 the two teams have played eight games, all of them closely contested, but Mount has only been able to return victor in the last two. Mount will attempt to even up the score, while Miami is anxious to avenge the defeats of the past two years.

Coach Thorpe has been giving his men some severe training during the past week. The heavy scrimmages have cost Mount two of its men, Hoppes being out of the game with a broken nose and Reese with a sprained knee. This is a severe blow, as the Miami team is heavy, fast and strong, and Thorpe will need every bit of reserve power which he can summon on Saturday. Labor, whose sensational handling of the forward pass, was a feature of last week's game, and Mills, whose open field running has been of high order all season, are expected to do the ground gaining for Mount. "Army" Armstrong has not been outkicked in any game this season, and his long punts are expected to keep the ball out of Mount's territory. The fierce defensive work of Center Burkle has also been a great factor in keeping the goal line clear of opponents, the only score made against Mount this year in the conference struggle being due to a fumble.

CHICAGO, up until a week ago, on paper, at least, appeared to have a decided edge on the Zuppke outfit, but, just to show that it didn't mean anything, Red Grange rambled through the Pennsylvania line to a 24 to 2 conquest over the team that a week prior had won from Chicago, 6 to 0.

Chicago plays a crushing, line-smashing game that is hard to stop.

Illinois, as the gridiron universe knows, has Red Grange.

Ohio State's line succeeded in stopping the Chicago rushes to a great extent in the initial Big Ten encounter of the season, but this line has never been the same since.

Whether Illinois will give way to a let-down following their brilliant performance against Pennsylvania is problematical.

IOWA will probably be a slight favorite in the contest with Wisconsin. A majority of critics seem to favor the westerners following their sensational 15 to 0 victory over Ohio State.

Wisconsin has been trimmed by Michigan, 21 to 0, and tied by Minnesota, 12-12.

Ohio State fans are hoping for their second conference win and revenge when the Wilcemen clash with Indiana at Columbus—the team that knocked the Buckeyes for a 12 to 7 defeat last season and made Ohio's 1924 season a terrible disappointment.

Praise For Grange

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—"Red" Grange is as great a back as I have ever seen and with it he's a fine sportsman, and a brilliant leader,' Tom Thorpe, New York official who served as umpire in the Illinois-Pennsylvania game, declares.

"He never uttered a word of protest during the game and went about his business quietly and seriously."

Mt. Union Homecoming

ALLIANCE, Nov. 6.—Preparations are being made at Mount Union college for the annual homecoming day Saturday, and the biggest event of the program will be the Mount-Miami clash. Hundreds of old grads are expected to see the game, and take part in other activities of the day.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Two trips to New York in 10 days, President Coolidge has decided, are too much for a busy man and as a result he and Mrs. Coolidge will not see the annual Army-Navy football classic at the Polo Grounds Nov. 28. The president has accepted an invitation to address the New York state chamber of commerce banquet Nov. 19.

RUN SPECIAL TO SOUTH BEND

Gives District Fans Chance to See Notre Dame-Tech.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—Alumni and followers of both Carnegie Tech and Notre Dame in this district will be glad to learn that definite arrangements have been made for the special train from Pittsburgh to South Bend where the Tartans lock horns with Knute Rockne's famous Fighting Irish on November 14. The train will leave Pittsburgh at 9:00 p. m. Friday, November 13 over the Pennsylvania railroad. Stops will be made at Rochester, Pa., and at Youngstown, Alliance and Canton in Ohio, where additional passengers will be taken on. It will be a large train, for several hundreds are expected to take advantage of the low round trip price, less than fourteen dollars. The special will leave on its return trip after the game Saturday night, arriving in Pittsburgh early Sunday morning. As there will be both Pullman and day coaches on the special, reservations should be made by getting in touch with Clarence Overend, graduate manager of Carnegie Tech. Reserved seats for the game can also be secured from him.

From a spectator's viewpoint this game looms up as one of the most interesting of the year. Rockne is noted for his open style play, and his team has been coming along rapidly since the early season defeat at the hand of the Army. Carnegie has tied W. & J. and lost to Pitt by a small margin, but in neither case did the muddy condition of the field allow Coach Steffen to resort to his spread formations and tricky offense. Additional importance is attached to this game because it is on the annual Home Coming Day for Notre Dame alumni, the biggest game of the year for the Irish on their home soil.

INDIANA DRILLS ON STATE GRID

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 6.—The Indiana football team was scheduled to workout in the Ohio State stadium at Columbus, O., this afternoon. The contingent of Hoosiers left here early this morning and a train of Crimson rooters will get away for the scene of action tonight.

Indiana expects to give Ohio State a good battle before departing for home Saturday night. The Hoosiers took over the Wilcemen last season 12 to 7.

LAUGHLINS AT ELLWOOD CITY

Play Unbeaten Shelbys for League Lead.

The Laughlin Soccer club will be at its full strength for its Northwest Division league game on Saturday afternoon against the Shelbys, at Ellwood City, Pa.

The Laughlins and the Shelbys are the only undefeated teams of the circuit. Each has 12 points in the race for season's honors. And each has three more games to play.

In all probability, however, the victor in Saturday's game will eventually cop the championship.

Manager Shaw will endeavor to give the Shelbys the brand of ball the Laughlins played against the Mahoning Valleys here a week ago. The Valleys are a much stronger outfit than the Shelbys, and the fact that the Laughlins held them to a 4-3 decision speaks well for the local club.

Following the Shelby encounter, the Laughlins will have three games inside of two weeks, being scheduled with Grove City, Sharon and Steubenville.

Players and fans will leave tomorrow on the 12:30 car for Beaver and there will take the P. & L. E. train to Ellwood City.

K. T. K.-KNOWLES BOWL TONIGHT

E. M. Knowles and K. T. K. will clash tonight at the Liberty alleys in a scheduled Industrial Duckpin league engagement.

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 6.—Harvard has turned down an invitation of the Big Ten University club in Cleveland for a game between the Harvard basketball team and one of the western conference fices to be played in Cleveland during the Christmas holidays.

CATHEDRAL LATIN ASKS TURKEY DAY DATE HERE

Cleveland School, Unable to Pair Off With Steubenville, Wants Thanksgiving Game With Boone's Eleven; Akron West Also Enters Bid for Final Contest.

CLEVELAND Cathedral Latin and Akron West are prospective opponents for Coach O. V. Boone's East Liverpool high school eleven on Thanksgiving day at Patterson Field.

Boone today announced that both the Latins and the Rubber City outfit are seeking the Turkey day tilt with the Potters and both are willing and ready to sign on the dotted line.

The Thanksgiving day date has been held open all year by local athletic directors for the purpose of obtaining a suitable opponent and one worthy of the customary importance attached to the wind-up encounter of the year.

Last year it was Westingtouse Tech and the year before Rocky River, of Cleveland. Both contests were great attractions, inasmuch as neither of the pair had been seen in this district before, and, following a similar plan this year, officials left the November 26 date open for another contest of this calibre.

Cathedral Latin dickered for some time with Steubenville high and would have completed arrangements for a game there had Steubenville been able to call off its game with Wellsville. The Stubbers endeavored to have the game at Wellsville dropped but negotiations fell through. And now, learning of the open date here, the Latins, seeking only a road engagement for the day, immediately notified Boone they were in the market.

And along about the same time Akron West entered a bid for the engagement. No action has been taken on either proposal yet by school authorities.

The Potters will go through their regular Saturday assignment tomorrow at East Palestine.

Although confident they can trim the Brown and White, the locals will take no chances of a defeat which would just about ruin their county championship hopes.

Salem experienced little difficulty in winning at East Palestine two weeks ago, 15 to 0.

Argentina buys more automibiles from the United States than does any other country.

NUSS WILL USE FAST BACKFIELD

BETHANY, W. Va., Nov. 6.—In all probability Coach Furman L. Nuss of Bethany college will use a flashy, fast backfield against Adrian this Saturday. A pony backfield was used in scrimmage yesterday including Carey, Varlow, Dimick and Fiers. Snap and precision in open plays enabled this quartet to rip off long repeated gains. If the strength of the Bison line enables any of these men to get into the open yardage will pile up as well as the score. Barlow and Dimick did exceptional work in zigzagging through the reserve defense. Barlow resorts to a rabbit style of running which makes it hard for the tackles to judge their distance. Dimick on the other hand runs close to the ground and is hard to get off his feet. Dale Fiers, who has been playing the end position, is being used at full. His size and drive makes him a tough customer to handle either on the offense or defense. When not carrying the ball, Fiers gives excellent interference for his pigmy halfbacks. Carey has been calling the plays as usual and his passing will be a big factor in Saturday's game. The regular heavy backfield, including Stebbs, Loppacker, Hamill and Carey, may be given a chance to rest up for a week because of their injuries. This will give the Bisons full power against John Carroll university the following week.

Open Saturday Evenings.

HARVARD-PRINCETON CONTEST TOPS EAST'S FOOTBALL CARD

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Now happens to be the approximate time for all good self respecting heroes to come to the aid of that dear alma mater; now is the time for some one's grandchild to break into the public prints and astound the neighbors. Now is the time when a blocked punt means triumph or tragedy or both. Now for some football games than can be referred to as contests, speaking in a large and spacious way.

We will have many in the east tomorrow afternoon and all of them are good, the Harvard - Princeton affair topping the list for no other reason than the fact that it is Harvard and Princeton that are obliging. However, the three remaining sections of the country are pleased to claim contests of greater importance than those of the eastern list.

The Western Conference title, for example, may be decided when Michigan, which looks like the best team in the country, plays Northwestern and Iowa takes on Wisconsin.

At the same time Chicago's conference record may be turned wrong side out with the Maroon facing a 100 per cent better Illinois team than the early season showed. Ohio State meets Indiana in another conference game, but nobody cares—except Ohio State and Indiana.

Breather for Missouri.

A defeat for either Michigan or Iowa, which is unlikely, would just about wash up the entire conference situation. A defeat or a victory for both would leave the proposition, as is. Chicago, of course, has an outside chance, but Caesar had his Brutus, Charles the Third his Cromwell and Chicago may have its Illini and Grange.

A bit further to the west, the unbeaten Missouri team seems due to take something of a "breather" against Washington University at St. Louis, but the rest of the valley will get ample exercise, Drake meeting Nebraska, Ames playing Grinnell and Oklahoma stepping out with Kansas.

On the coast the action will be far from formal. Likewise in the south. In the former section, California, Stanford and Washington, the three leaders, will deploy into service, the Stanford - Washington game heading all others. One or the other must lose its chance for the title, barring a tie, in which case California would benefit, anyhow. The bears play Washington State and everything should be to the subconscious, or something.

Idaho and Montana also are due to take violent issue but, somehow, the writer imagines the rest of the country will contrive to bear up bravely while awaiting the result.

"Neighborhood" Fights

From the standpoint of national interest, the big number of the southern schedule is found in the meeting of Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech. Both have finished second in previous games and Alabama, which is to play Kentucky, remains unbeaten in southern football; yet the glamor abides with the other pair. In a lesser sense, so does it follow Sewanee and Mississippi and Tulane and Louisiana poly.

In spite of the first of the big three series at Princeton, the eastern schedule for the day is not such a much, Yale, Brown, Pennsylvania, Colgate, Army and Navy taking "breathers". The Cornnell-Dartmouth, Penn State-Notre Dame and Pittsburgh-W. & J. are the ones worthy of particular mention.

There are plenty of "neighborhood" championships on, however. In fact, this condition might be said to be general. Some of the more obvious types are Pitt-W. & J., Ohio-Marietta, Tulane-Louisiana Poly, and Washington and Lee-Virginia.

Boston College, one of the east's unbeaten elevens, has picked up a live one and may not look so good at the end of the West Virginia game. Holy Cross and Fordham, meantime, will try to achieve the elimination of one or the other from the catholic college championship.

The Georgetown-Lehigh affair looks like a series of competitive fireworks. So does the Minnesota-Butler game. However, southern California should survive the Santa Clara meeting.

Intersectional football being on the wane, there are only two games of this type worthy of mention, Notre Dame vs. Penn State and Syracuse vs. Ohio Wesleyan. We fear the worst from Penn State and Ohio Wesleyan.

Stork Brings Russian Peasants More Land

Moscow.—Every woman in the town of Zarubovo, Smolensk province, is expecting a visit from the stork.

At least that is what the women swore when a land surveyor visited the town to supervise the distribution of land. The sudden discovery of the prospective increase in the birth rate may have been due, it was suggested, to the fact that under the Russian land law every peasant is entitled to an additional share of land for every new member of his family.

The surveyor decided to postpone his allotments waiting for the stork returns, but meantime he ruled that if the prospective mothers bore twins or triplets the added share of land would be the same as though only single babies were born.

The land law is said to account partly for the increased birth rate noted among peasant families since the country emerged from the period of civil war and famine.

Favors Schaeffer

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Willie Hoppe, former balkline billiard champion, picks Jake Schaeffer to retain his title in a challenge match with Edouard Horemans, of Belgium, in Chicago, starting Nov. 30. "Schaeffer is the greatest match billiard player in the world, today," asserts Hoppe.

When the baseball writer of 1926 says that an infielder Peckinpawed a grounder, the wide awake world will understand.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

PRINCE OF WALES PICKS AMERICAN GIRL PARTNER

Only "Foreigner" Invited to Dance Given for Uruguayans by British Heir.

Montevideo.—The American colony here believes it has a joke on the British colony and also upon select Uruguayan society because the prince of Wales preferred an American girl as a dancing partner during the social festivities in his honor when he visited the Uruguayan capital.

They think also there is a joke somewhere on the prince, too, for when the prince especially invited her to the dance, the American girl would not go unless her fiance was also invited. He was and went, watched the prince dance with her three times in succession, and "cut in" when his highness begged for a fourth.

The prince saw her—Miss Veronica Purviance of Kansas City, daughter of Charles Purviance, manager of the Armour packing plant here—at a luncheon given to his royal highness by the British colony. Mr. Purviance had been invited, with his family, as president of the American Association of Montevideo.

The next day Miss Purviance received a card from the British minister saying that at his royal highness' request she was invited to attend a reception and dance the prince was giving. She answered that, as she was engaged, the invitation would have to include her fiance, with the result that a card also went to Leonard Welch of the Buenos Aires branch of the National City bank, who hurriedly took the next boat to Montevideo.

No other Americans and no English were invited to the dance, which was to repay the attentions of the Uruguayans. The Uruguayan senoritas of the best families were out in force. The three dances the prince danced with Miss Purviance were the first three, and it was said that when she reminded the prince that he had a duty to perform and should dance with the others, he replied:

"I'm fed up with duty dances." It was here that her fiance claimed her.

Are You One of the 98%?

Recently the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., sent out over one hundred thousand questionnaires to women who had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, asking if they had been helped by its use. From the replies received 98 per cent of women, from all walks of life, answered in the affirmative, telling how they had been relieved from the various ailments for which they had taken it. Isn't this a wonderful recommendation for the efficiency of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine.

The gymnasium classes opened the 1925-26 season October 1. Records at the "Y" show that many men and boys are taking advantage of the equipment offered by the association to its membership. In the roster of Business Men's "A" group are Rev. F. G. Fowler, Maurice Newman, R. H. Perry, O. H. Dawson, Rev. L. J. Davison, Leon Rubin, E. L. Carson, W. H. Nagel, I. A. Blumberg, R. J. White, D. J. Smally, R. R. Rigby, Fletcher Chadwick, H. J. Price, Collin F. Kinsey, G. W. Durkee, L. R. Burbick, L. J. Lavin, David Sahol, Edward Adams and Harold Downard.

The work offered in the business men's classes consists of calisthenics, with piano accompaniment, indoor baseball and volleyball. There is sufficient room in both men's classes for additional members and enrollment may be made at any time.

In addition to the regular classes the gymnasium is open to those wishing to "work out" alone when it does not interfere with other classes. A special room equipped with chest weights, punching bag and rowing machine is available at all times.

Special features which will be introduced in the gymnasium classes this month include an athletic tournament for members of the boys' division, a senior basketball league, health talks and formation of a boys' leader club.

Sousa Lauds Jazz.

CLEVELAND.—"Jazz, whatever it is, has improved American legs and shortened skirts," said John Philip Sousa, here for a concert.

"The average woman has danced until she has the kind of understanding that goes with short skirt. The bystander sees much less that is distressing to gaze upon than in the petticoat days of '90." Jazz? What is jazz?" And John Philip Sousa, laughed heartily.

With a cast composed entirely of members of the family of John Buchanan, the novelist, and all minor parts by other relatives, a play was presented at Broughton, England, recently.

Wheels of Special Train Rattle Off $500,000 Song for Poultry Raisers

Head Hunting in Luzon Replaced by Tame Games

New York.—"I was surprised and somewhat disappointed to learn when I reached the Philippines that head-hunting tribes had given up their ancient pastime under persuasion of American officials," declared Alvin Coombe, who recently has been around the world with his family.

"While I didn't get the thrill I expected, my curiosity brought me one of the most interesting bits of information I picked up during the entire trip.

"An army officer, who had held some administrative job in the northern part of Luzon island, where head-hunting had its greatest vogue, told me they had changed their habits by teaching them American sports.

"A successful collector of skulls enjoyed the same prestige in his community as a successful collector of home runs on an American baseball team.

"It was sound reasoning, and I think it could be applied in other parts of the world where half-civilized peoples who have no sports amuse themselves and reveal the competitive spirit in feuds and prolonged murder tournaments.

"I think the most attractive part of the new school of recreation to the savage is the gallery his games attract. When he hunted heads he hunted alone. He gets more kicks from the cheers of the spectators at the games than from the deferred praise for a successful head hunt."

'Show-Ott, Comes to Ceramic Theatre At $1.50 Top Price

Great American Comedy, Enroute From Chicago to East Will Visit Here Nov. 12.

As a result of a suggestion made by Manager William Tallman, of the Ceramic theatre, the management of "The Show-Off," declared by newspaper critics to be the greatest American comedy ever staged, will be presented here Thursday evening, November 12, at a top price of $1.50 and war tax as an experiment.

This concession was made despite the fact that $2.50 was the top price in New York, Chicago, Toronto, Canada, Buffalo, N. Y., Youngstown, Canton and other cities in which George Kelly's sensational success has appeared. The company will visit East Liverpool en route to the east, where it will play an extended engagement.

"The Show-Off" has broken box office records wherever it has appeared.

If there were more real American plays of American life by American authors like George Kelly with his keen insight, we should have better theatres, as local playgoers who visit "The Show-Off" after seeing this merry comedy with its note of tragedy sounded just once, but so ominously true for each and all that it compels almost breathless attention. Then, too, "The Show-Off" as depicted by Raymond Walburn has caught on in great shape with his misquotations, his ignorance and his continuous braying, "Sign on the dotted line."

The "show-off" himself is a bluffing braggart, a conceited ass, not vicious, not dishonest nor brutal. A queer mixture of ego and assinity, with the sort of a complex with which psychologists would love to experiment during its formative stage. A loud and continuous laugh is the warning which invariably heralds his entrance and exits. He is impervious to ridicule and even direct insult; self satisfied, a poseur and a four-flusher, net. But here is where the playright has done skillful work. He reveals, little by little, a latent common sense underneath the ego-encrusted exterior, and at the end of the play one has a feeling that Aubrey Piper, while he always will be a flamboyant admirer of his own self, will none the less be successful. He is characteristic of his day and age, his country and his kind—but not his city. He lives in Philadelphia. One does not associate show-offs with that somnolent metropolis. "Ma" Fisher, as played by Mary Horne Morrison, her daughters, Amy and Clara, played by Miriam Cordell and Gertrude Fowler, are as clean cut and human as the people whom we rub shoulders with daily.

Made a Hit With Him

"My wife has taken your medicine and has been wonderfully benefited. For over four years she has had trouble with bloating and could scarcely eat any food because of this condition. Doctor's medicines did not help her and an operation was advised. Her brother, who is a druggist, sent her a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and it helped her at once. I cannot praise your medicine enough." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and druggists everywhere.

'Show-Off' Setting Can Be Laid In Any American Community

Great Comedy, Coming to Ceramic Theatre on Nov. 12, is Story of Life in Philadelphia.

Literary critics tell us that if writers who strive for realism will but set down on paper incidents in their own lives, or incidents in the lives of other people about them in their home towns, they will achieve a surer and swifter success than, let us say, one who was born in New York and never visits Texas and writes a novel of Texan folk. Perhaps George Kelly never had to be admonished for writing of things not within his own periphery. At any rate, being a realist, he has hewed close to the line and the result is "The Show Off," the comedy which comes to the Ceramic theatre Thursday, Nov. 12.

"The Show-off," while it's setting can be laid in any American community, is of life in Philadelphia, and what is more, is written by a Philadelphian, who is proud of his home town despite the comic quips professional humorists employed to draw laughts from the great American reading public.

Kelly, it seems, was born to be on the stage. His brother is the celebrated Walter C. Kelly, known wherever there is a vaudevill theatre, as "The Virginia Judge." Little wonder that George should take to the footlights; but even less wonder that he should later turn to writing for the stage, rather than seeking lasting fame as a Thespian. Several seasons as a legitimate actor, notably in "The Virginian," a season or two in vaudeville, and in an act of his own, and Kelly forsook the glare of the footlights to the more quiet and peaceful life of a dramatist in his own Philadelphia parlor. Followed one successful vaudeville playlet on the heels of another, which incidentally Stewart and French produced, and then came a long, long pause that presaged even greater things from the pen of this facile writer—his first play.

While "The Torch Bearers,' the sharp-edged satire on the evergrowing little theatre movement, set New York agog because of it's wit and keen philosophy, it proved to be more of an artistic than a financial success. Another long wait and "The Show-Off," produced also by Stewart and French, sponsors for everything he has ever written, came into New York one cold February day in 1923 and remained there for two solid years.

"Cowboy Girl," Big Musical Show, at Strand Theatre

What is called the most novel and attractive kind of a theatrical performance is the Lem B. Parker play, "The Cowboy Girl," which is at the Strand theatre today and tomorrow under the direction of the producers, Kilroy & Britton. "The Cowboy Girl" is melodramatic, musical and filled with live comedy. A very interesting dramatic story is told graphically. The costumes are bright, fresh looking and colorful. The scenery is picturesque and there are seven original song hits, introduced by a brilliant chorus of pretty cowgirls.

Norway has a business depression and thousands of men are out of work.

Mars Mystery Faces Solution In New Photographic Plate

Discloses Atmosphere Renewing Theory of Life on Faraway Planet, Dr. W. H. Wright Says.

SAN FRANCISCO.—A marvelous new photographic plate that takes remarkablely clear long-distance photographs and that may solve the mystery of Mars has been developed by Dr. W. H. Wright of Lick Observatory, on Mount Hamilton, fifty miles south of San Francisco.

By means of the new plate, which makes use of the new infra-red light, Dr. Wright has taken photographs of Mars disclosing that an atmosphere is present and thereby renewing the theory that life may exist on the mysterious planet about which so little has been learned.

Besides this, Dr. Wright has been able to take clear, sharp, photographs of San Jose and the Coast Range mountains, 30 miles away from Mount Hamilton, and of Yosemite Valley, 125 miles from the observatory. Photographs taken at the same time with ordinary plates disclosed nothing but a great bank of atmosphere haze.

May Be Life on Mars.

Along with his discussion of the new photographic plate, Dr. Wright had something to say about the possibility of life being present on Mars.

"Ih there life or are there human being on Mars? Well, you have asked me two questions," he said. "In answer I might say it's a million to one shot that there are no human beings on Mars, but life—well, that another matter.

"If we assume the theory of evolution to be true, and furthermore take it for granted that life in some form or other got started on Mars, it would be quite unreasonable, in fact absurd, to assume that organic forms followed the same course of development there as on earth. The chances would be largely against it.

"It is conceivable that the Martian may have developed into a being with no power of speech or hearing, but with a completely equipped radio set as a part of his body.

"Of course, this sounds absurd and far fetched, but it is no more so than to suppose that there are human beings like ourselves on Mars."

While experimenting with photographs of the planet made with various color schemes, Dr. Wright found reasons to believe that there is an atmosphere around Mars. His experiments showed that by using infra-red light the atmosphere or envelope of gases around the earth may be photographed through with comparative ease. When using the ordinary violet light a very few miles is the limit of the camera's eye.

This was seen by pictures taken by Dr. Wright from the top of Mount Hamilton toward San Jose.

In the picture taken with violet light, only the nearby ridge some six miles distant is visable. In the second picture the infra-red light rolls aside the curtain of the atmosphere, and San Jose, thirteen and a half miles away, and the coast range mountains, thirty miles distant, are as clear as the foregrounds.

Other Experiments.

Further experiments showed it possible to take pictures of the Yosemite Valley, 125 miles off, just as easily.

Two pictures of Mars show striking differences. Both were taken at the same time. The first picture shows only a grayish disk.

In the second picture with the clearing aid of the infra-red light, the mask is removed and the presence of shapes and outlines on the planet is clearly seen. This led to the assumption of Dr. Wright that Mars is surrounded by an atmosphere in some manner similar to that of our own earth.

Observations show that there is probably some oxygen in this atmosphere. Experts at the observatory on Mount Wilson estimate it to be about 15 per cent of the amount of our earth.

This is less than the percentage of oxygen found on top of Mount Everest, and no human being has ever been able to survive this scarcity long enough to reach the summit. Therefore, any living animal that we know of would necessarily have to be rebuilt physically to live upon Mars, Dr. Wright said.

Cartridges concealed in the tubes of a motorcycle owned by a farmer of Londonderry, Ireland, exploded while the machine was being repaired, and two mechanics in the repairshop were seriously injured by bullets.

Sphinx Gets Backache in Her, or His, Old Age

Cairo. — The celebrated sphinx of Giza, who, historians believe, is between 5,000 and 6,000 years old, is having trouble with her (or his) back in her (or his) old age.

The back of the giant figure, which has withstood the wear of several millenniums, is showing signs of cracking, and the antiquities department of the Egyptian government is taking measures to strengthen it. The department is also clearing away the desert sands, which are constantly encroaching on the famous monument and already cover a part of it.

Kills Octopus

Olympia, Wash.—An octopus weighing 120 pounds with a nine-foot spread of tentacles was killed on Alki beach by Herbert Comode after a thrilling fight, during which one of the slimy arms was entwined around its captor's ankle. In the Fraser river a fisherman recently caught a sturgeon weighing 1,200 pounds, which yielded 50 pounds of caviar.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

Limestone Surface Deposits Vanishing In Speedy Fashion

WASHINGTON—More than 120,000,000 tons of limestone are used commercially in the United States very year, according to a survey conducted by the Department of Commerce. The study discloses that the surface deposits of limestone gradually are becoming exhausted, forcing more and more operators to employ underground methods of quarrying.

Owing to the lack of familiarity with mining for limestone, department experts have made a study to determine the methods in use, to ascertain what constitutes good and bad practice and to suggest improvements that will increase the officiency of the industry. This investigation conducted by the Bureau of Mines has placed at the disposal of quarrymen a great volume of information that officials believe will be of important benefit.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE ANSWERED

Makes remarkable recovery from bad sprain

WORKS LIKE WONDER TO RELIEVE PAIN

Shoulder sprained, returns to work next day

A remarkable case of quick relief from pain and a phenomenally rapid recovery from a bad sprain is told by a stockyards worker in Davenport, Iowa.

"I was loading a quarter of beef, and coming out of the cooler I slipped and sprained my shoulder. I used Sloan's Liniment and the next day I was able to go back to work. It does work like wonder to relieve pain."

This is one letter—typical of thousands received by the makers of Sloan's, that tell how sprains, bruises, lame muscles, have been helped by this wonderful liniment.

What is the secret of its marvelous effectiveness? It is the healing tide of fresh, new blood that Sloan's sends right to the place that hurts.

No need to rub. The medicine itself does the work. Quickly and surely it takes down the swelling and inflammation—drives out the pain. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

Boston Uses Theater as School for Culture

Boston.—The opening of the Repertory theater of Boston with Sheridan's "The Rivals," gives official recognition to a theater as an educational institution, and thus is exempted from taxation.

Patterned somewhat along the lines of many civic theaters of Europe, the workers on this stage will strive not only for the perfection of their art, but also to give earnest students of the drama a chance to absorb the real atmosphere of the theater.

Its educational efforts will be to present plays of artistic merit to the public, to interest high school students in the theater, and to train and teach embryo actors and actresses.

Professional actors and actresses will play the characters while students look on at rehearsals and receive their instruction from these same professionals.

The theater is the outcome of years of effort, and for Henry Jewett, its director, and Mrs. Jewett, who has been the guiding hand in many phases of the work, it is a vision realized.

Finances of the theater will be handled by a board of trustees and the entire project will be non-profit making.

Mr. Jewett hopes eventually to buy original plays and send out road companies to show other cities what the Repertory theater is doing in the hope that similar projects may be launched elsewhere.

The theater itself cost $150,000 and embraces all that is modern. It will accommodate 499 people.

LEARN FACTS ABOUT FORESTRY

American citizens have before them a specter of an America without wood. As a result country-wide attention is focused on the forest problem.

Three times as much timber is cut each year as is allowed to grow. The Forest Service is authority for the statement that two-thirds of the timber which is cut is wasted.

Lumbering is second only to agriculture among the basic industries yet the average person knows little about it.

Our Washington Information Bureau has for free distribution an illustrated booklet entitled "Our American Forests." It explains the critical situation of forestry and states what the new forest movement proposes to do about it.

Heavy Rain Saves Village as Flames Sweep Buildings

ST. REGIS FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 6.—This northern New York village was threatened with destruction by fire last night and early today when flames, breaking out in the St. Regis Falls high school, spread to the First Methodist Episcopal church and parsonage and endangered two Main street blocks The blaze is attributed to a defective chimney. The loss is estimated at more than $75,000.

With the village fire pump out of commission, only a heavy downpour of rain saved the entire village from possible destruction.

Towns Isolated and Crops Damaged in Louisiana.

EAST TEXAS HIT

Train Service Disrupted, Bridges Washed Out, Roads Impassable.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 6.—Towns isolated, heavy crop damage, train service disrupted, dirt highways impassable and both railroad and highway bridges damaged, was the toll today of rainfall that was virtually a cloudburst Thursday over a wide area in north Louisiana and parts of east Texas, according to reports received here.

Washouts on many railroads caused cancellation of trains and forced wide detours over other lines.

The Texas and Pacific, Rock Island, Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific, Santa Fe and the Missouri Pacific were the roads hardest hit.

Rice and Cotton Loss Heavy.

Damage to cotton remaining in the fields in the deluged area will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Practically none that remained can be saved, it is said.

Heavy damage was caused in the Beaumont, Texas, district, where about 60 per cent of the rice crop remained in the shock. It was estimated that practically none of the rice remaining in the fields can be saved as much of it had begun to sprout. Railroad, interurban and automobile traffic in that city and within a radius of 20 miles was paralyzed by rain averaging two inches an hour for nearly three hours. Storm sewers were un-

DAUGHTER JUMPS THROUGH WINDOW

Position of Bodies Indicated Husband Attempted to Lead Woman and Tots From Bungalow.

BALLSTON SPA, N. Y., Nov. 6.—A man and his wife and four of their five children were burned to death here today when fire dstroyed the home of George Kemp.

The dead:
GEORGE KEMP, 40.
MRS. MARY KEMP, 38.
VIOLA ALLEN, 14.
MYRTLE ALLEN, 9.
CAROL ALLEN, 10.
MARCIA KEMP, 11.

Another Child May Die.

The Allen children are Mrs. Kemp's by a previous marriage.

The only person who was in the house when the fire started and who escaped death was Beatrice Kemp, 16, and she was badly burned and may die.

The Kemp home was located on Church street, just outside the village line on the Schnectady-Ballston road. It was near a small garage operated by Kemp.

The girl who escaped jumped through a window and ran to the home of a neighbor. Her clothing was in flames and but for the quisk work of Walter Bentley, a neighbor, she would have been burned to death.

Burned Beyond Recognition.

Five of the dead, their bodies burned beyond recognition, were found huddled in one room, from the position of the bodies, Dr. Robert C. Castree, coroner, said he believed Kemp had been trying to lead his wife and children safely from the house when they were all overcome.

Firemen found the wooden bungalow a roaring furnace when they arrived. They strung a line of hose more than a quarter of a mile from the village limits to play water on the structure.

The body of one of the children was found in a separate room. It also was burned beyond recognition.

"Humanity owes a great debt to the red cross workers of the world", reads the governor's red cross proclamation. "The task is never to burdensome and no place is too remote, or too hazardous for their undertakings. Extreme sacrifices have been made in many instances."

Governor Donahey, in his Armistice day proclamation asked Ohioans, "so far as practicable", to observe Armistice day as a half holiday.

Lake Steamer, With 40 Men Aboard, Is Adrift In Gale

Hamonic is Storm Victim Off Caribou Island, While Another Vessel is Crippled in Lake Huron.

CALUMET, Mich., Nov. 6.—Coast guards here today are battling a fierce gale in an effort to reach the disabled steamer Hamonic, adrift, with a crew of 40 men, about 25 miles off Caribou Island. Radio dispatches from the vessel broke off in the middle, leading to the belief that she is in serious straits. Another steamer, the William Roberts, is reported adrift off Alpena, in Lake Huron.

Dispatches from other lake vessels report the steamers G. A. Tomlinson and Robert J. Paisley, standing by the crippled vessel unable to approach because of the heavy seas. They are waiting recession of the high winds to take the crew from the Hamonic.

The position of the Hamonic, as nearly as could be ascertained from the interrupted distress signals, was about 25 miles off Caribou Island, north of Grand Marais.

Scores of vessels, caught in Lake Superior in the roughest weather of the season, ran for cover. Many took refuge in the lee of Keweenaw port, while others gained refuge in artificial landlocked recesses along the shore. The Eagle Harbor coast guard station reported at least 12 of 30 vessels on the lake had passed that point safely and had reached the channel leading to Lake Huron.

The plight of the Roberts is also serious, according to word received here. Stripped of her propeller, she is wallowing in the trough of great waves in Lake Huron. Several other freighters have abandoned their course in Huron, according to dispatches.

The passenger season of the Hamonic, one of the largest steamers on the lake, was ended and Captain J. D. Montgomery, with a crew of 40, was taking the vessel to winter quarters when caught in the gale.

PSYCHOLOGISTS AND PSYCHIATRISTS BATTLE IN BLAZER "LOVE MURDER"

BY MICHAEL F. DACY

LITTLETON, Colo., Nov. [illegible]—The battle of psychologists and pyschiatrists that is expected to determine the innocence or guilt of Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer, 60-year-old "country doctor," formerly of Salineville, O., on trial in district court here for the chloroform slaying of his 32-year old imbecilic daughter, Hazel Ingrit Blazer, will get under way today.

Selection of the jury to try the "old fashioned" physician was expected to be completed soon after court convened, and Joel Stone, prosecuting attorney, will immediately launch his opening statement. The youthful, aggressive prosecutor will declare to the jury that the defendant will be proven to have been of sound mentality when the so-called "murder for love" occurred in the Blazer bungalow in Englewood last February and, while he will not demand the death penalty for the accused slayer, he will seek a verdict of first degree murder with a life imprisonment sentence.

Hits "Soulless Girl" Claim.

The state, according to Stone, will declare that the "soulless girl," who was a mis-shapen, helpless invalid for 32 years, was a human being in all that the phrase implies; that she did have a soul, and was not only entitled to live until called to the Great Beyond by some power other than human, but that she enjoyed life despite her imbecilic condition.

In further outlining today his theory of temporary insanity in the form of "psychial automatism" that will be the foundation of the defense, Lewis De R. Mowry, chief counsel for Dr. Blazer, declared the defendants condition

MONEY CHEST WILL BE EMPTY DECEMBER 1, GASTON WARNS

Enough Funds on Hand to Meet November Indebtedness.

SEEK TAX CHECK

Plan to Ask County for Advance of Apportionment.

The East Liverpool district public schools will be "broke" December 1.

Because of a shrinkage of approximately 10 per cent in tax collections there is a shortage of about $27,000 in the 1925 budget. Consequently school funds will be depleted at the end of the present month, according to Emmett J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer of the board of education.

Clerk Explains Situation

Gaston, at last night's session, reported a balance of $35,374.29 in the school fund. This money will be used to meet the November payroll and to liquidate bonds, interest charges and current bills.

Gaston explained that the financial embarrassment was due to the decrease in school funds available from taxes. The budget placed the district school's expenses at approximately $317,000. County authorities a year ago fixed a tax rate which would bring in this amount of money, but the fact that approximately 10 percent of the tax payers are delinquent each year was not considered. As a result, the schools, instead of receiving $317,000, were given only $290,000, leaving a deficit of about $27,000.

Additional Deficit Looms.

Inasmuch as a settlement of the December taxes cannot be expected early in 1926, the school board must

County Officials Warn Delinquents Must Pay Next Month.

All special assessments unpaid and due at the close of the June tax period, together with those payable December next, have been placed on the tax duplicate, and will be collected the same as tax on real estate, it was announced at Lisbon today.

Today there is due the various villages, cities and county a total of $103,206.76 in special assessments. This sum will be charged against all property benefited by public improvements, together with the special assessments payable this year, which is expected to reach the total due last December, $211,436.39.

There has been paid into the county treasury so far this year $109,413.03 in special assessments, and this has been charged back to the various subdivisions.

County officials said that no real estate tax will be accepted in Decem-

EAST LIVERPOOL DISTRICT WILL ENACT SANTA CLAUS ROLE IN HELPING TO PAY FOR $950,000 BOND ISSUE FOR COUNTY'S 95-MILE ROAD PROGRAM

The East Liverpool district, which rolled up a big majority for the $950,000 county bond issue in Tuesday's election, will enact the role of Santa Claus in the three-year road improvement program which, with state and federal aid, ill result in an investment of approximately $2,150,000.

The city and Liverpool township, with a tax duplicate of $36,110,000, will pay $256,650 toward liquidation of the bond issue and interest charges during the next 10 years in addition to $216,000 during the next three years on the old two-mill levy, and in return will receive nothing in the way of direct benefits.

This was revealed today by L. H. Johnson, son of Lisbon, county commissioners' clerk, when he outlined on the county road map the apportionment of funds as well as the district contributions toward the bond issue and road tax in the 95-mile highway building program.

Indirect Benefits.

However, sight should not be lost of the fact that East Liverpool indirectly shares in the improvements, for the commissioners' plans call, among other things, for the completion of the Youngstown-East Liverpool road as well as the East Liverpool-East Palestine highway.

And, too, the commissioners have been liberal in dealing with the Ceramic City and Liverpool township since the two-mill levy was approved. Recently the county pledged a contribution toward the cost of the improvement of West Eighth street, while county money has been expended on other arteries of transportation out of East Liverpool.

Wellsville and Yellow Creek township and Lisbon and Center township, which, like East Liverpool have shared in road improvement funds allotted during recent years, each will get only one-half mile of new highway.

Lion's Share of Fund.

Elkrun township, with 13½ miles, costing $405,000; Knox township, with 11 miles, costing $330,000; Middleton township, with 10 miles, costing $300,000; Butler township, with nine miles, costing $270,000; Franklin township, with eight miles, costing $240,000; Fairfield township, with six and one-half miles, costing $195,000, and St. Clair township, six miles, costing $190,000, and Madison and Wayne townships, each with four miles, costing a total of $260,000, will be given the lion's share of the program.

These figures take into consideration the entire cost of the improvements, for state and federal dollars will aid in meeting the contract prices.

With the announcement of the allotment of funds, in which estimates of costs are given, it was revealed that approval of the bond issue will permit the use of funds received under the two-mill levy for general road work. Had the bond issue been defeated, diversion of the levy to pay the county's share of the Youngstown-East Liverpool highway job would have been necessary.

Allotment of Funds.

Commissioners' Clerk Johnson's figures on valuation, share of the bonds, two-mill levy payments, total cost and apportionment of road improvements in the respective townships follow:

East Liverpool and Liverpool township—Valuation, $36,110,000; bonds, $256,650; two-mill levy, $216,000; total, $472,650; gets nothing.

St. Clair township—Valuation, $1,724,000; bonds, $12,250; two-mill levy, $10,344; total, $22,594; gets six miles of highway costing $190,000.

Middleton township—Valuation, $1,957,000; bonds, $14,750; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $26,750; gets 10 miles of highway costing $300,000.

Unity township—Valuation, $11,161,000; bonds, $80,750; two-mill levy, $66,966; total, $157,716; gets two miles of highway costing $60,000.

Fairfield township—Valuation, $9,679,000; bonds, $66,500; two-mill levy, $57,000; total, $123,500; gets six and one-half miles of highway costing $195,000.

Elkrun township — Valuation, $2,125,000; bonds, $15,200; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $27,200; gets 13½ miles of highway costing $405,000.

Madison township — Valuation, $2,151,000; bonds, $15,400; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $27,400; gets four miles of highway costing $130,000.

Yellow Creek township and Wellsville—Valuation, $11,300,000; bonds, $85,000; two-mill levy, $66,000; total, $151,000; gets one-half mile of highway costing $15,000.

Washington township—Valuation, $3,778,000 bonds, $28,500; two-mill levy, $22,500; total, $51,000; get three miles of highway costing $90,000.

A real day in Wall Street yesterday, almost 3,000,000 shares sold. When the market opened there were buyers asking for 6,000 shares of one stock; not a share was offered. Something strange on the exchange.

The great financial pot is still boiling violently, and the fire seems to get hotter. Some will get scalded, others will get their share of the rich financial soup.

LEARN FACTS ABOUT FORESTRY

American citizens have before them a specter of an America without wood. As a result country-wide attention is focused on the forest problem.

Three times as much timber is cut each year as is allowed to grow. The Forest Service is authority for the statement that two-thirds of the timber which is cut is wasted.

Lumbering is second only to agriculture among the basic industries yet the average person knows little about it.

Our Washington Information Bureau has for free distribution an illustrated booklet entitled "Our American Forests." It explains the critical situation of forestry and states what the new forest movement proposes to do about it.

Inform and entertain yourself with this romantic story of American trees. Send in the coupon below and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage.

16-YEAR-OLD GIRL ONLY MEMBER OF FAMILY TO ESCAPE AS HOME BURNS

Blaze, Believed to Have Started From Overheated Stove, Sweeps Frame Dwelling Near Ballston Spa, N. Y.

DAUGHTER JUMPS THROUGH WINDOW

Position of Bodies Indicated Husband Attempted to Lead Woman and Tots From Bungalow.

BALLSTON SPA, N. Y., Nov. 6.—A man and his wife and four of their five children were burned to death here today when fire dstroyed the home of George Kemp.

The dead:
GEORGE KEMP, 40.
MRS. MARY KEMP, 38.
VIOLA ALLEN, 14.
MYRTLE ALLEN, 9.
CAROL ALLEN, 10.
MARCIA KEMP, 11.

Another Child May Die.

The Allen children are Mrs. Kemp's by a previous marriage.

The only person who was in the house when the fire started and who escaped death was Beatrice Kemp, 16, and she was badly burned and may die.

The Kemp home was located on Church street, just outside the village line on the Schnectady-Ballston road. It was near a small garage operated by Kemp.

The girl who escaped jumped through a window and ran to the home of a neighbor. Her clothing was in flames and but for the quisk work of Walter Bentley, a neighbor, she would have been burned to death.

Burned Beyond Recognition.

Five of the dead, their bodies burned beyond recognition, were found huddled in one room, from the position of the bodies, Dr. Robert C. Castree, coroner, said he believed Kemp had been trying to lead his wife and children safely from the house when they were all overcome.

Firemen found the wooden bungalow a roaring furnace when they arrived. They strung a line of hose more than a quarter of a mile from the village limits to play water on the structure.

The body of one of the children was found in a separate room. It also was burned beyond recognition.

Heavy Rain Saves Village as Flames Sweep Buildings

ST. REGIS FALLS, N. Y., Nov. 6.—This northern New York village was threatened with destruction by fire last night and early today when flames, breaking out in the St. Regis Falls high school, spread to the First Methodist Episcopal church and parsonage and endangered two Main street blocks The blaze is attributed to a defective chimney. The loss is estimated at more than $75,000.

With the village fire pump out of commission, only a heavy downpour of rain saved the entire village from possible destruction.

SOUTH SUFFERS AS CLOUDBURST EXACTS TOLL

Towns Isolated and Crops Damaged in Louisiana.

EAST TEXAS HIT

Train Service Disrupted, Bridges Washed Out, Roads Impassable.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 6.—Towns isolated, heavy crop damage, train service disrupted, dirt highways impassable and both railroad and highway bridges damaged, was the toll today of rainfall that was virtually a cloudburst Thursday over a wide area in north Louisiana and parts of east Texas, according to reports received here.

Washouts on many railroads caused cancellation of trains and forced wide detours over other lines.

The Texas and Pacific, Rock Island, Vicksburg, Shreveport and Pacific, Santa Fe and the Missouri Pacific were the roads hardest hit.

Rice and Cotton Loss Heavy.

Damage to cotton remaining in the fields in the deluged area will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. Practically none that remained can be saved, it is said.

Heavy damage was caused in the Beaumont, Texas, district, where about 60 per cent of the rice crop remained in the shock. It was estimated that practically none of the rice remaining in the fields can be saved as much of it had begun to sprout. Railroad, interurban and automobile traffic in that city and within a radius of 20 miles was paralyzed by rain averaging two inches an hour for nearly three hours. Storm sewers were un-

"Humanity owes a great debt to the red cross workers of the world", reads the governor's red cross proclamation. "The task is never to burdensome and no place is too remote, or too hazardous for their undertakings. Extreme sacrifices have been made in many instances."

Lake Steamer, With 40 Men Aboard, Is Adrift In Gale

Hamonic is Storm Victim Off Caribou Island, While Another Vessel is Crippled in Lake Huron.

CALUMET, Mich., Nov. 6.—Coast guards here today are battling a fierce gale in an effort to reach the disabled steamer Hamonic, adrift, with a crew of 40 men, about 25 miles off Caribou Island. Radio dispatches from the vessel broke off in the middle, leading to the belief that she is in serious straits. Another steamer, the William Roberts, is reported adrift off Alpena, in Lake Huron.

Dispatches from other lake vessels report the steamers G. A. Tomlinson and Robert J. Paisley, standing by the crippled vessel unable to approach because of the heavy seas. They are waiting recession of the high winds to take the crew from the Hamonic.

The position of the Hamonic, as nearly as could be ascertained from the interrupted distress signals, was about 25 miles off Caribou Island, north of Grand Marais.

Scores of vessels, caught in Lake Superior in the roughest weather of the season, ran for cover. Many took refuge in the lee of Keweenaw port, while others gained refuge in artificial landlocked recesses along the shore. The Eagle Harbor coast guard station reported at least 12 of 30 vessels on the lake had passed that point safely and had reached the channel leading to Lake Huron.

The plight of the Roberts is also serious, according to word received here. Stripped of her propeller, she is wallowing in the trough of great waves in Lake Huron. Several othor freighters have abandoned their course in Huron, according to dispatches.

The passenger season of the Hamonic, one of the largest steamers on the lake, was ended and Captain J. D. Montgomery, with a crew of 40, was taking the vessel to winter quarters when caught in the gale.

PSYCHOLOGISTS AND PSYCHIATRISTS BATTLE IN BLAZER "LOVE MURDER"

BY MICHAEL F. DACEY

LITTLETON, Colo., Nov. 6. — The battle of psychologists and pyschiatrists that is expected to determine the innocence or guilt of Dr. Harold Elmer Blazer, 60-year-old "country doctor," formerly of Salineville, O., on trial in district court here for the chloroform slaying of his 32-year old imbecilic daughter, Hazel Ingrit Blazer, will get under way today.

Selection of the jury to try the "old fashioned" physician was expected to be completed soon after court convened, and Joel Stone, prosecuting attorney, will immediately launch his opening statement. The youthful, aggressive prosecutor will declare to the jury that the defendant will be proven to have been of sound mentality when the so-called "murder for love" occurred in the Blazer bungalow in Englewood last February and, while he will not demand the death penalty for the accused slayer, he will seek a verdict of first degree murder with a life imprisonment sentence.

Hits "Soulless Girl" Claim.

The state, according to Stone, will declare that the "soulless girl," who was a mis-shapen, helpless invalid for 22 years, was a human being in all that the phrase implies; that she did have a soul, and was not only entitled to live until called to the Great Beyond by some power other than human, but that she enjoyed life despite her imbecilic condition.

In further outlining today his theory of temporary insanity in the form of "psychial automatism" that will be the foundation of the defense, Lewis De R. Mowry, chief counsel for Dr. Blazer, declared the defendants condition

Girl With "Date" Does Not Wait on Cleveland Traffic

CLEVELAND, Nov. 6.—Time and tide on no man wait, neither does a pretty girl with a "date" wait on traffic signals, Assistant Traffic Commissioner Martin Blecke learned today when he questioned a young lady summoned for "jaywalking" on busy Euclid avenue.

Taken to Central police station for walking against the traffic signal, she explained that she had an "appointment."

"I'm getting later all the time," she added somewhat impatiently. Blecke lectured her on the perils of disregarding traffic signals, then sent her to keep the "date."

MONEY CHEST WILL BE EMPTY DECEMBER 1, GASTON WARNS

Enough Funds on Hand to Meet November Indebtedness.

SEEK TAX CHECK

Plan to Ask County for Advance of Apportionment.

The East Liverpool district public schools will be "broke" December 1.

Because of a shrinkage of approximately 10 per cent in tax collections there is a shortage of about $27,000 in the 1925 budget. Consequently school funds will be depleted at the end of the present month, according to Emmett J. Gaston, clerk-treasurer of the board of education.

Clerk Explains Situation

Gaston, at last night's session, reported a balance of $35,374.29 in the school fund. This money will be used to meet the November payroll and to liquidate bonds, interest charges and current bills.

Gaston explained that the financial embarrassment was due to the decrease in school funds available from taxes. The budget placed the district school's expenses at approximately $317,000. County authorities a year ago fixed a tax rate which would bring in this amount of money, but the fact that approximately 10 percent of the tax payers are delinquent each year was not considered. As a result, the schools, instead of receiving $317,000, were given only $290,000, leaving a deficit of about $27,000.

Additional Deficit Looms.

Inasmuch as a settlement of the December taxes cannot be expected early in 1926, the school board must

SEEK UNPAID ASSESSMENTS

County Officials Warn Delinquents Must Pay Next Month.

All special assessments unpaid and due at the close of the June tax period, together with those payable December next, have been placed on the tax duplicate, and will be collected the same as tax on real estate, it was announced at Lisbon today.

Today there is due the various villages, cities and county a total of $103,206.76 in special assessments. This sum will be charged against all property benefited by public improvements, together with the special assessments payable this year, which is expected to reach the total due last December, $211,436.39.

There has been paid into the county treasury so far this year $109,413.03 in special assessments, and this has been charged back to the various subdivisions.

County officials said that no real estate tax will be accepted in Decem-

EAST LIVERPOOL DISTRICT WILL ENACT SANTA CLAUS ROLE IN HELPING TO PAY FOR $950,000 BOND ISSUE FOR COUNTY'S 95-MILE ROAD PROGRAM

The East Liverpool district, which rolled up a big majority for the $950,000 county bond issue in Tuesday's election, will enact the role of Santa Claus in the three-year road improvement program which, with state and federal aid, ill result in an investment of approximately $2,150,000.

The city and Liverpool township, with a tax duplicate of $36,110,000, will pay $256,650 toward liquidation of the bond issue and interest charges during the next 10 years in addition to $216,000 during the next three years on the old two-mill levy, and in return will receive nothing in the way of direct benefits.

This was revealed today by L. H. Johnson, son of Lisbon, county commissioners' clerk, when he outlined on the county road map the apportionment of funds as well as the district contributions toward the bond issue and road tax in the 95-mile highway building program.

Indirect Benefits.

However, sight should not be lost of the fact that East Liverpool indirectly shares in the improvements, for the commissioners' plans call, among other things, for the completion of the Youngstown-East Liverpool road as well as the East Liverpool-East Palestine highway.

And, too, the commissioners have been liberal in dealing with the Ceramic City and Liverpool township since the two-mill levy was approved. Recently the county pledged a contribution toward the cost of the improvement of West Eighth street, while county money has been expended on other arteries of transportation out of East Liverpool.

Wellsville and Yellow Creek township and Lisbon and Center township, which, like East Liverpool have shared in road improvement funds allotted during recent years, each will get only one-half mile of new highway.

Lion's Share of Fund.

Elkrun township, with 13½ miles, costing $405,000; Knox township, with 11 miles, costing $330,000; Middleton township, with 10 miles, costing $300,000; Butler township, with nine miles, costing $270,000; Franklin township, with eight miles, costing $240,000; Fairfield township, with six and one-half miles, costing $195,000, and St. Clair township, six miles, costing $190,000, and Madison and Wayne townships, each with four miles, costing a total of $260,000, will be given the lion's share of the program.

These figures take into consideration the entire cost of the improvements, for state and federal dollars will aid in meeting the contract prices.

With the announcement of the allotment of funds, in which estimates of costs are given, it was revealed that approval of the bond issue will permit the use of funds received under the two-mill levy for general road work. Had the bond issue been defeated, diversion of the levy to pay the county's share of the Youngstown-East Liverpool highway job would have been necessary.

Allotment of Funds.

Commissioners' Clerk Johnson's figures on valuation, share of the bonds, two-mill levy payments, total cost and apportionment of road improvements in the respective townships follow:

East Liverpool and Liverpool township—Valuation, $36,110,000; bonds, $256,650; two-mill levy, $216,000; total, $472,650; gets nothing.

St. Clair township—Valuation, $1,724,000; bonds, $12,250; two-mill levy, $10,344; total, $22,594; gets six miles of highway costing $190,000.

Middleton township—Valuation, $1,957,000; bonds, $14,750; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $26,750; gets 10 miles of highway costing $300,000.

Unity township—Valuation, $11,161,000; bonds, $80,750; two-mill levy, $66,966; total, $157,716; gets two miles of highway costing $60,000.

Fairfield township—Valuation, $9,679,000; bonds, $66,500; two-mill levy, $57,000; total, $123,500; gets six and one-half miles of highway costing $195,000.

Elkrun township — Valuation, $2,125,000; bonds, $15,200; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $27 200; gets 13½ miles of highway costing $405,000.

Madison township — Valuation, $2,151,000; bonds, $15,400; two-mill levy, $12,000; total, $27,400; gets four miles of highway costing $130,000.

Yellow Creek township and Wellsville—Valuation, $11,300,000; bonds, $85,000; two-mill levy, $66,000; total, $151,000; gets one-half mile of highway costing $15,000.

Washington township—Valuation, $3,778,000 bonds, $28,500; two-mill levy, $22,500; total, $51,000; get three miles of highway costing $90,000.

SURRENDER

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Poe Norris

CHAPTER 83.

Over their late breakfast the following morning, Mrs. J. Reignald Ainsley spoke pointedly to her daughter.

"Philip seemed to be in rather a hurry last evening."

"Yes," Amoura admitted, "he only stayed five or ten minutes."

The elder woman regarded the other expecantly. Amoura carefully buttered again a piece of toast that already was dripping with the fat.

"I suppose, you know, Amoura," her mother said, when the silence persisted, "that there is talk because you are so friendly with an engaged man."

Amoura's eyes flashed. "Very friendly, indeed!" She waited until she had sipped her cocoa before adding, "After I had told him I thought it best for him not to come here so often, you invited him—as much as invited him, to lunch the very next day."

Mrs. Ainsley was silent before this show of anger.

After an awkward silence, Amoura, bitten by remorse, looked naivly at her mother, and said: "I understand that Philip isn't engaged to Miss Vaine any longer."

Mrs. Ainsley suddenly understood. There was no need for her to say anything.

They were leaving the breakfast table when Della summoned Amoura to the telephone. "I have a telegram from my attorney in Chicago," her father communicated. "He says the trial of the kidnapers is set for day after tomorrow and that you will have to be present.'

"Oh, shoot! I don't have to go!"

"But you'll have to."

On the spur of the moment, she decided that she would like to go to Chicago, trial or no trial. In an instant her plans were made. She would leave the community house in charge of the nurses and leave that evening.

So that the next afternoon she was registered at the same hotel in which she had taken refuge at the beginning of her adventure in Chicago. When she had rested, she took a taxi and sought a glimpse of Bloom's candy factory, of the Enterprise Manufacturing Company, and the boarding house near Washington Park. "If only I had a detective following me, everything would be complete," she smiled to herself.

That evening she went to see Van Pugh's show, and could not resist a desire to go backstage and visit with her former associates after the first act.

"The old kid herself," the profane Lulu exclaimed when Amoura showed her face in the dressing room. The girls, resting between the acts in a more or less nude state, drew their dressing gowns about them and crowded around her.

"Are you coming back?" Lulu asked.

"No, but I'd like to." An idea flashed into her mind. "Leave the stage door Johnnies standing in the cold night and come an have supper with me."

The assent was not unanimous, but nearly so.

"Hey, what's the row?" Hans Van Pugh barked through the door.

Amoura presented herself to his view, and he was all smiles.

"Miss Ainsley. Ah! You have come back."

"Just for the evening, however."

"Ah no! You must appear at least at one performance. You must play the old scene again. We have never been able to put it on and get the laughs that we did when you were the shrinking violet."

"Very well, I will."

That night she took the girls to the Drake, and what a time they had! The maitre d' hotel couldn't understand what it was all about—no men! but he "gave them the place."

Early in the morning, as she watched the first streaks of day from the window of the sleeping-room, she decided that she would ask her attorney to have the court dismiss the charges against the kidnapers. This was done.

When the morning papers appeared next day, they had another front page story about Miss Amoura Ainsley. She had appeared in court "dramatically" to plead the release of her captors, and she had capped the climax by appearing in the evening in her old role in Hans Van Pugh's show.

When Bill McGargle sought her in the morning, in search of a story, he found that she had left on an early train for Westland.

"That girl's a whizz!" he told Mac, the city editor. "Bet it's a good story when she gets married."

As she speeded back to Westland Amoura's mind was torn by two emotions. There was a desire in her mind to return to Chicago and resume her search for independence where she had left off, and there was the feeling that she had made a fool of herself with all her efforts to escape the binding ties of convention.

SURRENDER

The Story Of A Girl Who Dared

By Edgar Beecher Morris

CHAPTER 89.

Over their late breakiast the following morning, Mrs. J. Reignald Ainsley spoke pointedly to her daughter.

"Philip seemed to be in rather a hurry last evening."

"Yes," Amoura admitted, "he only stayed five or ten minutes."

The elder woman regarded the other expecantly. Amoura carefully buttered again a piece of toast that already was dripping with the fat.

"I suppose, you know, Amoura," her mother said, when the silence persisted, "that there is talk because you are so friendly with an engaged man."

Amoura's eyes flashed. "Very friendly, indeed!" She waited until she had sipped her cocoa before adding, "After I had told him I thought it best for him not to come here so often, you invited him—as much as invited him, to lunch the very next day."

Mrs. Ainsley was silent before this show of anger.

After an awkward silence, Amoura, bitten by remorse, looked naivly at her mother, and said: "I understand that Philip isn't engaged to Miss Vaine any longer."

Mrs. Ainsley suddenly understood. There was no need for her to say anything.

They were leaving the breakfast table when Della summoned Amoura to the telephone. "I have a telegram from my attorney in Chicago," her father communicated. "He says the trial of the kidnapers is set for day after tomorrow and that you will have to be present.'

"Oh, shoot! I don't have to go!"

"But you'll have to."

On the spur of the moment, she decided that she would like to go to Chicago, trial or no trial. In an instant her plans were made. She would leave the community house in charge of the nurses and leave that evening.

So that the next afternoon she was registered at the same hotel in which she had taken refuge at the beginning of her adventure in Chicago. When she had rested, she took a taxi and sought a glimpse of Bloom's candy factory, of the Enterprise Manufacturing Company, and the boarding house near Washington Park. "If only I had a detective following me, everything would be complete," she smiled to herself.

That evening she went to see Van Pugh's show, and could not resist a desire to go backstage and visit with her former associates after the first act.

"The old kid herself," the profane Lulu exclaimed when Amoura showed her face in the dressing room. The girls, resting between the acts in a more or less nude state, drew their dressing gowns about them and crowded around her.

"Are you coming back?" Lulu asked.

"No, but I'd like to." An idea flashed into her mind. "Leave the stage door Johnnies standing in the cold night and come an have supper with me."

The assent was not unanimous, but nearly so.

"Hey, what's the row?" Hans Van Pugh barked through the door.

Amoura presented herself to his view, and he was all smiles.

"Miss Ainsley. Ah! You have come back."

"Just for the evening, however."

"Ah no! You must appear at least at one performance. You must play the old scene again. We have never been able to put it on and get the laughs that we did when you were the shrinking violet."

"Very well, I will."

That night she took the girls to the Drake, and what a time they had! The maitre d' hotel couldn't understand what it was all about—no men! but he "gave them the place."

Early in the morning, as she watched the first streaks of day from the window of the sleeping-room, she decided that she would ask her attorney to have the court dismiss the charges against the kidnapers. This was done.

When the morning papers appeared next day, they had another front page story about Miss Amoura Ainsley. She had appeared in court "dramatically" to plead the release of her captors, and she had capped the climax by appearing in the evening in her old role in Hans Van Pugh's show.

When Bill McGargle sought her in the morning, in search of a story, he found that she had left on an early train for Westland.

"That girl's a whizz!" he told Mac, the city editor. "Bet it's a good story when she gets married."

As she speeded back to Westland Amoura's mind was torn by two emotions. There was a desire in her mind to return to Chicago and resume her search for independence where she had left off, and there was the feeling that she had made a fool of herself with all her efforts to escape the binding ties of convention.

In the Full Swing of a Great Autumn Business

100 Years Ago

New York's largest hotel had only thirty-four rooms and was considered a risky enterprise, according to a talented scribe of Gotham. Now they build them with over a thousand rooms quite as a matter of course. Store development, by the way, has been even more of a marvel and old timers don't have to go to New York to find it out.

Who remembers—in the words of Abe Martin—the shop of bygone days where every transaction was a tiresome debate—a test of staying powers?

Q. What is the value of property in the District of Columbia? F. J. W.

A. The total valuation of government and privately owned property in the District of Columbia is about one and a quarter billion dollars. Of this the government owns about one-third and the value of four hundred million or more dollars. This is exclusive of schools, engine houses, foreign legations, etc.

Q. When will the next convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs take place? N. S. R.

A. It will be held from May 24 to June 5, 1926, at Atlantic City.

Q. Who invented the Cherokee alphabet? S. H.

A. It was invented by George Guess, a half-breed Cherokee Indian who lived from about 1770 to 1843.

Q. What is meant by dead ice? M. H.

A. The term is applied to glacial ice which has lost its motion because the whole ice movement has been checked or because the part has become detached from the main ice sheet.

Q. When postal employes work on Christmas day, do they get a holiday afterward? T. O.

A. The postoffice department says that postal employes who are required to work on Christmas day because of the condition of the mails, are granted compensatory time on any of the following working days within 30 days after Christmas. It has been the policy of the department to limit to the absolute minimum the employment of men on Christmas day, and during this past year rural carriers were granted a holiday the entire day, and city carriers and clerks excused at noon.

Q. In what direction does a ship travel, going through the Panama Canal from the Pacific to the Atlantic Ocean? E. D. S.

Q. We often hear of the glass or jointed snake, which it is claimed is capable of becoming disjointed and coming together again. Is there such a reptile? O. H. W.

A. The explanation of this curious phenomenon lies in the ability of this reptile to drop its tail, an act which sometimes enables it to escape while the still wriggling tail attracts the pursuer. Many other lizards do the same thing, and a "spike" or short stubbed imperfect tail grows in place of the lost tail. This curious reptile is rarely seen, as it lives under decaying vegetation and leaves or burrows in the soil. It is sometimes turned up by the plow. It has long been the subject of discussion, and is merely a harmless, legless lizard, and because of it food habits it is of considerable value to agriculture.

Q. Was last spring warmer than usual? N. D.

A. The Weather Bureau says that February, March and April were warmer than usual over the entire country. It does not believe, however, that the world is getting warmer in general.

Q. Why do people try to reach the North Pole? M. H.

A. Early efforts in polar exploration were largeely for commercial interests. During the 20th century the renewal of exploration in the Arctic and Antarctic regions has been due largely to the spirit of scientific research, but also for geographic achievement. Peary at the North Pole made a great number of observations which are very valuable in the study of geography, physiography, meteorology and oceanography.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1925.

Candidates, How Much Did You Spend?

The Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections today called the attention of Republican and Democratic nominees and Independent candidates in the recent municipal and township balloting, as well as all party and non-partisan organizations, to the fact that the state law requires submission of reports of campaign receipts and expenditures.

Under the corrupt practices act, sworn statements of all monies received and disbursed, with a list of the names of persons who contributed it and to whom it was paid, must be filed with the election supervisors within 10 days after the election.

This means that defeated as well as successful candidates must tell the election board how much they spent in the recent fight. Failure to comply with the law shall make the offender subject to prosecution, while it also reacts against the officials-elect to the extent that no certificate of election shall be issued.

Candidates, therefore, should file campaign reports before midnight Friday night, November 13.

A hint to the wise is sufficient.

Americans do not like to "rub it into France," particularly after the fine spirit shown by that country at Locarno. Yet some French statesman or general or editor is always giving new occasion, and making it impossible for Americans to give France the warm-hearted approval they would like to give.

Condemnation deepens as the full horror of the Damascus massacre becomes known. It seems worse than the massacre at Amritsar, India, a couple of years ago, for which the British government and army were unsparingly criticised. It is hard to find anything in the annals of the World war more revolting than this bombardment of a big, populous, historic and beautiful city, without warning except to its French residents—the play of shells from without and the hail of death from war tanks running amuck through the streets, the bloody slaughter of thousands, regardless of nationality, and the burning and smashing of priceless monuments.

It was not only cruel to the native population, over which France is supposed to be a friendly guardian under a mandate based on the Versailles treaty, but it was almost unprecedented in its neglect of safety precautions for the foreign population. As a result, France now has a far more serious revolt on her hands, with incidental fanning of the anti-Christian fires among Mohammedans everywhere, and is in trouble with friendly governments.

Fortunately French sentiment at home condemns this outrage almost as severely as sentiment in America, England and Asia. It is set down as a monstrous mistake on the part of Gen. Sarrail. It is admitted that such a man should never have been governor-general of Syria with a free hand. He is recalled in disgrace, and France will try to repair the damage. That will be "some job."

Grace And Rhythm

Henry Ford, who started a back-to-the-dances-of-our-fathers movement may now go and sit in a corner. Another captain of industry has gone back a great deal farther than he. A movement started by George Eastman, the famous kodak manufacturer, sniffs at such modernities as the waltz and two-step and schottische and square dances of the last generation, and harks clear back to the ancient Greeks.

The Eastman School of the Dance and Dramatic Action is an ambitious venture, and a serious educational one, established as a part of the University of Rochester. It seeks to embody the old Greek conception of life as ruled by rhythm and grace, and regards dancing as no less important than mathematics, science and philosphy. It will try to combine again the dance and the drama in the same serious way that the old Greeks did. Music will naturally be a prominent part of the system.

The Greeks really grouped their system of education around "music," including in that term dancing, athletics, poetry, history and other branches of learning that moderns would not think of as musical. Music meant for them the things represented by the Muses.

If more of the old grace and beauty for which Greece was famous can be brought back to this smoky, clattering, nervous world, that is excellent. It does seem a bit odd, though, that the man placed in charge of this classic revival is a Russian formerly connected with the Moscow Art theater. The Russians are great artists in their way; but Russian art, with all its merits, is seldom associated with the grace and repose which characterized Greek art even in its most active forms.

Wills And Wants

A man on his way to a hospital, in danger of death, made his will on a bit of paper he happened to have in his pocket. It is valid and has been probated. He died before he got to the hospital.

Suppose he had not been able to make it then? It is possible that his estate might have been left as he wished, but not probable.

Making a will is not a gloomy business. It is good sense. It gets what you want done. Are your wife and children protected? It is really easier to get them cared for while you live than afterwards. They need your protection more then than now. But now you can see that they are protected then. Then you'll be gone and you cannot. It is very easy to make a will. Why not take care of it today?

Four social citadels on Fifth avenue are being despoiled by house wreckers. It costs too much to maintain a palace these days. The homes of Collis P. Huntington, William Astor, W. K. Vanderbilt and Cornelius Vanderbilt have been taken over for despoilation by realtors. The Huntington home held the priceless collection of books and paintings. The William Astor house was made the social capitol of New York by Ward McAllister, and it was sold to a young Jewish immigrant for $3,000,000. The Cornelius Vanderbilt home, which stood imposingly at Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street for so many years—with unwashed curtains—was modeled after the Chateau of Blois, whatever it was.

Prohibition is a good thing, writes an old New Yorker from Hollywood: "Some of the boys who looked as though they were through years ago around Times Square are out here running around in little boy pants, hatless and leading police dogs. They used to talk out of the side of the mouth like a Chatham Squdre tough. Now they have decided English accents and lard their hair."

The strangest accent of all flourishes in Brooklyn. Its origin is unknown, but its devotees say "idear" for idea, "sawr" for saw and with other words they drop the "r" such as "poil" and "goil."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

New Data on Mars.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—For centuries the planet Mars has intrigued the imaginations of men. Flashing angrily from the blackness of the void its red orb explains why the ancients named it for the war god. It might well be his evil eye glaring at the struggling earth with malignance in its look.

Its character—what it is like—has long been a matter of conjecture. Astronomers have set forth various theories about it and it has been the subject of fantastic novels. Indeed, the fascination of its red glare was so great that one astronomer is said to have walked off the balcony of his observation tower in his ecstacy after having discovered something about it.

But with the advance of years Mars is relinquishing many secrets. And a recent pamphlet published by the bureau of standards and prepared by W. W. Coblentz contains data which show that it has a lot in common with our planet.

Mars approached closest the earth, that is, attained its greatest brightness, 100, on August 21, 1924. Almost half a century must elapse before it attains a similar brightness and then it will only be one of 98. Fifteen years must elapse before it will even attain a brightness of 90. Hence the findings of Coblentz during the brightness of last year must be regarded as the most important for many years to come, as they were made at the most propritious time possible.

Temperature on the surface of the war god's world, when it is exposed to solar radiation, is a much debated question. Some of the older observations indicated a temperature much below zero Centigrade. They would tend to show that the Martian, if he exists, leads a frigid sort of life, and that he must have a whale of a coal bill, but more recent observations show different results.

Arizona Observations.

Observations at the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, made recently, introduce new factors, which were previously neglected, and calculate temperatures considerably above zero Centigrade. They agree with visual observations which have been made for years. These show a periodic waxing and waning of the Martian polar caps, presumably of snow, and the disappearances of the white deposits of frost under the Martian noonday sun.

Atmospheric conditions, mundane or Martian, greatly affect temperature readings. Also atmospheric conditions on Mars, of course, seriously influence temperature there. Much light has been thrown on these phenomena by the observations at Lowell.

It gets cloudy on Mars. And it is possible that the Martians look for the silver lining. They have tremendous clouds, which are visible, at times, from the earth. Occasionally these are conspicuous because of their size, brightness and unusual location. There was, for example, the great white spot of July 9, 1922, which appeared in the tropics, and covered the prodigious area of 300,000 square miles. Then there was the conspicuous white cloud which appeared June 21, 1924, which was observed by V. M. Slipher. This mass of vapor was 500 miles long and 2,000 miles wide, and lasted for three days, disappearing June 24. Again on October 27 of the same year, Van Biesbroeck observed a great luminous extension at the terminator of Mars. This was more than 1,000 miles in length. It appeared to be a high cloud, or fog, which was illuminated in the morning sky before the subadjacent territory was fully irradiated. It disappeared under the heat of the sun as it moved into daylight.

There are times when these temporary markings appear to the clouds of dust instead of water vapor, and in some cases the surface of the planet seems to be veiled as if its atmosphere were hazy.

Frequent Heavy Frosts.

Mars gets frosty, too. Its peach crop probably is ruined at times just as the Iowa farmer's is. During the autumnal frost in the south polar region the honest Martians must have to put up with a lot. This frost is very persistent and lasts longer in the morning as the season progresses. In Martian November it lasts for two hours after sunrise and in Martian December for five hours after sunrise.

Temperature measurements show that the bright areas on Mars have a lower temperature than the dark areas. Also it is shown that the frosts appear first in the bright regions, as they would if these areas are deserts. With the passing of the snow and frost the dark areas reappeared first and in the coming of the frost the dark areas remained visible longest, indicating the presence of vegetation.

Due to the clearness of markings when viewed on the edge of the planet it has been held that the atmosphere of Mars is extremely tenuous and transparent. This interpretation, however, is subject to qualification, for on the earth on clear days it is well known that one may see mountains many miles distant, which means vision through an air column several times the total mass viewed in a vertical direction, as one must do when observing Mars. Vision in a vertical direction is affected, it is true, but by the water content in the atmosphere.

Recent photographs of Mars show that its atmosphere extends perhaps 100 miles above the surface. On the earth, due to its gravitational force, this would be compressed to about 45 miles. The atmosphere on the earth is estimated to be about 50 miles thick. This would tend to show that the atmosphere per unit surface area

The screech of the elevated—like a slate pencil pulled through the teeth. Sidewalk Charleston dancers scurrying from police. Whatever became of persimmons? Dentist's sign: "We Gas You Free." A waffle shop. Buckitty! Buckitty! Here I come.

A vaudeville actor out of work tells of making $20 a day collecting old gin bottles and selling them to bootleggers. He arises at 5 o'clock and makes rounds of apartment house courts, restaurant back yards and the rear entrances of clubs. By 7 o'clock he is through and he says after working two hours a day so profitably he is never going back to the stage.

Four social citadels on Fifth avenue are being despoiled by house wreckers. It costs too much to maintain a palace these days. The homes of Collis P. Huntington, William Astor, W. K. Vanderbilt and Cornelius Vanderbilt have been taken over for despoilation by realtors. The Huntington home held the priceless collection of books and paintings. The William Astor house was made the social capitol of New York by Ward McAllister, and it was sold to a young Jewish immigrant for $3,000,000. The Cornelius Vanderbilt home, which stood imposingly at Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street for so many years—with unwashed curtains—was modeled after the Chateau of Blois, whatever it was.

Prohibition is a good thing, writes an old New Yorker from Hollywood: "Some of the boys who looked as though they were through years ago around Times Square are out here running around in little boy pants, hatless and leading police dogs. They used to talk out of the side of the mouth like a Chatham Squdre tough. Now they have decided English accents and lard their hair."

The strangest accent of all flourishes in Brooklyn. Its origin is unknown, but its devotees say "idear" for idea, "sawr" for saw and with other words they drop the "r" such as "poil" and "goil."

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

New Data on Mars.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—For centuries the planet Mars has intrigued the imaginations of men. Flashing angrily from the blackness of the void its red orb explains why the ancients named it for the war god. It might well be his evil eye glaring at the struggling earth with malignance in its look.

Its character—what it is like—has long been a matter of conjecture. Astronomers have set forth various theories about it and it has been the subject of fantastic novels. Indeed, the fascination of its red glare was so great that one astronomer is said to have walked off the balcony of his observation tower in his ecstacy after having discovered something about it.

But with the advance of years Mars is relinquishing many secrets. And a recent pamphlet published by the bureau of standards and prepared by W. W. Coblentz contains data which show that it has a lot in common with our planet.

Mars approached closest the earth, that is, attained its greatest brightness, 100, on August 21, 1924. Almost half a century must elapse before it attains a similar brightness and then it will only be one of 98. Fifteen years must elapse before it will even attain a brightness of 90. Hence the findings of Coblentz during the brightness of last year must be regarded as the most important for many years to come, as they were made at the most propritious time possible.

Temperature on the surface of the war god's world, when it is exposed to solar radiation, is a much debated question. Some of the older observations indicated a temperature much below zero Centigrade. They would tend to show that the Martian, if he exists, leads a frigid sort of life, and that he must have a whale of a coal bill, but more recent observations show different results.

Arizona Observations.

Observations at the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, made recently, introduce new factors, which were previously neglected, and calculate temperatures considerably above zero Centigrade. They agree with visual observations which have been made for years. These show a periodic waxing and waning of the Martian polar caps, presumably of snow, and the disappearances of the white deposits of frost under the Martian noonday sun.

Atmospheric conditions, mundane or Martian, greatly affect temperature readings. Also atmospheric conditions on Mars, of course, seriously influence temperature there. Much light has been thrown on these phenomena by the observations at Lowell.

It gets cloudy on Mars. And it is possible that the Martians look for the silver lining. They have tremendous clouds, which are visible, at times, from the earth. Occasionally these are conspicuous because of their size, brightness and unusual location. There was, for example, the great white spot of July 9, 1922, which appeared in the tropics, and covered the prodigious area of 300,000 square miles. Then there was the conspicuous white cloud which appeared June 21, 1924, which was observed by V. M. Slipher. This mass of vapor was 500 miles long and 2,000 miles wide, and lasted for three days, disappearing June 24. Again on October 27 of the same year, Van Biesbroeck observed a great luminous extension at the terminator of Mars. This was more than 1,000 miles in length. It appeared to be a high cloud, or fog, which was illuminated in the morning sky before the subadjacent territory was fully irradiated. It disappeared under the heat of the sun as it moved into daylight.

There are times when these temporary markings appear to the clouds of dust instead of water vapor, and in some cases the surface of the planet seems to be veiled as if its atmosphere were hazy.

Frequent Heavy Frosts.

Mars gets frosty, too. Its peach crop probably is ruined at times just as the Iowa farmer's is. During the autumnal frost in the south polar region the honest Martians must have to put up with a lot. This frost is very persistent and lasts longer in the morning as the season progresses. In Martian November it lasts for two hours after sunrise and in Martian December for five hours after sunrise.

Temperature measurements show that the bright areas on Mars have a lower temperature than the dark areas. Also it is shown that the frosts appear first in the bright regions, as they would if these areas are deserts. With the passing of the snow and frost the dark areas reappeared first and in the coming of the frost the dark areas remained visible longest, indicating the presence of vegetation.

Due to the clearness of markings when viewed on the edge of the planet it has been held that the atmosphere of Mars is extremely tenuous and transparent. This interpretation, however, is subject to qualification, for on the earth on clear days it is well known that one may see mountains many miles distant, which means vision through an air column several times the total mass viewed in a vertical direction, as one must do when observing Mars. Vision in a vertical direction is affected, it is true, but by the water content in the atmosphere.

Recent photographs of Mars show that its atmosphere extends perhaps 100 miles above the surface. On the earth, due to its gravitational force, this would be compressed to about 45 miles. The atmosphere on the earth is estimated to be about 50 miles thick. This would tend to show that the atmosphere per unit surface area

CHICAGO.—Wanted: A home for an animal one million years old! The animal is a prehistoric mastedon, fossilized, of course, but large enough in its deteriorated state to fill a comparatively large room. The University of Chicago wants the room. As soon as it can be found, the bones will be removed from their resting place in southern Illinois to the new quarters.

Dean Paul MacClintock said the find was the largest of any specimen ever unearthed in this section. During life the creature weighed approximately twelve tons and stood twelve feet high, he said.

Gas Stations in Place or Old-Time Tollgate

Nashville, Tenn.—The gasoline filling station has replaced the familiar old sapling that formerly was swung down to block the public highways in the form of a tollgate.

Motorists are paying part of the highway construction expense at three cents a gallon at the filling station pump, where formerly every vehicle passing the designated spots had to plank down a quarter.

Tollgates were satisfying to traffic 100 years ago, when the pioneers blazed through forested areas and established accommodation for travel, but today the state is building its own improved and modern highways. Motorists will drive miles out of the way over another route to escape the periodical gates.

On June 14, 1796, one turnpike company organized a toll road with rates ranging from one cent for every ten sheep or hogs to three cents for each four-horse carriage. The rates advanced with the progress in roads and modes of travel and similar toll systems were adopted in other states.

The old tollgates in Tennessee became unpopular. Now through the red, blue, yellow and white gas filling pump the state is netting nearly $3,000,000 in 1925 toward its public highway construction fund.

BALDWIN PLANS STATE SCHOOLS IN NEW CRISIS

Unemployed Will be Trained for Positions in Colonies.

Relief for Idle Costs Half Billion Yearly.

LONDON — The Baldwin government's first real effort on a big scale to combat the unemployment cancer now gripping England is foreseen in the announcement of a scheme to establish state schools for the training of unemployed men for positions in the English colonies and in skilled trades at home.

The scheme, which has many sound features, is to be put into action at once, and it is predicted by social workesr that it will have a tremendous bearing on the unemployment problem here.

Relief Wasted.

At the present time there are nearly 1,400 000 workers in England. This figure means that for every 47 persons employed there is at least one unemployed, and also that there are nearly 170,000 more workless than there were a year ago.

The system of unemployment relief now in force costs practically $500,000,000 a year, which is practically waste expenditure. By the new scheme it will mean eventually that all this money originally wasted every year will provide instruction for the workless, and enable them to take up positions as trained men at home and abroad.

As an experiment, 1,400 men will be taken into the state schools and trained the first year. If the results are satisfactory this number will gradually be raised until a large percentage of the male unemployment are trained. Four centers are to be opened up at once, and these will immediately start to train 200 men each. Half of these will be trained for emigration to the colonies, and the other half for positions at home. In addition to some of the men receiving the customary unemployment benefit, or "dole" as it is familiarly termed here, they will be given free training, free meals during working hours, and about 50c pocket money. Those men who are training for the Dominions, however, will be given free full board and lodging, and for this privilege they will forfeit the whole of their unemployment benefit except $1 for pocket money. They will also receive free passage to the colony they select when they are deemed proficient.

To Work Union Hours.

The hours to be worked by the men training for work at home will be specified trade union hours, while the hours for those training for the Dominions will be on the elestic principle.

It is argued by the promoters of the scheme that instead of thousands of men hanging around street corners, as they have done hitherto, they will be engaged in obtaining instruction which will eventually obtain them work, and that in the long run it will save the state many thousands of dollars.

Those men learning home trades will be instructed chiefly in the use of tools for certain trades. Handymen will be trained as bricklayers, plasterers, painters, and in elementary iron work. Men training for colonial emigration will be instructed in the duties of farming and settling on the land.

The men will be housed and fed on the army style, and there will be a communal system as far as possible. Only single men will be taken on at present at the residential centers. An age limit of 29 is imposed on all intending scholars.

We Like to Sell Stamps!

When I was new to the drug business some 200 years ago, nothing pained me more than to have to deal out stamps and postal cards to customers who bought nothing else. A little, old-fashioned druggist in Canal Dover taught me different and I thank him for the lesson. Here was his philosophy:

"A Drug Store MUST have TRAFFIC PAST THE COUNTERS in order to be a real success in its community. To get it, the proprietor many times will give away roses, lillies, prize packages and occasionally REAL MONEY! To me, that's a very foolish, expensive method—foolish because it fools no one and expensive because 'give aways' cost real money."

The REAL way to get this "traffic" is to do the LITTLE THINGS, perform the HOMELY COURTESY and DO IT EVERY DAY of the year! "Make change" for customers, sell them stamps, street car checks, give them plenty of telephone service, a free directory, gossip about town, direction to other places — everything an information bureau would do. AND DO IT BECAUSE YOU LIKE IT. That's what makes "TRAFFIC!"

And that's US folks here in these shops!

I hope I lick Uncle Sam on the stamp business, wear out a bearing on the telephone, jam the cash register "making change" and get hoarse giving out information. JOHN CARNAHAN.

Sorty Sez:—

'Sfact I really BELIEVE Jack means what he says up above! Much as I hate to agree with Jack, at times, I've GOTTA! I've seen that man chase around corners on one wheel, bang the cash register, look up an address, deal out a pound of stamps, lose his cigar butt, dent his derby, show a man how to read his road map and end up in front of the fountain hooked onto an Orangeade—the kind he sells for 10c, with not ONE CENT profit to paste in his wad! and SMILING EVERY MINIT!

The only way I figger it out is that Jack's a little weak—well, you know what I mean. Frinstance I saw him yesterday holding a Canadian type baby under one arm while he sold the lady a stamp, found an address for her and made a phone call with the other arm! The mother had to fix sumpin or other!

Yep, Jack's accommodatin' but he's a horrible example to ME.

P. S. Canada is wet.

Seems Reasonable to Us Anyway!

If you wear your hair plastered down and it gets mussed by a falling tree, cyclone, explosion or a brick, or perhaps your lady friend nothing is more natural to have than a pocket comb in your pocket, to repair the damage at once! We have some hand finished ones, priced at 25c.

BALDWIN PLANS STATE SCHOOLS IN NEW CRISIS

Unemployed Will be Trained for Positions in Colonies.

Relief for Idle Costs Half Billion Yearly.

LONDON — The Baldwin government's first real effort on a big scale to combat the unemployment cancer now gripping England is foreseen in the announcement of a scheme to establish state schools for the training of unemployed men for positions in the English colonies and in skilled trades at home.

The scheme, which has many sound features, is to be put into action at once, and it is predicted by social workesr that it will have a tremendous bearing on the unemployment problem here.

Relief Wasted.

At the present time there are nearly 1,400 000 workers in England. This figure means that for every 47 persons employed there is at least one unemployed, and also that there are nearly 170,000 more workless than there were a year ago.

The system of unemployment relief now in force costs practically $500,000,000 a year, which is practically waste expenditure. By the new scheme it will mean eventually that all this money originally wasted every year will provide instruction for the workless, and enable them to take up positions as trained men at home and abroad.

As an experiment, 1,400 men will be taken into the state schools and trained the first year. If the results are satisfactory this number will gradually be raised until a large percentage of the male unemployment are trained. Four centers are to be opened up at once, and these will immediately start to train 200 men each. Half of these will be trained for emigration to the colonies, and the other half for positions at home. In addition to some of the men receiving the customary unemployment benefit, or "dole" as it is familiarly termed here, they will be given free training, free meals during working hours, and about 50c pocket money. Those men who are training for the Dominions, however, will be given free full board and lodging, and for this privilege they will forfeit the whole of their unemployment benefit except $1 for pocket money. They will also receive free passage to the colony they select when they are deemed proficient.

To Work Union Hours.

The hours to be worked by the men training for work at home will be specified trade union hours, while the hours for those training for the Dominions will be on the elestic principle.

It is argued by the promoters of the scheme that instead of thousands of men hanging around street corners, as they have done hitherto, they will be engaged in obtaining instruction which will eventually obtain them work, and that in the long run it will save the state many thousands of dollars.

Those men learning home trades will be instructed chiefly in the use of tools for certain trades. Handymen will be trained as bricklayers, plasterers, painters, and in elementary iron work. Men training for colonial emigration will be instructed in the duties of farming and settling on the land.

The men will be housed and fed on the army style, and there will be a communal system as far as possible. Only single men will be taken on at present at the residential centers. An age limit of 29 is imposed on all intending scholars.

on Mars is quite appreciable. But with much less water on Mars, and the most of it congealed in the polar regions, it is evident that its distribution in the atmosphere could not affect the vision as it does on the earth. Nevertheless, the greater mass of water vapor or ice spicules in the polar regions would prevent the escape of planetary irradiation upon which temperature estimates are based.

Hence, the temperature findings and other observations may be subject to change. Until more data concerning the atmosphere of the planet are obtained it is not possible to specify more exactly the temperatures of its surface than has already been done.

Slowly Mars is revealing itself to this planet. It is very similar to the earth in size and with respect to its relation to the sun. And now it would appear that its surface conditions are not greatly different. The next period of brightness promises, due to the material at hand, to reveal even more of the red planet's secrets.

on Mars is quite appreciable. But with much less water on Mars, and the most of it congealed in the polar regions, it is evident that its distribution in the atmosphere could not affect the vision as it does on the earth. Nevertheless, the greater mass of water vapor or ice spicules in the polar regions would prevent the escape of plenetary irradiation upon which temperature estimates are based.

Hence, the temperature findings and other observations may be subject to change. Until more data concerning the atmosphere of the planet are obtained it is not possible to specify more exactly the temperatures of its surface than has already been done.

Slowly Mars is revealing itself to this planet. It is very similar to the earth in size and with respect to its relation to the sun. And now it would appear that its surface conditions are not greatly different. The next period of brightness promises, due to the material at hand, to reveal even more of the red planet's secrets.

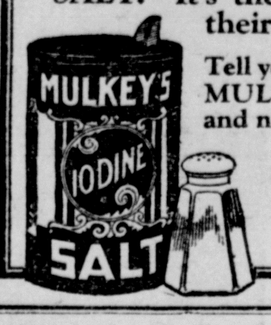
Uncle Sam is Aroused Over Goiter Conditions

Doctors in the public health service have been sent out from Washington to make Goiter surveys in many localities. They find in some cases that more than one-half of the school girls examined have Goiter. As a result almost the entire population of some cities are now waging war against Goiter by using MULKEY'S IODINE SALT. It's the important item in their every day diet.



Tell your grocer that you want MULKEY'S IODINE SALT and no other kind.

HEALTH CLINIC ARRANGED HERE

Tuberculosis Specialist to Conduct Series in County.

Dr. Henry G. Wildman, a specialist in the diagnosis of pulmonary disease, will conduct clinics in Hancock county, beginning November 10, under the auspices of the Hancock County Tuberculosis league, County Health unit and the West Virginia Tuberculosis association. The clinics will be held at Newell November 11, New Cumberland November 12 and at Weirton November 13-14. One will be conducted in Chester November 10 under the direction of the Woman's club and the chairman of the Christmas seal sale, Mrs. J. E. Swindell.

The clinics are free and the service is provided from money raised in the county from the sale of Christmas health seals. Dr. Wildman was for 10 years medical director of the Lake Forest Tuberculosis sanitarium at Chicago, and is now on the staff of the State Tuberculosis sanitarium at Hopemont, appointed for field work under the direction of the state tuberculosis association.

Mrs. J. A. Todd, chairman of the Hancock County Tuberculosis league, in announcing the dates and places of the various clinics, issued the following statement:

"When tuberculosis is diagnosed and treated early 80 per cent of the persons recover. If treatment is delayed until the disease has reached an advanced stage only about 2 per cent are restored to health. It is not hereditary and it is not necessary to go to another climate, it is being cured right in West Virginia.

Clinics are being conducted throughout the state for the purpose of finding the disease in the incipient stages at which time it responds most readily to treatment.

Children and adults who have been or are now living in close contact with tuberculosis persons, and any one who has any of the early symptoms of tuberculosis, are invited to come for this free examination. No person now being treated by a physician will be examined at the clinic unless the consent of such physician is first obtained by the applicant."

ARMISTICE DAY IS PROCLAIMED

An armistice day proclamation has been issued by Governor Gore in which he called upon the people of the state to observe Nov. 11.

He especially requested that exercises be held in schools and churches of the state. He mentioned that display of flags, patriotic programs and parades would be appropriate "and stimulate and refresh the spirit of patriotism and courage to perpetuate the ideals for which they (the soldiers) in the splendor of young manhood, fought, suffered and died."

"In every age it has been a sacred duty among civilized people to pay homage and reverence to the memory of the heroic dead, and to hold up for emulation the shining examples of their service and sacrifices," the governor stated.

"It is fitting that the eleventh day of November of each year be set apart and observed as a day of remembrance and thanksgiving for deliverance from the maelstrom of war into which our country was drawn by duty to humanity, and to commemorate the achievements of our valiant forces who aided so much in bringing to a successful conclusion the struggle for righteousness and civilization."

Large crowd attended the revival meeting last evening in the First Christian church. Rev. William Mart Miller, evangelist of Newport, Ky., had as his subject "The Devil's Pay Day." The topic this evening will be "Seeing God."

Much interest is being taken in the red and blue attendance contest in the Bible school. Last Sunday there were 315 present, with the reds leading by one point. The 400 mark is expected Sunday.

A special effort is being made to have all resident members of the congregation present at the communion services Sunday morning. Evangelist Miller will give the sermon.

Pastor's 35-Year Search For Gold Ends In Success

Quits Ministry to Comb Arkansas Hills for Hoard Hidden by His Father.

BOONVILLE, Ark.—"Maney—cliff—rattlesnake—flat rock."

These five words, gasped incoherently by a dying man way back in 1889, in what is now Stigler, Okla., caused M. C. Hall to abandon the ministry and come to Boonville on a thiryt-five-year search for buried treasure that transformed him into an almost legendary character known as the "Wild Man of Magazine Mountain," led him into adventure as thrilling and as picteresque as any experienced by Stevenson's seekers after pirate gold—and, finally, brought him into possession of a fortune after the weary span of years.

With the muttered words of his father, "Uncle Jake" Hall, who died in 1889 at the age of ninety-five, as the only clue, young Hall took up the search for $20,000 in gold which the aged man was known to have hidden somewhere.

Starts His Search.

The edler Hall, had, a year previous to his death, been visiting a farm which he owned near Bonneville, and the son, believing this was where the treasure trove would be found, began his search there.

While he was out hunting with another son on Magazine Mountain, another of his sons, had been accidentally wounded, while standing on a large flat rock. Years before, the father had been bitten by a rattlesnake near a cliff in the same vicinity. Piecing together the broken sentence of the father, the treasure hunter conceived the idea that it was somewhere on this mountain that the gold was buried.

So he took up the search, combing the wide expanse of the hill inch by inch, during the years that followed. He virtually spent all his time on the wind-swept hill, prosecuting his search, and so intept did he become that he paid little attention to his appearance.

He grew a beard, and became almost a hermit, living alone on the mountain much of the time. Thus, he became known as the "Wild Man of the Mountain" to residents of the vicinity, and many were the wild stories told of his queer actions, most of these being the product of fanciful imaginations.

Recently Hall, almost despairing of success, now an old man of 60, stumbled unexpectedly upon his buried gold. It was buried in the face of a cliss, near a huge flat rock, at the place where teh rattlesnake had bitten his father, years before. Thus, the words of the father, trying to tell him where the treasure was hidden, were explained.

Gold in Bags.

The gold was in several squirrel skin bags, each labelled with the name of one of the children and one for the mother. Theer was one large bag of bearskin, containing $15,000, addressed "The The Finder."

The "Wild Man of the Mountain" has purchased a fertile farm home near Stigler, Oklahoma, and has settled down to enjoy the fruits of his 35-year kuest, according to W. P. Morgan, of Booneville ,his nephew.

Flyer Is Attacked in Air by Eagle

New York.—Lieut. James M. Bovard, who completed his annual 15-day training period as a reserve aviator at Mitchel field recently, told a story of an aerial encounter with an eagle, in which he emerged the victor with one of the eagle's tail feathers as a trophy. While 3,000 feet over Long Island, he said, a great bald eagle swooped down and fastened its claws in his leather helmet. The propeller blast carried the bird away.

Bovard exhibited a characteristic barred eagle feather and scratches on his helmet to the doubting ones.

CHICAGO—More than 335,000 school children, more than 70 per cent of Chicago's pupils have defective teeth, according to Dr. Armin P. Baur, D. D. S., supervisor of oral hygience for the Board of Education.

"The percentage of pupils with dental ills runs as high as 90 per cent in some schools and not less than 70 per cent in any," the doctor said.

To bad teeth Dr. Baur attibuted the increasing number of class failures which have been under investigation by the board.

LONE BANDIT GETS $10,000 IN OHIO HOLD-UP

Manager of Branch Bank Victim of Daring Robbery.

OUTLAW FLEES

Drains Auto Tank, Forces Banker to Drive Small Car.

DAYTON, Nov. 6.—P. J. Kloos, manager of the Xenia Avenue Branch bank of the City Trust & Savings bank of Dayton, was robbed of $10,000 at 9:30 o'clock this morning by a lone unmasked bandit in one of the most daring daylight hold-ups ever staged in the city.

Kloos visited the City Trust & Savings bank, Third and Main streets, to get $10,000 for his branch bank. While he was in the bank his gas tank was drained of most of its gasoline and as he was driving along Jefferson street, his car stopped near Green street out of gas.

At this point the unmasked bandit drove up in an old Ford touring car, ordered Kloos to get out of his own car with the money and get in the bandit's Ford. Kloos obeyed the order.

After getting into the bandit's machine Kloos was ordered to drive the car, the bandit keeping his revolver against Kloos' stomach all the time.

When the pair neared the outskirts of the city the robber ordered Kloos to get out while the bandit proceeded on his way in the old broken down touring car.

Police of the city are searching county roads and authorities of nearby cities and towns have been notified.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—In one of the most novel holdups ever staged in the city three of a gang of five armed bandits forced four men to lie on top of each other on the floor of the bandits' speeding limousine, where the bandits rested their feet on their victims'-backs while the other two members of the bandit gang drove away with a truck load of silk valued at $30,000.

The cold-blooded thinkers are watching and wondering when to "sell short." Many have tried, had their fingers burned and are still watching.

Yesterday wasn't a good day to sell Judge Gary's U. S. Steel stock. It went above $134 per share. Not long ago Frank Munsey was buying it in tens of thousands of shares at a time for less than $20 a share. No wonder wise Mr. Munsey is rich.

News from Berlin will interest many everywhere. One of the Rothschilds, Baron Erich Von Goldschmidt Rothschild, has married Countess Veronica Henckel Von Donnersmark, a gentile.

This is the first "mixed" marriage sanctioned by the Rothschilds in the history of that great financial house. The death of young Baron Rothschild's grandmother made the marriage with full consent possible.

The fact that a man of Jewish faith marries a member of the Prussian nobility also interests those acquainted with medevial history.

The dullest of us should realize that there are no more islands and no more oceans. An Italian count, Eugenio Casagrande di Vilaviera is on his way, flying from Genoa to Buenos Aires.

And an Argentine, Guillermo Hiacoat, started yesterday morning from Buenos Aires to New York through the air.

Antique minds in Washington, still talking about battleships and cruisers "to defend the United States" should awake from their nap, look at the sky and think a little.

If war ever comes here, it will come through the air, and it will have an easy time, for this fat country, swollen with money, is as thoroughly unprepared for attack as Persia was when Alexander, with 30,000 men, captured all the gold and made himself ruler.

A West Texas conference of Methodist ministers decides "to battle evolution to a finish," a wise decision, to be welcomed by all.

If evolution is a false doctrine, offensive to Providence, it ought to be suppressed, with proper respect, of course, for constitutional guarantees of free speech, thought, etc.

If evolution represents, in the contrary, a process by which it has pleased Providence to build up life on the earth, as it is built up in the pre-natal condition, the opposition is the best possible thing. From debate comes truth.

Paris hatmakers and hairdressers have scored two complete failures. The hatmakers wanted women to wear big hats. They refused and cling to the little bell-shaped contrivances. Hair dressers tried to persuade bobbed ladies to go back to wigs while waiting to grow hair. That failed. You may see women imitating men and wearing substantially the same sort of clothes for months at a time.

Labor socialism made enormous gainst everywhere in the British election of borough councillors. This interests and frightens conservatism, first because it may mean another labor minority, and second because labor councillors whenever they are in power, increase taxes, taking from those that have to hand something to those that have not, or that think they haven't enough.

Psychologists Battle

was the direct result of his 32 years of love and devotion to his stricken daughter.

"This petit mal," the defense attorney amplified, "came in attacks of numbness in the facial muscles and tongue, created arterio sclerosis and resulted in loss of memory during periods of which the body acted without volition of the mind or will. During one of these spells that continued for 48 hours, the defense will contend, Dr. Blazer took the life of his idiot daughter and made three attempts to destroy himself.

Prisoner Frowns on Defense.

But the shrewd faced, small-eyed defendant is not in harmony with the declaration of his attorneys.

"I do not agree with the new fangled ideas of scientists and psychologists who say it is merciful, just and humane to get rid of the physically unfit and imbecilic." The old doctor declared during a lull in the court proceedings. "As a physician it has for years been my duty to preserve life. For more than 32 years I cherished that helpless child and performed my duty as a father to her. Why should I suddenly change my life habit and try to shirk my duty by putting her out of the way?

"If I took the life of my daughter I do not remember it. I do not know how I could do such a thing."

And around this point of mercy—the asserted temprorary insanity of the old fashioned doctor—will revolve the battle of the experts—"behavioristic psychologists," alienists and psychiatrists.

One of the few occasions when Dr. Blazer showed any apparent interest in the trial that is to decide his fate came late yesterday after a severe grilling of a prospective juror by Prosecutor Stone. The juror, displaying an inclination to the opinion that taking of human life through circumstances not permitted by the law was some times justified, was peremptorily challenged.

Turning to the press table nearby, the old doctor remarked in an agitated tone:

SLAIN MAN'S WIDOW AND HER LOVER JAILED

Both Deny Knowledge of Identity of Hammer Murderer.

NEW JERSEY CASE

Admirer Admits Woman's "Half Promise" to Elope.

HILLSIDE, N. J., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Priscilla Kent Clark, strikingly attractive dark-eyed widow of William J. Clark, who was mysteriously murdered with a hammer, and her alleged admirer, Joseph Cowan, were both in custody today, and subjected to severe grilling at the hands of the authorities.

Cowan, police say, admitted he loved Mrs. Clark and had obtained her "half promise" to elope with him to Florida.

Both emphatically deny they know who killed Clark.

"I don't know any more than I told you before," Mrs. Clark reiterated to the authorities today.

Her original story was that Clark was hit on the head with the hammer from behind while he was in his garage late last Monday night after he had brought her and her mother to their home in his machine.

Cowan, a big, quiet, blonde man, insisted he was home in bed about the time the murder was committed.

An unusual feature of the investigation is that, according to apparently reliable information, a score of members of the Ku Klux Klan are cooperating with the authorities in a determined effort to solve the crime. Clark was a member of the hooded order.

The slain man was buried in a Klansman's uniform. The funeral was attended by 25 members of the klan and nine women members of the Kamelia. They were in full regalia, including masks.

Mrs. Clark's arrest came immediately after the funeral was over. She was removed from the funeral cortege, against her vigorous protests. She was on the verge of collapse as she was taken to police headquarters.

Mrs. Clark and Cowan were arraigned in Hillside police court and held without bail.

While the authorities would not admit it, it was said on seemingly good authority that the investigation by the slain man's comrades in the klan led to the detention of the widow whose friendship with Cowan has been a matter of gossip in Hillside for some time. Cowan, according to information given police, frequently called upon Mrs. Clark in the daytime while Clark was at work.

Nelson Kent, Mrs. Clark's stepfather, came to police headquarters and expressed surprise that the police should suspect her of being implicated. He was not allowed to see Mrs. Clark.

The police said today that they had evidence that Cowan was not at home in bed, as he claims, at the time the murder was committed. They say they can prove he was at 210 Elizabeth avenue, Newark, at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. Clark entered his garage and was beaten to death sometime between midnight and 1 a. m. that day.

While the authorities were quizzing Cowan, Mrs. Cowan authorized her attorney to bring suit for divorce, naming Mrs. Clark as corespondent.

Seek Unpaid

ber or June next from property owners who have failed to liquidate improvement assessment, unless the entire amount now due is paid.

Many unpaid assessments are long overdue. Bonds have been issued in the various villages and cities for public improvements in anticipation of collection of the assessments. As result many sub-divisions are facing acute situations which hamper improvement programs.

Records show that some property owners have paid no part of street, sewer or road assessment in cases where improvements were completed years ago.

The new tax receipts will show the amount of the special assessment due.

Because of the rule on collection of special assessments, as laid down by the state examiners, money long past due will be forwarded all cities and villages at the next settlement, thus relieving their financial embarrassment.

The largest amount of unpaid special assessments is credited to East Liverpool, with Salem and Wellsville not far behind.

There is also considerable money due the county on road assessments.

Italian Aviator On Last Leg of His Rome-Tokio Flight

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 6.—Commandr De Pinedo, on the last leg of his homeward flight from Tokio, arrived here at 10:30 this morning. He will leave for Rome shortly and is due there at 2:30 this afternoon.

Commander De Pinedo's flight constitutes a unique record in aviation history, which is claimed to be a world record. He has flown 32,370 miles, which is 6,000 miles more than the distance covered by the American round-the-world flyers. De Pinedo flew solo and had but little in the way of an organization to aid him on his flight.

All Day Saturday, The New Orthophonic Victrola will be Demonstrated at Davis, Burkham & Ty'er's Music Store. Miss Leona Manypenny in charge.

seek other funds to pay December bills. The county auditor will be asked to make an advance settlement on the taxes. If this is not possible, the money must be borrowed.

The school tax rate for 1926 has been tentatively fixed at 9.15 mills, as compared with 8.71 mills this year. Provided the same percentage of taxes is collected next year as was available this year, the school revenue will be increased about $18,000, which will bring in about $308,000. Gaston said that new courses, which have been introduced, would increase expenses, and even with the higher tax rate, there will be an additional shortage at the end of 1926, which he estimated would be between $30,000 and $35,000.

This shortage, together with the shrinkage of $27,000 now apparent, will mean that the schools will face a deficit of $55,000 or $70,000 at the end of next year.

County officials, who fix the tax rate, were blamed by the board members for the financial dilemma facing the schools. It is charged that the tax rates in East Liverpool and throughout the county were slashed following the re-appraisement a year ago and that instead of increased funds being available there was little, if any, additional money collected. Had the tax rate remained unchanged the new valuation figures would have brought in sufficient money to meet the needs of the schools, it is claimed.

It was recommended by President D. F. White that a committee be sent to Columbus to take the matter up with State Director of Public Instruction Vernon M. Riegel or the state tax commission, but no action was taken on the suggestion.

Reduce Noon Recess.

The board accepted the resignation of Miss Ruth Bence as elementary teacher and approved the appointment of Mrs. Mary L. Ware as a substitute instructor.

Acting upon recommendation of Superintendent C. S. McVay, the board decided that the noon recess for elementary school students would be reduced by 20 minutes. Schools will resume for the afternoon session at 1 o'clock instead of 1:20 and dismissal in the afternoon will be 20 minutes earlier.

The board also went on record as being opposed to the sale of garden and flower seeds in the public schools next year. Opposition to the practice of selling paper tablets, pencils, candy and other articles of merchandise in the schools was also expressed. The superintendent was instructed to notify the teachers that commercializing the schools for any purpose would not be permitted.

Discuss Ice Skating Plan.

The feasibility of flooding Patterson Field for ice skating during the winter as a means of bringing in revenue, was also discussed, but no action taken.

The board discussed the proposed purchase of 11 new typewriters for the high school but because of the financial condition of the schools it was decided to keep seven of the old machines and deal in but four of the oldest types for new equipment. Two manufacturers will be asked to submit bids.

The board will meet on Monday, November 16 to canvass the returns of the three-mill tax levy, approved at Tuesday's election. This date is fixed by law.

13 in Florida Jail Smash Way Thru Wall to Freedom

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 6.—Thirteen prisoners in the Dade county jail smashed their way to freedom early today.

The men smashed a large hole through the roofless section of the prison which is undergoing repairs and scrambled down construction scaffolds to liberty.

At 7:30 a. m. none of the 13 had been apprehended although police and sheriffs' deputies searched all sections of the city.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Profit taking in large volume in the industrial stocks prevented the continuance of the horizontal advance in prices in the early trading today. The volume of trading was as heavy and the activity of the market as broad, as in the last few sessions, but prices of active stocks fell back a point or more as professional and outside traders pressed their stocks for sale.

Pronounced strength and activity in General Motors, General Electric and the copper stocks was in contrast to the reactionary tone of the balance of the market. General Motors reached a new high at 147, and General Electric moved up briskly to 328, up seven points in the first hour, both stocks enjoying an extremely large turnover. United States Rubber surpassed its former high record for the year and sold up to 85¼. American Smelting, Anaconda and other copper stocks made further advances. Brooklyn Edison, at the head of the utility stocks, gained six points at 155.

The bulk of motor, industrial and specialty stocks were subjected to violent selling such as prevailed in the early trading on Wednesday and Thursday. The declines were very moderate, however, and not sufficient to wipe out any great portion of the price gains acquired since election day.

Rebels have cut the telephone and telegraph wires leading into Damascus and train service between Damascus and Haifa has been suspended, owing to the depredations of the insurrectionists.

The rebels have declared their independence throughout all Syria.

LONE BANDIT GETS $10,000 IN OHIO HOLD-UP

Manager of Branch Bank Victim of Daring Robbery.

OUTLAW FLEES

Drains Auto Tank, Forces Banker to Drive Small Car.

DAYTON, Nov. 6.—P. J. Kloos, manager of the Xenia Avenue Branch Bank of the City Trust & Savings Bank of Dayton, was robbed of $10,000 at 9:30 o'clock this morning by a lone unmasked bandit in one of the most daring daylight hold-ups ever staged in the city.

Kloos visited the City Trust & Savings bank, Third and Main streets, to get $10,000 for his branch bank. While he was in the bank his gas tank was drained of most of its gasoline and as he was driving along Jefferson street, his car stopped near Green street out of gas.

At this point the unmasked bandit drove up in an old Ford touring car, ordered Kloos to get out of his own car with the money and get in the bandit's Ford. Kloos obeyed the order.

After getting into the bandit's machine Kloos was ordered to drive the car, the bandit keeping his revolver against Kloos' stomach all the time.

When the pair neared the outskirts of the city the robber ordered Kloos to get out while the bandit proceeded on his way in the old broken down touring car.

Police of the city are searching county roads and authorities of nearby cities and towns have been notified.

The cold-blooded thinkers are watching and wondering when to "sell short." Many have tried, had their fingers burned and are still watching.

Yesterday wasn't a good day to sell Judge Gary's U. S. Steel stock. It went above $134 per share. Not long ago Frank Munsey was buying it in tens of thousands of shares at a time for less than $20 a share. No wonder wise Mr. Munsey is rich.

News from Berlin will interest many everywhere. One of the Rothschilds, Baron Erich Von Goldschmidt Rothschild, has married Countess Veronica Henckel Von Donnersmark, a gentile.

This is the first "mixed" marriage sanctioned by the Rothschilds in the history of that great financial house. The death of young Baron Rothschild's grandmother made the marriage with full consent possible.

The fact that a man of Jewish faith marries a member of the Prussian nobility also interests those acquainted with medevial history.

While the authorities would not admit it, it was said on seemingly good authority that the investigation by the slain man's comrades in the klan led to the detention of the widow whose friendship with Cowan has been a matter of gossip in Hillside for some time. Cowan, according to information given police, frequently called upon Mrs. Clark in the daytime while Clark was at work.

Nelson Kent, Mrs. Clark's stepfather, came to police headquarters and expressed surprise that the police should suspect her of being implicated. He was not allowed to see Mrs. Clark.

The police said today that they had evidence that Cowan was not at home in bed, as he claims, at the time the murder was committed. They say they can prove he was at 210 Elizabeth avenue, Newark, at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. Clark entered his garage and was beaten to death sometime between midnight and 1 a. m. that day.

While the authorities were quizzing Cowan, Mrs. Cowan authorized her attorney to bring suit for divorce, naming Mrs. Clark as corespondent.

ber or June next from property owners who have failed to liquidate improvement assessment, unless the entire amount now due is paid.

Many unpaid assessments are long overdue. Bonds have been issued in the various villages and cities for public improvements in anticipation of collection of the assessments. As result many sub-divisions are facing acute situations which hamper improvement programs.

Records show that some property owners have paid no part of street, sewer or road assessment in cases where improvements were completed years ago.

The new tax receipts will show the amount of the special assessment due.

Because of the rule on collection of special assessments, as laid down by the state examiners, money long past due will be forwarded all cities and villages at the next settlement, thus relieving their financial embarrassment.

The largest amount of unpaid special assessments is credited to East Liverpool, with Salem and Wellsville not far behind.

There is also considerable money due the county on road assessments.

Italian Aviator On Last Leg of His Rome-Tokio Flight

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 6.—Commandr De Pinedo, on the last leg of his homeward flight from Tokio, arrived here at 10:30 this morning. He will leave for Rome shortly and is due there at 2:30 this afternoon.

Commander De Pinedo's flight constitutes a unique record in aviation history, which is claimed to be a world record. He has flown 32,370 miles, which is 6,000 miles more than the distance covered by the American round-the-world flyers. De Pinedo flew solo and had but little in the way of an organization to aid him on his flight.

All Day Saturday, The New Orthophonic Victrola will be Demonstrated at Davis, Burkham & Tyler's Music Store. Miss Leona Manypenny in charge.

seek other funds to pay December bills. The county auditor will be asked to make an advance settlement on the taxes. If this is not possible, the money must be borrowed.

The school tax rate for 1926 has been tentatively fixed at 9.15 mills, as compared with 8.71 mills this year. Provided the same percentage of taxes is collected next year as was available this year, the school revenue will be increased about $18,000, which will bring in about $308,000. Gaston said that new courses, which have been introduced, would increase expenses, and even with the higher tax rate, there will be an additional shortage at the end of 1926, which he estimated would be between $30,000 and $35,000.

This shortage, together with the shrinkage of $27,000 now apparent, will mean that the schools will face a deficit of $65,000 or $70,000 at the end of next year.

County officials, who fix the tax rate, were blamed by the board members for the financial dilemma facing the schools. It is charged that the tax rates in East Liverpool and throughout the county were slashed following the re-apprisement a year ago and that instead of increased funds being available there was little, if any, additional money collected. Had the tax rate remained unchanged the new valuation figures would have brought in sufficient money to meet the needs of the schools, it is claimed.

It was recommended by President D. F. White that a committee be sent to Columbus to take the matter up with State Director of Public Instruction Vernon M. Riegel or the state tax commission, but no action was taken on the suggestion.

Reduce Noon Recess.

The board accepted the resignation of Miss Ruth Bence as elementary teacher and approved the appointment of Mrs. Mary L. Ware as a substitute instructor.

Acting upon recommendation of Superintendent C. S. McVay, the board decided that the noon recess for elementary school students would be reduced by 20 minutes. Schools will resume for the afternoon session at 1 o'clock instead of 1:20 and dismissal in the afternoon will be 20 minutes earlier.

The board also went on record as being opposed to the sale of garden and flower seeds in the public schools next year. Opposition to the practice of selling paper tablets, pencils, candy and other articles of merchandise in the schools was also expressed. The superintendent was instructed to notify the teachers that commercializing the schools for any purpose would not be permitted.

Discuss Ice Skating Plan.

The feasibility of flooding Patterson Field for ice skating during the winter as a means of bringing in revenue, was also discussed, but no action taken.

The board discussed the proposed purchase of 11 new typewriters for the high school but because of the financial condition of the schools it was decided to keep seven of the old machines and deal in but four of the oldest types for new equipment. Two manufacturers will be asked to submit bids.

The board will meet on Monday, November 16 to canvass the returns of the three-mill tax levy, approved at Tuesday's election. This date is fixed by law.

This will be followed by a program in which the following will take part: Miss Nina Echolls, singing and dancing; Carl Woodward, Wellsville, black face comedian; William "Buck" Stevenson and Clem Dawson, soloists and entertainers.

Community singing will be an extraordinary feature. A program of dancing will be featured from 9:30 o'clock until 12 o'clock.

13 in Florida Jail Smash Way Thru Wall to Freedom

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 6.—Thirteen prisoners in the Dade county jail smashed their way to freedom early today.

The men smashed a large hole through the roofless section of the prison which is undergoing repairs and scrambled down construction scaffolds to liberty.

At 7:30 a. m. none of the 13 had been apprehended although police and sheriffs' deputies searched all sections of the city.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Profit taking in large volume in the industrial stocks prevented the continuance of the horizontal advance in prices in the early trading today. The volume of trading was as heavy and the activity of the market as broad, as in the last few sessions, but prices of active stocks fell back a point or more as professional and outside traders pressed their stocks for sale.

Pronounced strength and activity in General Motors, General Electric and the copper stocks was in contrast to the reactionary tone of the balance of the market. General Motors reached a new high at 147, and General Electric moved up briskly to 328, up seven points in the first hour, both stocks enjoying an extremely large turnover. United States Rubber surpassed its former high record for the year and sold up to 85½. American Smelting, Anaconda and other copper stocks made further advances. Brooklyn Edison, at the head of the utility stocks, gained six points at 155.

The bulk of motor, industrial and specialty stocks were subjected to violent selling such as prevailed in the early trading on Wednesday and Thursday. The declines were very moderate, however, and not sufficient to wipe out any great portion of the price gains acquired since election day.

C. & P. GRIDDERS SEEKING GAMES

Due to the fact that Sunday football has been prohibited at Midland, the game sheduled there by the C. & P. club for for next Sunday has been cancelled.

Wellsville's independent gridders are without a game, as a result, and would like to arrange a contest abroad with some nearby team. The locals have strengthened the squad somewhat with the addition of two ex-high players who were to make their first appearance in the Midland engagement.

The C. & P. eleven is desirous of opening negotiations with any team in the vicinity for an Armistice day clash, either at home or abroad Manager W. A. Brookes, 1614 Chester avenue, Phone 568-J is booking games.

I wish to express my sincere thanks for the support given me at the recent election. During my term of office as councilman-at-large, I will work for the best interests of the city.

ZUPPKE-STAGG FORCES SET FOR ANNUAL SCRAP

BOB ZUPPKE and Alonzo Stagg, Illinois and Chicago. These are the chief ingredients for one of the most delectable football dishes that midwest fans can conjure up. Add to them a dash of Red Grange and the spice of rivalry that has been growing more intense over a period of 12 years and the result should indicate why every solitary ticket for the thirteenth annual Illinois-Chicago tilt tomorrow has been sold.

The battle of Zuppke and the Grand Old Man of the Midway takes precedence among Big Ten Conference clashes on the coming week-end, although Ohio State faces a hard game with Indiana, and Wisconsin and Iowa tangle at Iowa.

"Zup" made the acquaintance of Urbana folk in 1913. Up until that time they had been forced to bend the knee quite frequently to the Chicagoans, the Maroon having won as many as 11 out of 17 engagements between the two institutions.

Zuppke seemed to have whatever it was Illinois had lacked. That he was successful in imparting it to his football students is seen in the fact that the Illini since that time, have won six games to Chicago's four, with two ties.

It was Grange in 1923 who scored the touchdown which gave Illinois a 7-0 victory, and it was Grange again in 1924 who made three touchdowns to bring Illinois from behind and tie the score at 21 points.

Now, will it be Grange again this year? Or, thwarted in their two recent attempts, will the Chicagoans rise in their football wrath and throw off the Grange yoke?

CHICAGO, up until a week ago, on paper, at least, appeared to have a decided edge on the Zuppke outfit, but, just to show that it didn't mean anything, Red Grange rambled through the Pennsylvania line to a 24 to 2 conquest over the team that a week prior had won from Chicago, 6 to 0.

Chicago plays a crushing, line-smashing game that is hard to stop.

Illinois, as the gridiron universe knows, has Red Grange.

Ohio State's line succeeded in stopping the Chicago rushes to a great extent in the initial Big Ten encounter of the season, but this line has never been the same since.

Whether Illinois will give way to a let-down following their brilliant performance against Pennsylvania is problematical.

IOWA will probably be a slight favorite in the contest with Wisconsin. A majority of critics seem to favor the westerners following their sensational 15 to 0 victory over Ohio State.

Wisconsin has been trimmed by Michigan, 21 to 0, and tied by Minnesota, 12-12.

Ohio State fans are hoping for their second conference win and revenge when the Wilcemen clash with Indiana at Columbus—the team that knocked the Buckeyes for a 12 to 7 defeat last season and made Ohio's 1924 season a terrible disappointment.

MOUNT OUT TO EVEN SCORE

Battle Miami Tomorrow in Homecoming Game.

ALLIANCE, Nov. 6.—Two thousand alumni and former students will augment the regular crowd which attends the games on Mount Field in celebration of the annual homecoming when the Royal Purple meets Miami here tomorrow. The visitors are touted as being the strongest team in southwestern Ohio, while many claim the same honor for Mount in the northwestern part of the state. In 1914 Miami nosed out Mount Union from the state championship by a 16-14 score in a thrilling game at Oxford, being the only Ohio school to defeat the crack team of that year coached by "Bob" Dawson. Mount's present coach, Jack Thorpe, played center for Mount in that game and, naturally, has reasons for wanting to defeat the visitors. Since 1914 the two teams have played eight games, all of them closely contested, but Mount has only been able to return victor in the last two. Mount will attempt to even up the score, while Miami is anxious to avenge the defeats of the past two years.

Coach Thorpe has been giving his men some severe training during the past week. The heavy scrimmages have cost Mount two of its men, Hoppes being out of the game with a broken nose and Reese with a sprained knee. This is a severe blow, as the Miami team is heavy, fast and strong, and Thorpe will need every bit of reserve power which he can summon on Saturday. Labor, whose sensational handling of the forward pass, was a feature of last week's game, and Mills, whose open field running has been of high order all season, are expected to do the ground gaining for Mount. "Army" Armstrong has not been outkicked in any game this season, and his long punts are expected to keep the ball out of Mount's territory. The fierce defensive work of Center Burkle has also been a great factor in keeping the goal line clear of opponents, the only score made against Mount this year in the conference struggle being due to a fumble.

Praise For Grange

NEW YORK, Nov. 6—"Red" Grange is as great a back as I have ever seen and with it he's a fine sportsman, and a brilliant leader,' Tom Thorpe, New York official who served as umpire in the Illinois-Pennsylvania game, declares.

"He never uttered a word of protest during the game and went about his business quietly and seriously."

Mt. Union Homecoming

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Two trips to New York in 10 days, President Coolidge has decided, are too much for a busy man and as a result he and Mrs. Coolidge will not see the annual Army-Navy football classic at the Polo Grounds Nov. 28. The president has accepted an invitation to address the New York state chamber of commerce banquet Nov. 19.

RUN SPECIAL TO SOUTH BEND

Gives District Fans Chance to See Notre Dame-Tech.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—Alumni and followers of both Carnegie Tech and Notre Dame in this district will be glad to learn that definite arrangements have been made for the special train from Pittsburgh to South Bend where the Tartans lock horns with Knute Rockne's famous Fighting Irish on November 14. The train will leave Pittsburgh at 9:00 p. m. Friday, November 13 over the Pennsylvania railroad. Stops will be made at Rochester, Pa., and at Youngstown, Alliance and Canton in Ohio, where additional passengers will be taken on. It will be a large train, for several hundreds are expected to take advantage of the low round trip price, less than fourteen dollars. The special will leave on its return trip after the game Saturday night, arriving in Pittsburgh early Sunday morning. As there will be both Pullman and day coaches on the special, reservations should be made by getting in touch with Clarence Overend, graduate manager of Carnegie Tech. Reserved seats for the game can also be secured from him.

From a spectator's viewpoint this game looms up as one of the most interesting of the year. Rockne is noted for his open style play, and his team has been coming along rapidly since the early season defeat at the hand of the Army. Carnegie has tied W. & J. and lost to Pitt by a small margin, but in neither case did the muddy condition of the field allow Coach Steffen to resort to his spread formations and tricky offense. Additional importance is attached to this game because it is on the annual Home Coming Day for Notre Dame alumni, the biggest game of the year for the Irish on their home soil.

INDIANA DRILLS ON STATE GRID

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 6.—The Indiana football team was scheduled to workout in the Ohio State stadium at Columbus, O., this afternoon. The contingent of Hoosiers left here early this morning and a train of Crimson rooters will get away for the scene of action tonight.

Indiana expects to give Ohio State a good battle before departing for home Saturday night. The Hoosiers took over the Wilcemen last season 12 to 7.

LAUGHLINS AT ELLWOOD CITY

Play Unbeaten Shelbys for League Lead.

The Laughlin Soccer club will be at its full strength for its Northwest Division league game on Saturday afternoon against the Shelbys, at Ellwood City, Pa.

The Laughlins and the Shelbys are the only undefeated teams of the circuit. Each has 12 points in the race for season's honors. And each has three more games to play.

In all probability, however, the victor in Saturday's game will eventually cop the championship.

Manager Shaw will endeavor to give the Shelbys the brand of ball the Laughlins played against the Mahoning Valleys here a week ago. The Valleys are a much stronger outfit than the Shelbys, and the fact that the Laughlins held them to a 4-3 decision speaks well for the local club.

Following the Shelby encounter, the Laughlins will have three games inside of two weeks, being scheduled with Grove City, Sharon and Steubenville.

Players and fans will leave tomorrow on the 12:30 car for Beaver and there will take the P. & L. E. train to Ellwood City.

K. T. K.-KNOWLES BOWL TONIGHT

E. M. Knowles and K. T. K. will clash tonight at the Liberty alleys in a scheduled Industrial Duckpin league engagement.

A meeting of team captains will be held either Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Turn Down Cage Offer

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 6.—Harvard has turned down an invitation of the Big Ten University club in Cleveland for a game between the Harvard basketball team and one of the western conference fices to be played in Cleveland during the Christmas holidays.

CATHEDRAL LATIN ASKS TURKEY DAY DATE HERE

Cleveland School, Unable to Pair Off With Steubenville, Wants Thanksgiving Game With Boone's Eleven; Akron West Also Enters Bid for Final Contest.

CLEVELAND Cathedral Latin and Akron West are prospective opponents for Coach O. V. Boone's East Liverpool high school eleven on Thanksgiving day at Patterson Field.

Boone today announced that both the Latins and the Rubber City outfit are seeking the Turkey day tilt with the Potters and both are willing and ready to sign on the dotted line.

The Thanksgiving day date has been held open all year by local athletic directors for the purpose of obtaining a suitable opponent and one worthy of the customary importance attached to the wind-up encounter of the year.

Last year it was Westinghouse Tech and the year before Rocky River, of Cleveland. Both contests were great attractions, inasmuch as neither of the pair had been seen in this district before, and, following a similar plan this year, officials left the November 26 date open for another contest of this calibre.

Cathedral Latin dickered for some time with Steubenville high and would have completed arrangements for a game there had Steubenville been able to call off its game with Wellsville. The Stubbers endeavored to have the game at Wellsville dropped but negotiations fell through. And now, learning of the open date here, the Latins, seeking only a road engagement for the day, immediately notified Boone they were in the market.

And along about the same time Akron West entered a bid for the engagement. No action has been taken on either proposal yet by school authorities.

The Potters will go through their regular Saturday assignment tomorrow at East Palestine.

Although confident they can trim the Brown and White, the locals will take no chances of a defeat which would just about ruin their county championship hopes.

Salem experienced little difficulty in winning at East Palestine two weeks ago, 15 to 0.

NUSS WILL USE FAST BACKFIELD

BETHANY, W. Va., Nov. 6.—In all probability Coach Furman L. Nuss of Bethany college will use a flashy, fast backfield against Adrian this Saturday. A pony backfield was used in scrimmage yesterday including Carey, Varlow, Dimick and Fiers. Snap and precision in open plays enabled this quartet to rip off long repeated gains. If the strength of the Bison line enables any of these men to get into the open yardage will pile up as well as the score. Barlow and Dimick did exceptional work in zigzagging through the reserve defense. Barlow resorts to a rabbit style of running which makes it hard for the tackles to judge their distance. Dimick on the other hand runs close to the ground and is hard to get off his feet. Dale Fiers, who has been playing the end position, is being used at full. His size and drive makes him a tough customer to handle either on the offense or defense. When not carrying the ball, Fiers gives excellent interference for his pigmy halfbacks. Carey has been calling the plays as usual and his passing will be a big factor in Saturday's game. The regular heavy backfield, including Stebbs, Loppacker, Hamill and Carey, may be given a chance to rest up for a week because of their injuries. This will give the Bisons full power against John Carroll university the following week.

Argentina buys more automibiles from the United States than does any other country.

INDIANA DRILLS ON STATE GRID

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 6.—The Indiana football team was scheduled to workout in the Ohio State stadium at Columbus, O., this afternoon. The contingent of Hoosiers left here early this morning and a train of Crimson rooters will get away for the scene of action tonight.

Indiana expects to give Ohio State a good battle before departing for home Saturday night. The Hoosiers took over the Wilcemen last season 12 to 7.

LAUGHLINS AT ELLWOOD CITY

Play Unbeaten Shelbys for League Lead.

The Laughlin Soccer club will be at its full strength for its Northwest Division league game on Saturday afternoon against the Shelbys, at Ellwood City, Pa.

The Laughlins and the Shelbys are the only undefeated teams of the circuit. Each has 12 points in the race for season's honors. And each has three more games to play.

In all probability, however, the victor in Saturday's game will eventually cop the championship.

Manager Shaw will endeavor to give the Shelbys the brand of ball the Laughlins played against the Mahoning Valleys here a week ago. The Valleys are a much stronger outfit than the Shelbys, and the fact that the Laughlins held them to a 4-3 decision speaks well for the local club.

Following the Shelby encounter, the Laughlins will have three games inside of two weeks, being scheduled with Grove City, Sharon and Steubenville.

Players and fans will leave tomorrow on the 12:30 car for Beaver and there will take the P. & L. E. train to Ellwood City.

K. T. K.-KNOWLES BOWL TONIGHT

E. M. Knowles and K. T. K. will clash tonight at the Liberty alleys in a scheduled Industrial Duckpin league engagement.

A meeting of team captains will be held either Monday or Tuesday of next week.

Turn Down Cage Offer

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 6.—Harvard has turned down an invitation of the Big Ten University club in Cleveland for a game between the Harvard basketball team and one of the western conference fices to be played in Cleveland during the Christmas holidays.

CATHEDRAL LATIN ASKS TURKEY DAY DATE HERE

Cleveland School, Unable to Pair Off With Steubenville, Wants Thanksgiving Game With Boone's Eleven; Akron West Also Enters Bid for Final Contest.

CLEVELAND Cathedral Latin and Akron West are prospective opponents for Coach O. V. Boone's East Liverpool high school eleven on Thanksgiving day at Patterson Field.

Boone today announced that both the Latins and the Rubber City outfit are seeking the Turkey day tilt with the Potters and both are willing and ready to sign on the dotted line.

The Thanksgiving day date has been held open all year by local athletic directors for the purpose of obtaining a suitable opponent and one worthy of the customary importance attached to the wind-up encounter of the year.

Last year it was Westingtouse Tech and the year before Rocky River, of Cleveland. Both contests were great attractions, inasmuch as neither of the pair had been seen in this district before, and, following a similar plan this year, officials left the November 26 date open for another contest of this calibre.

Cathedral Latin dickered for some time with Steubenville high and would have completed arrangements for a game there had Steubenville been able to call off its game with Wellsville. The Stubbers endeavored to have the game at Wellsville dropped but negotiations fell through. And now, learning of the open date here, the Latins, seeking only a road engagement for the day, immediately notified Boone they were in the market.

And along about the same time Akron West entered a bid for the engagement. No action has been taken on either proposal yet by school authorities.

The Potters will go through their regular Saturday assignment tomorrow at East Palestine.

Although confident they can trim the Brown and White, the locals will take no chances of a defeat which would just about ruin their county championship hopes.

Salem experienced little difficulty in winning at East Palestine two weeks ago, 15 to 0.

Argentina buys more automibiles from the United States than does any other country.

NUSS WILL USE FAST BACKFIELD

BETHANY, W. Va., Nov. 6.—In all probability Coach Furman L. Nuss of Bethany college will use a flashy, fast backfield against Adrian this Saturday. A pony backfield was used in scrimmage yesterday including Carey, Varlow, Dimick and Fiers. Snap and precision in open plays enabled this quartet to rip off long repeated gains. If the strength of the Bison line enables any of these men to get into the open yardage will pile up as well as the score. Barlow and Dimick did exceptional work in zigzagging through the reserve defense. Barlow resorts to a rabbit style of running which makes it hard for the tackles to judge their distance. Dimick on the other hand runs close to the ground and is hard to get off his feet. Dale Fiers, who has been playing the end position, is being used at full. His size and drive makes him a tough customer to handle either on the offense or defense. When not carrying the ball, Fiers gives excellent interference for his pigmy halfbacks. Carey has been calling the plays as usual and his passing will be a big factor in Saturday's game. The regular heavy backfield, including Stebbs, Loppacker, Hamill and Carey, may be given a chance to rest up for a week because of their injuries. This will give the Bisons full power against John Carroll university the following week.

Open Saturday Evenings.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Now happens to be the approximate time for all good self respecting heroes to come to the aid of that dear alma mater; now is the time for some one's grandchild to break into the public prints and astound the neighbors. Now is the time when a blocked punt means triumph or tragedy or both. Now for some football games than can be referred to as contests, speaking in a large and spacious way.

We will have many in the east tomorrow afternoon and all of them are good, the Harvard - Princeton affair topping the list for no other reason than the fact that it is Harvard and Princeton that are obliging. However, the three remaining sections of the country are pleased to claim contests of greater importance than those of the eastern list.

The Western Conference title, for example, may be decided when Michigan, which looks like the best team in the country, plays Northwestern and Iowa takes on Wisconsin.

At the same time Chicago's conference record may be turned wrong side out with the Maroon facing a 100 per cent better Illinois team than the early season showed. Ohio State meets Indiana in another conference game, but nobody cares—except Ohio State and Indiana.

Breather for Missouri.

A defeat for either Michigan or Iowa, which is unlikely, would just about wash up the entire conference situation. A defeat or a victory for both would leave the proposition, as is. Chicago, of course, has an outside chance, but Caesar had his Brutus, Charles the Third his Cromwell and Chicago may have its Illini and Grange.

A bit further to the west, the unbeaten Missouri team seems due to take something of a "breather" against Washington University at St. Louis, but the rest of the valley will get ample exercise, Drake meeting Nebraska, Ames playing Grinnell and Oklahoma stepping out with Kansas.

On the coast the action will be far from formal. Likewise in the south. In the former section, California, Stanford and Washington, the three leaders, will deploy into service, the Stanford - Washington game heading all others. One or the other must lose its chance for the title, barring a tie, in which case California would benefit, anyhow. The bears play Washington State and everything should be to the subconscious, or something.

Idaho and Montana also are due to take violent issue but, somehow, the writer imagines the rest of the country will contrive to bear up bravely while awaiting the result.

"Neighborhood" Fights

From the standpoint of national interest, the big number of the southern schedule is found in the meeting of Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech. Both have finished second in previous games and Alabama, which is to play Kentucky, remains unbeaten in southern football; yet the glamor abides with the other pair. In a lesser sense, so does it follow Sewanee and Mississippi and Tulane and Louisiana poly.

In spite of the first of the big three series at Princeton, the eastern schedule for the day is not such a much, Yale, Brown, Pennsylvania, Colgate, Army and Navy taking "breathers". The Cornnell-Dartmouth, Penn State-Notre Dame and Pittsburgh-W. & J. are the ones worthy of particular mention.

There are plenty of "neighborhood" championships on, however. In fact, this condition might be said to be general. Some of the more obvious types are Pitt-W. & J., Ohio-Marietta, Tulane-Louisiana Poly, and Washington and Lee-Virginia.

Boston College, one of the east's unbeaten elevens, has picked up a live one and may not look so good at the end of the West Virginia game. Holy Cross and Fordham, meantime, will try to achieve the elimination of one or the other from the catholic college championship.

The Georgetown-Lehigh affair looks like a series of competitive fireworks. So does the Minnesota-Butler game. However, southern California should survive the Santa Clara meeting.

Intersectional football being on the wane, there are only two games of this type worthy of mention, Notre Dame vs. Penn State and Syracuse vs. Ohio Wesleyan. We fear the worst from Penn State and Ohio Wesleyan.

Favors Schaeffer

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Willie Hoppe, former balkline billiard champion, picks Jake Schaeffer to retain his title in a challenge match with Edouard Horemans, of Belgium, in Chicago, starting Nov. 30. "Schaeffer is the greatest match billiard player in the world, today," asserts Hoppe.

Stork Brings Russian Peasants More Land

Moscow.—Every woman in the town of Zarubovo, Smolensk province, is expecting a visit from the stork.

At least that is what the women swore when a land surveyor visited the town to supervise the distribution of land. The sudden discovery of the prospective increase in the birth rate may have been due, it was suggested, to the fact that under the Russian land law every peasant is entitled to an additional share of land for every new member of his family.

The surveyor decided to postpone his allotments waiting for the stork returns, but meantime he ruled that if the prospective mothers bore twins or triplets the added share of land would be the same as though only single babies were born.

The land law is said to account partly for the increased birth rate noted among peasant families since the country emerged from the period of civil war and famine.

PRINCE OF WALES PICKS AMERICAN GIRL PARTNER

Only "Foreigner" Invited to Dance Given for Uruguayans by British Heir.

Montevideo.—The American colony here believes it has a joke on the British colony and also upon select Uruguayan society because the prince of Wales preferred an American girl as a dancing partner during the social festivities in his honor when he visited the Uruguayan capital.

They think also there is a joke somewhere on the prince, too, for when the prince especially invited her to the dance, the American girl would not go unless her fiance was also invited. He was and went, watched the prince dance with her three times in succession, and "cut in" when his highness begged for a fourth.

The prince saw her—Miss Veronica Purviance of Kansas City, daughter of Charles Purviance, manager of the Armour packing plant here—at a luncheon given to his royal highness by the British colony. Mr. Purviance had been invited, with his family, as president of the American Association of Montevideo.

The next day Miss Purviance received a card from the British minister saying that at his royal highness' request she was invited to attend a reception and dance the prince was giving. She answered that, as she was engaged, the invitation would have to include her fiance, with the result that a card also went to Leonard Welch of the Buenos Aires branch of the National City bank, who hurriedly took the next boat to Montevideo.

No other Americans and no English were invited to the dance, which was to repay the attentions of the Uruguayans. The Uruguayan senoritas of the best families were out in force. The three dances the prince danced with Miss Purviance were the first three, and it was said that when she reminded the prince that he had a duty to perform and should dance with the others, he replied:

"I'm fed up with duty dances." It was here that her fiance claimed her.

Since They've Broken the Mule Bulldogs Are Set to Meet Tiger

Capt. Johnny Joss, Yale captain and left tackle, is grooming his "Bulldogs" to lick the Princeton "Tiger" when they meet Nov. 14. Sturhahn, the husky center, is expected to be at his best in the Princeton fray.

HARVARD-PRINCETON CONTEST TOPS EAST'S FOOTBALL CARD

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Now happens to be the approximate time for all good self respecting heroes to come to the aid of that dear alma mater; now is the time for some one's grandchild to break into the public prints and astound the neighbors. Now is the time when a blocked punt means triumph or tragedy or both. Now for some football games than can be referred to as contests, speaking in a large and spacious way.

We will have many in the east tomorrow afternoon and all of them are good, the Harvard - Princeton affair topping the list for no other reason than the fact that it is Harvard and Princeton that are obliging. However, the three remaining sections of the country are pleased to claim contests of greater importance than those of the eastern list.

The Western Conference title, for example, may be decided when Michigan, which looks like the best team in the country, plays Northwestern and Iowa takes on Wisconsin.

At the same time Chicago's conference record may be turned wrong side out with the Maroon facing a 100 per cent better Illinois team than the early season showed. Ohio State meets Indiana in another conference game, but nobody cares—except Ohio State and Indiana.

Breather for Missouri.

A defeat for either Michigan or Iowa, which is unlikely, would just about wash up the entire conference situation. A defeat or a victory for both would leave the proposition, as is. Chicago, of course, has an outside chance, but Caesar had his Brutus, Charles the Third his Cromwell and Chicago may have its Illini and Grange.

A bit further to the west, the unbeaten Missouri team seems due to take something of a "breather" against Washington University at St. Louis, but the rest of the valley will get ample exercise, Drake meeting Nebraska, Ames playing Grinnell and Oklahoma stepping out with Kansas.

On the coast the action will be far from formal. Likewise in the south. In the former section, California, Stanford and Washington, the three leaders, will deploy into service, the Stanford - Washington game heading all others. One or the other must lose its chance for the title, barring a tie, in which case California would benefit, anyhow. The bears play Washington State and everything should be to the subconscious, or something.

Idaho and Montana also are due to take violent issue but, somehow, the writer imagines the rest of the country will contrive to bear up bravely while awaiting the result.

"Neighborhood" Fights

From the standpoint of national interest, the big number of the southern schedule is found in the meeting of Vanderbilt and Georgia Tech. Both have finished second in previous games and Alabama, which is to play Kentucky, remains unbeaten in southern football; yet the glamor abides with the other pair. In a lesser sense, so does it follow Sewanee and Mississippi and Tulane and Louisiana poly.

In spite of the first of the big three series at Princeton, the eastern schedule for the day is not such a much, Yale, Brown, Pennsylvania, Colgate, Army and Navy taking "breathers". The Cornnell-Dartmouth, Penn State-Notre Dame and Pittsburgh-W. & J. are the ones worthy of particular mention.

There are plenty of "neighborhood" championships on, however. In fact, this condition might be said to be general. Some of the more obvious types are Pitt-W. & J., Ohio-Marietta, Tulane-Louisiana Poly, and Washington and Lee-Virginia.

Boston College, one of the east's unbeaten elevens, has picked up a live one and may not look so good at the end of the West Virginia game. Holy Cross and Fordham, meantime, will try to achieve the elimination of one or the other from the catholic college championship.

The Georgetown-Lehigh affair looks like a series of competitive fireworks. So does the Minnesota-Butler game. However, southern California should survive the Santa Clara meeting.

Intersectional football being on the wane, there are only two games of this type worthy of mention, Notre Dame vs. Penn State and Syracuse vs. Ohio Wesleyan. We fear the worst from Penn State and Ohio Wesleyan.

Stork Brings Russian Peasants More Land

Moscow.—Every woman in the town of Zarubovo, Smolensk province, is expecting a visit from the stork.

At least that is what the women swore when a land surveyor visited the town to supervise the distribution of land. The sudden discovery of the prospective increase in the birth rate may have been due, it was suggested, to the fact that under the Russian land law every peasant is entitled to an additional share of land for every new member of his family.

The surveyor decided to postpone his allotments waiting for the stork returns, but meantime he ruled that if the prospective mothers bore twins or triplets the added share of land would be the same as though only single babies were born.

The land law is said to account partly for the increased birth rate noted among peasant families since the country emerged from the period of civil war and famine.

Favors Schaeffer

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Willie Hoppe, former balkline billiard champion, picks Jake Schaeffer to retain his title in a challenge match with Edouard Horemans, of Belgium, in Chicago, starting Nov. 30. "Schaeffer is the greatest match billiard player in the world, today," asserts Hoppe.

When the baseball writer of 1926 says that an infielder Peckinpawed a grounder, the wide awake world will understand.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

PRINCE OF WALES PICKS AMERICAN GIRL PARTNER

Only "Foreigner" Invited to Dance Given for Uruguayans by British Heir.

Montevideo.—The American colony here believes it has a joke on the British colony and also upon select Uruguayan society because the prince of Wales preferred an American girl as a dancing partner during the social festivities in his honor when he visited the Uruguayan capital.

They think also there is a joke somewhere on the prince, too, for when the prince especially invited her to the dance, the American girl would not go unless her fiance was also invited. He was and went, watched the prince dance with her three times in succession, and "cut in" when his highness begged for a fourth.

The prince saw her—Miss Veronica Purviance of Kansas City, daughter of Charles Purviance, manager of the Armour packing plant here—at a luncheon given to his royal highness by the British colony. Mr. Purviance had been invited, with his family, as president of the American Association of Montevideo.

The next day Miss Purviance received a card from the British minister saying that at his royal highness' request she was invited to attend a reception and dance the prince was giving. She answered that, as she was engaged, the invitation would have to include her fiance, with the result that a card also went to Leonard Welch of the Buenos Aires branch of the National City bank, who hurriedly took the next boat to Montevideo.

No other Americans and no English were invited to the dance, which was to repay the attentions of the Uruguayans. The Uruguayan senoritas of the best families were out in force. The three dances the prince danced with Miss Purviance were the first three, and it was said that when she reminded the prince that he had a duty to perform and should dance with the others, he replied:

"I'm fed up with duty dances." It was here that her fiance claimed her.

A Single Ride Explains Its Popularity!

A single ride proves why the Chrysler Four justly merits the tremendous popularity it has built up in a few short months.

In sustained high speeds—in pliability of power—in economy—in durability and in freedom from mechanical attention which result from high quality of design, materials and workmanship—in ease of handling—and most emphatically in riding steadiness and comfort—the Chrysler Four gives results not found combined in cars of any type even beyond it in price.

As distinctive as its performance is a beauty so advanced that popular desire sweeps towards it inevitably.

Your nearest Chrysler dealer is eager to give you this ride that proves why the Chrysler is the Favored Four among tens of thousands of owners.

CHRYSLER FOUR—Touring Car, $895; Club Coupe $905; Coach, $1045; Sedan, $1095. Hydraulic four-wheel brakes at slight extra cost.

CHRYSLER SIX—Phaeton, $1305; Coach, $1445; Roadster, $1625; Sedan, $1695; Royal Coupe, $1795; Brougham, $1865; Imperial, $1995; Crown Imperial, $2095.

All prices f.o.b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Bodies by Fisher on all Chrysler enclosed models. All models equipped with full balloon tires.

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan. Chrysler dealers and superior Chrysler service everywhere.

All Chrysler models are protected against theft by the Fedco patented car numbering system, exclusive with Chrysler, which cannot be counterfeited and cannot be altered or removed without conclusive evidence of tampering.

Are You One of the 98%?

Recently the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass., sent out over one hundred thousand questionnaires to women who had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, asking if they had been helped by its use. From the replies received 98 per cent of women, from all walks of life, answered in the affirmative, telling how they had been relieved from the various ailments for which they had taken it. Isn't this a wonderful recommendation for the efficiency of this old-fashioned root and herb medicine.

Total attendance in gymnasium classes at the Y. M. C. A. during the month of October amounted to 887, of which 332 were men, 105 women and girls and 450 boys, according to the report of Physical Director T. F. Scheffer. A grand total of 1,162 persons made use of the swimming pool and shower baths.

The gymnasium classes opened the 1925-26 season October 1. Records at the "Y" show that many men and boys are taking advantage of the equipment offered by the association to its membership. In the roster of Business Men's "A" group are Rev. F. G. Fowler, Maurice Newman, R. H. Perry, O. H. Dawson, Rev. L. J. Davison, Leon Rubin, E. L. Carson, W. H. Nagel, I. A. Blumberg, R. J. McElravy, Ralph Stein, H. Dan Smith, Rev. A. H. O'Brien, W. T. McNutt, I. A. Burbick, W. O. Bloor, C. G. Metsch, J. C. Smith, W. F. Lones, R. T. Couch, D. D. Irwin, C. C. Ashbaugh and A. E. Harris.

The Business Men's "B" group includes E. J. Gaston, W. F. Lunsford, J. W. Greene, Frank Diamond, Albert Pittenger, J. Walter Smith, W. A. Betz, Lemuel Wasbutzky, A. E. Stoddard, T. E. Lewis, A. L. White, D. J. Smally, R. R. Rigby, Fletcher Chadwick, H. J. Price, Collin F. Kinsey, G. W. Durkee, L. R. Burbick, L. J. Lavin, David Sahol, Edward Adams and Harold Downard.

The work offered in the business men's classes consists of calisthenics, with piano accompaniment, indoor baseball and volleyball. There is sufficient room in both men's classes for additional members and enrollment may be made at any time.

In addition to the regular classes the gymnasium is open to those wishing to "work out" alone when it does not interfere with other classes. A special room equipped with chest weights, punching bag and rowing machine is available at all times.

Special features which will be introduced in the gymnasium classes this month include an athletic tournament for members of the boys' division, a senior basketball league, health talks and formation of a boys' leader club.

Sousa Lauds Jazz.

CLEVELAND.—"Jazz, whatever it is, has improved American legs and shortened skirts," said John Philip Sousa, here for a concert.

"The average woman has danced until she has the kind of understanding that goes with short skirt. The bystander sees much less that is distressing to gaze upon than in the petticoat days of '90." Jazz? What is jazz?" And John Philip Sousa, laughed heartily.

With a cast composed entirely of members of the family of John Buchanan, the novelist, and all minor parts by other relatives, a play was presented at Broughton, England, recently.

Central Press Photo

Head Hunting in Luzon Replaced by Tame Games

New York.—"I was surprised and somewhat disappointed to learn when I reached the Philippines that head-hunting tribes had given up their ancient pastime under persuasion of American officials," declared Alvin Coombe, who recently has been around the world with his family.

"While I didn't get the thrill I expected, my curiosity brought me one of the most interesting bits of information I picked up during the entire trip.

"An army officer, who had held some administrative job in the northern part of Luzon island, where head-hunting had its greatest vogue, told me they had changed their habits by teaching them American sports.

"A successful collector of skulls enjoyed the same prestige in his community as a successful collector of home runs on an American baseball team.

"It was sound reasoning, and I think it could be applied in other parts of the world where half-civilized peoples who have no sports amuse themselves and reveal the competitive spirit in feuds and prolonged murder tournaments.

"I think the most attractive part of the new school of recreation to the savage is the gallery his games attract. When he hunted heads he hunted alone. He gets more kicks from the cheers of the spectators at the games than from the deferred praise for a successful head hunt."

'Show-Ott, Comes to Ceramic Theatre At $1.50 Top Price

Great American Comedy, Enroute From Chicago to East Will Visit Here Nov. 12.

As a result of a suggestion made by Manager William Tallman, of the Ceramic theatre, the management of "The Show-Off," declared by newspaper critics to be the greatest American comedy ever staged, will be presented here Thursday evening, November 12, at a top price of $1.50 and war tax as an experiment.

This concession was made despite the fact that $2.50 was the top price in New York, Chicago, Toronto, Canada, Buffalo, N. Y., Youngstown, Canton and other cities in which George Kelly's sensational success has appeared. The company will visit East Liverpool en route to the east, where it will play an extended engagement.

"The Show-Off" has broken box office records wherever it has appeared.

If there were more real American plays of American life by American authors like George Kelly with his keen insight, we should have better theatres, as local playgoers who visit "The Show-Off" after seeing this merry comedy with its note of tragedy sounded just once, but so ominously true for each and all that it compels almost breathless attention. Then, too, "The Show-Off" as depicted by Raymond Walburn has caught on in great shape with his misquotations, his ignorance and his continuous braying, "Sign on the dotted line."

The "show-off" himself is a bluffing braggart, a conceited ass, not vicious, not dishonest nor brutal. A queer mixture of ego and assinity, with the sort of a complex with which psychologists would love to experiment during its formative stage. A loud and continuous laugh is the warning which invariably heralds his entrance and exits. He is impervious to ridicule and even direct insult; self satisfied, a poseur and a four-flusher, net. But here is where the playright has done skillful work. He reveals, little by little, a latent common sense underneath the ego-encrusted exterior, and at the end of the play one has a feeling that Aubrey Piper, while he always will be a flamboyant admirer of his own self, will none the less be successful. He is characteristic of his day and age, his country and his kind—but not his city. He lives in Philadelphia. One does not associate show-offs with that somnolent metropolis. "Ma" Fisher, as played by Mary Horne Morrison, her daughters, Amy and Clara, played by Miriam Cordell and Gertrude Fowler, are as clean cut and human as the people whom we rub shoulders with daily.

Made a Hit With Him

"My wife has taken your medicine and has been wonderfully benefited. For over four years she has had trouble with bloating and could scarcely eat any food because of this condition. Doctor's medicines did not help her and an operation was advised. Her brother, who is a druggist, sent her a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and it helped her at once. I cannot praise your medicine enough." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and druggists everywhere.

'Show-Ott, Comes to Ceramic Theatre At $1.50 Top Price

Great American Comedy, Enroute From Chicago to East Will Visit Here Nov. 12.

As a result of a suggestion made by Manager William Tallman, of the Ceramic theatre, the management of "The Show-Off," declared by newspaper critics to be the greatest American comedy ever staged, will be presented here Thursday evening, November 12, at a top price of $1.50 and war tax as an experiment.

This concession was made despite the fact that $2.50 was the top price in New York, Chicago, Toronto, Canada, Buffalo, N. Y., Youngstown, Canton and other cities in which George Kelly's sensational success has appeared. The company will visit East Liverpool en route to the east, where it will play an extended engagement.

"The Show-Off" has broken box office records wherever it has appeared.

If there were more real American plays of American life by American authors like George Kelly with his keen insight, we should have better theatres, as local playgoers who visit "The Show-Off" after seeing this merry comedy with its note of tragedy sounded just once, but so ominously true for each and all that it compels almost breathless attention. Then, too, "The Show-Off" as depicted by Raymond Walburn has caught on in great shape with his misquotations, his ignorance and his continuous braying, "Sign on the dotted line."

The "show-off" himself is a bluffing braggart, a conceited ass, not vicious, not dishonest nor brutal. A queer mixture of ego and assinity, with the sort of a complex with which psychologists would love to experiment during its formative stage. A loud and continuous laugh is the warning which invariably heralds his entrance and exits. He is impervious to ridicule and even direct insult; self satisfied, a poseur and a four-flusher, net. But here is where the playright has done skilful work. He reveals, little by little, a latent common sense underneath the ego-encrusted exterior, and at the end of the play one has a feeling that Aubrey Piper, while he always will be a flamboyant admirer of his own self, will none the less be successful. He is characteristic of his day and age, his country and his kind—but not his city. He lives in Philadelphia. One does not associate show-offs with that somnolent metropolis. "Ma" Fisher, as played by Mary Horne Morrison, her daughters, Amy and Clara, played by Miriam Cordell and Gertrude Fowler, are as clean cut and human as the people whom we rub shoulders with daily.

Made a Hit With Him

"My wife has taken your medicine and has been wonderfully benefited. For over four years she has had trouble with bloating and could scarcely eat any food because of this condition. Doctor's medicines did not help her and an operation was advised. Her brother, who is a druggist, sent her a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy and it helped her at once. I cannot praise your medicine enough." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Jesse D. Holloway and druggists everywhere.

'Show-Ott' Setting Can Be Laid In Any American Community

Great Comedy, Coming to Ceramic Theatre on Nov. 12, is Story of Life in Philadelphia.

Literary critics tell us that if writers who strive for realism will but set down on paper incidents in their own lives, or incidents in the lives of other people about them in their home towns, they will achieve a surer and swifter success than, let us say, one who was born in New York and never visits Texas and writes a novel of Texan folk. Perhaps George Kelly never had to be admonished for writing of things not within his own periphery. At any rate, being a realist, he has hewed close to the line and the result is "The Show Off," the comedy which comes to the Ceramic theatre Thursday, Nov. 12.

"The Show-off," while it's setting can be laid in any American community, is of life in Philadelphia, and what is more, is written by a Philadelphian, who is proud of his home town despite the comic quips professional humorists employed to draw laughts from the great American reading public.

Kelly, it seems, was born to be on the stage. His brother is the celebrated Walter C. Kelly, known wherever there is a vaudevill theatre, as "The Virginia Judge." Little wonder that George should take to the footlights; but even less wonder that he should later turn to writing for the stage, rather than seeking lasting fame as a Thespian. Several seasons as a legitimate actor, notably in "The Virginian," a season or two in vaudeville, and in an act of his own, and Kelly forsook the glare of the footlights to the more quiet and peaceful life of a dramatist in his own Philadelphia parlor. Followed one successful vaudeville playlet on the heels of another, which incidentally Stewart and French produced, and then came a long, long pause that presaged even greater things from the pen of this facile writer—his first play.

While "The Torch Bearers,' the sharp-edged satire on the evergrowing little theatre movement, set New York agog because of it's wit and keen philosophy, it proved to be more of an artistic than a financial success. Another long wait and "The Show-Off," produced also by Stewart and French, sponsors for everything he has ever written, came into New York one cold February day in 1923 and remained there for two solid years.

"Cowboy Girl," Big Musical Show, at Strand Theatre

What is called the most novel and attractive kind of a theatrical performance is the Lem B. Parker play, "The Cowboy Girl," which is at the Strand theatre today and tomorrow under the direction of the producers, Kilroy & Britton. "The Cowboy Girl" is melodramatic, musical and filled with live comedy. A very interesting dramatic story is told graphically. The costumes are bright, fresh looking and colorful. The scenery is picturesque and there are seven original song hits, introduced by a brilliant chorus of pretty cowgirls.

Norway has a business depression and thousands of men are out of work.

Mars Mystery Faces Solution In New Photographic Plate

Discloses Atmosphere Renewing Theory of Life on Faraway Planet, Dr. W. H. Wright Says.

SAN FRANCISCO.—A marvelous new photographic plate that takes remarkablely clear long-distance photographs and that may solve the mystery of Mars has been developed by Dr. W. H. Wright of Lick Observatory, on Mount Hamilton, fifty miles south of San Francisco.

By means of the new plate, which makes use of the new infra-red light, Dr. Wright has taken photographs of Mars disclosing that an atmosphere is present and thereby renewing the theory that life may exist on the mysterious planet about which so little has been learned.

Besides this, Dr. Wright has been able to take clear, sharp, photographs of San Jose and the Coast Range mountains, 30 miles away from Mount Hamilton, and of Yosemite Valley, 125 miles from the observatory. Photographs taken at the same time with ordinary plates disclosed nothing but a great bank of atmosphere haze.

May Be Life on Mars.

Along with his discussion of the new photographic plate, Dr. Wright had something to say about the possibility of life being present on Mars.

"Ih there life or are there human being on Mars? Well, you have asked me two questions," he said. "In answer I might say it's a million to one shot that there are no human beings on Mars, but life—well, that another matter.

"If we assume the theory of evolution to be true, and furthermore take it for granted that life in some form or other got started on Mars, it would be quite unreasonable, in fact absurd, to assume that organic forms followed the same course of development there as on earth. The chances would be largely against it.

"It is conceivable that the Martian may have developed into a being with no power of speech or hearing, but with a completely equipped radio set as a part of his body.

"Of course, this sounds absurd and far fetched, but it is no more so than to suppose that there are human beings like ourselves on Mars."

While experimenting with photographs of the planet made with various color schemes, Dr. Wright found reasons to believe that there is an atmosphere around Mars. His experiments showed that by using infra-red light the atmosphere or envelope of gases around the earth may be photographed through with comparative ease. When using the ordinary violet light a very few miles is the limit of the camera's eye.

This was seen by pictures taken by Dr. Wright from the top of Mount Hamilton toward San Jose.

In the picture taken with violet light, only the nearby ridge some six miles distant is visable. In the second picture the infra-red light rolls aside the curtain of the atmosphere, and San Jose, thirteen and a half miles away, and the coast range mountains, thirty miles distant, are as clear as the foregrounds.

Other Experiments.

Further experiments showed it possible to take pictures of the Yosemite Valley, 125 miles off, just as easily.

Two pictures of Mars show striking differences. Both were taken at the same time. The first picture shows only a grayish disk.

In the second picture with the clearing aid of the infra-red light, the mask is removed and the presence of shapes and outlines on the planet is clearly seen. This led to the assumption of Dr. Wright that Mars is surrounded by an atmosphere in some manner similar to that of our own earth.

Observations show that there is probably some oxygen in this atmosphere. Experts at the observatory on Mount Wilson estimate it to be about 15 per cent of the amount of our earth.

This is less than the percentage of oxygen found on top of Mount Everest, and no human being has ever been able to survive this scarcity long enough to reach the summit. Therefore, any living animal that we know of would necessarily have to be rebuilt physically to live upon Mars, Dr. Wright said.

Cartridges concealed in the tubes of a motorcycle owned by a farmer of Londonderry, Ireland, exploded while the machine was being repaired, and two mechanics in the repairshop were seriously injured by bullets.

Mars Mystery Faces Solution In New Photographic Plate

Discloses Atmosphere Renewing Theory of Life on Faraway Planet, Dr. W. H. Wright Says.

SAN FRANCISCO.—A marvelous new photographic plate that takes remarkablely clear long-distance photographs and that may solve the mystery of Mars has been developed by Dr. W. H. Wright of Lick Observatory, on Mount Hamilton, fifty miles south of San Francisco.

By means of the new plate, which makes use of the new infra-red light, Dr. Wright has taken photographs of Mars disclosing that an atmosphere is present and thereby renewing the theory that life may exist on the mysterious planet about which so little has been learned.

Besides this, Dr. Wright has been able to take clear, sharp, photographs of San Jose and the Coast Range mountains, 30 miles away from Mount Hamilton, and of Yosemite Valley, 125 miles from the observatory. Photographs taken at the same time with ordinary plates disclosed nothing but a great bank of atmosphere haze.

May Be Life on Mars.

Along with his discussion of the new photographic plate, Dr. Wright had something to say about the possibility of life being present on Mars.

"Ih there life or are there human being on Mars? Well, you have asked me two questions," he said. "In answer I might say it's a million to one shot that there are no human beings on Mars, but life—well, that another matter.

"If we assume the theory of evolution to be true, and furthermore take it for granted that life in some form or other got started on Mars, it would be quite unreasonable, in fact absurd, to assume that organic forms followed the same course of development there as on earth. The chances would be largely against it.

"It is conceivable that the Martian may have developed into a being with no power of speech or hearing, but with a completely equipped radio set as a part of his body.

"Of course, this sounds absurd and far fetched, but it is no more so than to suppose that there are human beings like ourselves on Mars."

While experimenting with photographs of the planet made with various color schemes, Dr. Wright found reasons to believe that there is an atmosphere around Mars. His experiments showed that by using infra-red light the atmosphere or envelope of gases around the earth may be photographed through with comparative ease. When using the ordinary violet light a very few miles is the limit of the camera's eye.

This was seen by pictures taken by Dr. Wright from the top of Mount Hamilton toward San Jose.

In the picture taken with violet light, only the nearby ridge some six miles distant is visable. In the second picture the infra-red light rolls aside the curtain of the atmosphere, and San Jose, thirteen and a half miles away, and the coast range mountains, thirty miles distant, are as clear as the foregrounds.

Other Experiments.

Further experiments showed it possible to take pictures of the Yosemite Valley, 125 miles off, just as easily.

Two pictures of Mars show striking differences. Both were taken at the same time. The first picture shows only a grayish disk.

In the second picture with the clearing aid of the infra-red light, the mask is removed and the presence of shapes and outlines on the planet is clearly seen. This led to the assumption of Dr. Wright that Mars is surrounded by an atmosphere in some manner similar to that of our own earth.

Observations show that there is probably some oxygen in this atmosphere. Experts at the observatory on Mount Wilson estimate it to be about 15 per cent of the amount of our earth.

This is less than the percentage of oxygen found on top of Mount Everest, and no human being has ever been able to survive this scarcity long enough to reach the summit. Therefore, any living animal that we know of would necessarily have to be rebuilt physically to live upon Mars, Dr. Wright said.

Cartridges concealed in the tubes of a motorcycle owned by a farmer of Londenderry, Ireland, exploded while the machine was being repaired, and two mechanics in the repairshop were seriously injured by bullets.

Sphinx Gets Backache in Her, or His, Old Age

Cairo.—The celebrated sphinx of Giza, who, historians believe, is between 5,000 and 6,000 years old, is having trouble with her (or his) back in her (or his) old age.

The back of the giant figure, which has withstood the wear of several milleniums, is showing signs of cracking, and the antiquities department of the Egyptian government is taking measures to strengthen it. The department is also clearing away the desert sands, which are constantly encroaching on the famous monument and already cover a part of it.

Kills Octopus

Olympia, Wash.—An octopus weighing 120 pounds with a nine-foot spread of tentacles was killed on Alki beach by Herbert Comode after a thrilling fight, during which one of the slimy arms was entwined around its captor's ankle. In the Fraser river a fisherman recently caught a sturgeon weighing 1,200 pounds, which yielded 50 pounds of caviar.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

Limestone Surface Deposits Vanishing In Speedy Fashion

WASHINGTON—More than 120,000,000 tons of limestone are used commercially in the United States very year, according to a survey conducted by the Department of Commerce. The study discloses that the surface deposits of limestone gradually are becoming exhausted, forcing more and more operators to employ underground methods of quarrying.

Owing to the lack of familiarity with mining for limestone, department experts have made a study to determine the methods in use, to ascertain what constitutes good and bad practice and to suggest improvements that will increase the officiency of the industry. This investigation conducted by the Bureau of Mines has placed at the disposal of quarrymen a great volume of information that officials believe will be of important benefit.

Makes remarkable recovery from bad sprain

WORKS LIKE WONDER TO RELIEVE PAIN

Shoulder sprained, returns to work next day

A remarkable case of quick relief from pain and a phenomenally rapid recovery from a bad sprain is told by a stockyards worker in Davenport, Iowa.

"I was loading a quarter of beef, and coming out of the cooler I slipped and sprained my shoulder. I used Sloan's Liniment and the next day I was able to go back to work. It does work like wonder to relieve pain."

This is one letter—typical of thousands received by the makers of Sloan's, that tell how sprains, bruises, lame muscles, have been helped by this wonderful liniment.

What is the secret of its marvelous effectiveness? It is the healing tide of fresh, new blood that Sloan's sends right to the place that hurts.

No need to rub. The medicine itself does the work. Quickly and surely it takes down the swelling and inflammation—drives out the pain. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

WORKS LIKE WONDER TO RELIEVE PAIN

Shoulder sprained, returns to work next day

A remarkable case of quick relief from pain and a phenomenally rapid recovery from a bad sprain is told by a stockyards worker in Davenport, Iowa.

"I was loading a quarter of beef, and coming out of the cooler I slipped and sprained my shoulder. I used Sloan's Liniment and the next day I was able to go back to work. It does work like wonder to relieve pain."

This is one letter—typical of thousands received by the makers of Sloan's, that tell how sprains, bruises, lame muscles, have been helped by this wonderful liniment.

What is the secret of its marvelous effectiveness? It is the healing tide of fresh, new blood that Sloan's sends right to the place that hurts.

No need to rub. The medicine itself does the work. Quickly and surely it takes down the swelling and inflammation—drives out the pain. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

Boston Uses Theater as School for Culture

Boston.—The opening of the Repertory theater of Boston with Sheridan's "The Rivals," gives official recognition to a theater as an educational institution, and thus is exempted from taxation.

Patterned somewhat along the lines of many civic theaters of Europe, the workers on this stage will strive not only for the perfection of their art, but also to give earnest students of the drama a chance to absorb the real atmosphere of the theater.

Its educational efforts will be to present plays of artistic merit to the public, to interest high school students in the theater, and to train and teach embryo actors and actresses.

Professional actors and actresses will play the characters while students look on at rehearsals and receive their instruction from these same professionals.

The theater is the outcome of years of effort, and for Henry Jewett, its director, and Mrs. Jewett, who has been the guiding hand in many phases of the work, it is a vision realized.

Finances of the theater will be handled by a board of trustees and the entire project will be non-profit making.

Mr. Jewett hopes eventually to buy original plays and send out road companies to show other cities what the Repertory theater is doing in the hope that similar projects may be launched elsewhere.

The theater itself cost $150,000 and embraces all that is modern. It will accommodate 499 people.

England's motorcycle and bycicle show, held recently, aroused so much interest that factories booked sufficient orders to run full time all winter.

My little Dorothy was pale and sickly and I worried because she didn't grow strong and robust. The doctor recommended Cod Liver Oil, so I gave her Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron Tablets—easy to take. You can't imagine the difference in Dorothy. If you have a boy or girl that needs building up, please try Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron Tablets.

Children make no fuss at all about taking it. They begin to gain weight at once. It builds up their bodies. It gives them red, rich, iron-filled blood. They get new vigor—new strength. No longer are they susceptible to frequent colds.

This wonderful tonic effect is shown almost immediately in their play and in their school work. They go to their studies with new enthusiasm and better results.

Remember the name — there are numerous so-called cod liver oil tablets on the market. Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron are the only tablets that combine the pure extract of cod liver oil and the great blood tonic—iron. For sale by Carnahan's Drug Co., 3 stores, and all good druggists.
